SECRETARY KNOX SPEAKS DIRECTLY TO 'FORTRESS'

Keel Of Another Craft Laid While First Is Still Moving Out

CAMDEN, N. J., June 7.—(AP)—The United States bid for unchallenged supremacy of the seas moved forward today with the launching of the 35,000-ton battleship South Dakota, which Secretary of the Navy Knox declared was built for the "prevention of war."

As the third battleship launched by the navy within a year slid down the ways four months ahead of schedule, Knox asserted the giant ship "will make a tremendous contribution to the safety of the country and all the people in it."

Philadelphia which holds government property, the secretary said:

"Your mission, the mission for which we built you, is not for war, but for the prevention of war, if God wills."

Mrs. Harlan J. Bushfield, wife of the governor of South Dakota, smashed a bottle of champagne on its prow.

The vessel was still moving across the Delaware river as workmen at the New York Shipbuilding company laid the keel of the 10,000-ton cruiser Santa Fe on the same ways, symbolizing the speed of the nation's drive for a two-ocean navy.

Knox told the 12,000 employees of the yard and 500 guests, including ranking naval officers and government officials, that "we must establish and maintain the greatest sea power and Final plans for the completion of the United States Organizations set-up for Northeast Louisiana will be made at a meeting at the city hall Monday night, starting at 7:30 o'clock, Ed C. Apperson, Fifth district chairman, announced Saturday.

The U. S. O., which has been organized at the request of President Roosevelt and other government officials to assist service men through the nation, will conduct a drive for funds in this section during the next two weeks, and district and parish officers have been named.

TRUCK RECIPROCITY AGREEMENT TO END

BATON ROUGE, La., June 7.—(AP)—The year-old trucking reciprocity agreement between Louisiana and Mississippi will end July 1 when the expiration of the agreement by the Louisiana revenue department will become effective.

Revenue Director Rufus W. Fontenot ordered the cancellation through van W. Patterson, head of the revenue department's motor vehicle division.

Patterson said Mississippi sheriffs and constables had failed to abide by provisions of the agreement and had persistently been collecting license fees and "costs" from privately-owned Louisiana trucks specifically exempted under terms of the agreement.

Some Louisiana truckers paid the license fees under protest only to find no refunds are allowed in Mississippi, Patterson said.

Director Fontenot, in a letter informing Mississippi Motor Vehicle Commissioner Frank Mize of the cancellation, said Louisiana could not return trucking reciprocity with the neighboring state until Mississippi changes its laws so fees may be collected by a central office at the Mississippi capital.

At present license fees are collected by individual county sheriffs who retain a percentage for collection costs.

The Louisiana-Mississippi agreement was signed May 25, 1940, after several years' negotiations. Without an agreement, Mississippi trucks will be required to purchase Louisiana licenses, requirement which has been waived while the agreement has been in effect.

NAZIS DISCLAIM PEACE STORIES

Assert Propaganda Coming From Britain And United States

BERLIN, June 7.—(AP)—An authorized spokesman today disclaimed German responsibility for circulation of peace stories in the United States, as charged by President Roosevelt, and laid the blame on "the other side."

"We understand," said the spokesman, "that the president believes he had German propaganda orders directing German-friendly elements to spread stories that England is at the point of collapse and wanting peace."

"As a matter of fact this story comes not from us but from English and American sources."

The spokesman said that President Roosevelt's statement was "based on falsified documents or false information."

(President Roosevelt at his press conference Friday, denying that Britain was seeking peace, said that he had on his desk two orders issued by the German official propaganda agency in Berlin, one directing Nazis and Fascists in the United States to stress the idea that Germany had no hostile intention toward any country in the Western Hemisphere, and the second ordering them to circulate the story that Ambassador Winant, home from London, was bringing word that Britain was all in and was talking peace.)

The spokesman gave numerous quotations which he attributed to American and British leaders to the effect that Britain would collapse if American aid were not granted immediately.

He cited President Roosevelt himself, Wendell Willkie, Major-General

HAYNESVILLE MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

HAYNESVILLE, La., June 7.—(AP)—E. B. Stall, 47, clerk and cashier for the Louisiana and Northwestern Railway Company, was found in dying condition at the railway offices here early today.

Stall had been shot once through the head with a .38-caliber revolver, the weapon, with one cylinder dented, charged, being found by his side. The injured man was taken to a local hospital, where he died a few hours later.

Discovery of the dying man occurred when W. A. Crawford, agent, entered the building at 7:45 a.m.

Mr. Stall had been with the L. and N. W. here since 1938. He was previously with the Illinois Central at Gibsland, where he was employed from 1922 to 1930.

Stall is survived by his wife.

According to authorities who investigated the shooting, there were no witnesses, and no note was left. Stall was apparently in good health and his accounts at the railway offices were reported in good condition.

Coroner F. Palmer of Homer held an inquest and pronounced the death a suicide.

FRENCH-MANDATED SYRIA'S SITUATION IS PRECARIOUS

Becomes Chip On British And German Shoulders Awaiting Blow

(By Associated Press)

German troops were reported massing in Moldavia, eastern province of Rumania, today (Sunday) as developments in the Balkans and Middle East indicated the slow gathering of forces for the opening of a new phase of the war.

Other Axis men and machines, it was indicated, were continuing a steady infiltration into Syria, the French-ruled territory which seemed fated to be the next battleground in the German and Italian effort to push Britain out of the Mediterranean.

A British news agency, Reuters, reported from Turkey that blue-gray Nazis were being moved out of their many camps in Bulgaria to positions facing the Red Army in Russia.

Partial confirmation of something astir in the Balkans was reported in a Hungarian radio broadcast which said Rumania was taking extraordinary military precautions, mobilizing troops, building air raid shelters and drastically curtailing ordinary railway passenger traffic.

These precautions, the radio said, were especially noticeable in Moldavia.

Soviet Russia was thrust sharply to the fore in the rapidly developing middle east crisis last night by a British radio report that Adolf Hitler is expected to make a momentous declaration, probably Monday, on German-Soviet relations.

The government-controlled British Broadcasting corporation in a French language broadcast further quoted a Zurich, Switzerland, dispatch to the effect that Hitler also might "give the outlines of his peace plan."

There was no clue as to the nature of the Nazi Fuehrer's expected declaration and there was no confirmation from Berlin that he even contemplated any such move.

The report, however, recalled dispatches Thursday from Ankara, Turkey, that Germany was putting heavy pressure on the Soviet Union for access to rich wheat granaries of the Ukraine, by concentrating 155 German and Rumanian divisions for a joint German-Rumanian invasion of the Soviet by mid-June.

ASK DRAFT AGE FROM 21 TO 24

Military Leaders Think Proposed Limit Of 28 Still Too High

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—Reports that military leaders favor limiting army conscription to men from 21 through 24 years old circulated at the capitol today.

For this reason, administration leaders said they favored amending the selective service law to leave President Roosevelt a free hand in deciding the top age limit at which men would be inducted. Their proposal would mean revision of a bill approved by the senate military committee which would permit the president to defer from active service only those draft registrants who had reached or passed their twenty-eighth birthday.

Originally, the administration had asked authority for Mr. Roosevelt to defer any age group, but its measure was rewritten by adoption of a Republican-sponsored amendment.

Chairman Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina, of the military committee said he would urge that the senate return to the original draft of the bill as submitted by the war department.

On the other hand, Senator Gurney, Republican South Dakota, author of the committee-approved amendment, said most Republicans and many Democrats were interested in seeing that a definite age limit was written into the bill.

"The war department's bill contains the same old story of writing a blank check for the president," Gurney declared. "We want to specify the age

Interpreting The War News: Germans Claim War Effective Enough

By Kirke L. Simpson (Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

Nazi assertions that Britain is "bleeding to death" at sea-citing claimed destruction of well over half of the merchant tonnage the British had when the war started—are designed in part to mislead President Roosevelt's recent fireside broadcast.

They meet head on his challenge that control of the sea—particularly of the Atlantic—is essential to victory and that to achieve it the axis "must capture Great Britain." If the axis powers fail to gain sea control, the president added, "they are certainly defeated."

The Berlin claim of nearly 12 million tons of British shipping destroyed thus far in the war, including approximately 750,000 tons in the month of May alone, does not go unchallenged. The British official accounting is about half of that.

Even so, the situation in the Atlantic (where British and American official views agree that the final outcome of the war will be staged) is sinister enough. Nor can the return of Ambassador Winant from London for Washington conferences at so grave an hour for Britain in both the Mediterranean and the Atlantic be passed over as mere routine.

American pledges of all-out aid to Britain, reiterated by Roosevelt recently, require absolute first-hand knowledge of Britain's plight. It goes without saying that Winant brought with him some new glimpse of British strategy revised since the Crete disaster and the Franco-British crisis, and too important to be trusted even to diplomatic mails.

Whatever the facts as to tonnage recently sunk or put out of action in the Atlantic—and most of the damage has been there—Berlin's "Britain bleeding-to-death" statement could have another purpose.

It says in effect that the battle of the Atlantic already is won by Germany, and that nothing this country can do can alter the trend. That implies that no substantial increase in Nazi war effort in the west is necessary or to be expected—and that attempted invasion of England with the United Automobile Workers union which closed the plant of the North American Aviation corporation of Inglewood, Calif., and halted work on $196,000,000 airplane orders for the United States and Britain, will end Monday—or else. President Roosevelt yesterday issued an ultimatum to the strikers to return to work or the government will take over and operate the factory.

Ranks of the C. I. O. union involved in the strike were split wide open when Richard T. Frankenstein, head of the aircraft division of the U. A. W., declared the walkout was unauthorized.

Attorney General Says Reorganization Law 'Voice Of People'

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—(AP)—State attorneys charged today that success for the suit involving constitutionality of the reorganization act would mean "the administration of government in Louisiana will become chaotic and impossible."

The assertion was contained in a supplemental brief filed in connection with the suit in the Louisiana supreme court by state attorneys headed by Attorney General Eugene Stanley.

At the same time, in a separate statement, Martin Close, state director of finance, said that if the reorganization act is held unconstitutional by the high tribunal it would cost the state at least $500,000 a year in printing alone.

"The people's right to amend their fundamental law," the brief filed by Stanley and others declared, "stands as an eternal beacon in the democratic process."

"It is a right not to be treated lightly by the judiciary, the executive or the legislature. Never in the history of this court has a constitutional amendment approved by vote of the people been held unconstitutional."

"When the voice of the people speaks with the unity and clarity of purpose expressed in the reorganization amendment, as we have so clearly shown, an attack such as that here attempted cannot prevail. FORD WILL RUSH LANDING GEARS

Production To Start Months Before Special Plant Completed

DETROIT, June 7.—(AP)—The Ford Motor company expects to be turning out massive landing gears for the 28-ton B24-D bomber planes months before the huge plane parts plant it is erecting near Ypsilanti, Mich., is ready for production.

This was disclosed today by Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., when he said that work on "an educational order" already is under way.

Because the tricycle landing gear presents one of the "tough" production problems, he said, the Ford company has set aside a section of its tire building factory at the River Rouge plant to get work on the so-called "Oleos" started with a minimum of delay.

"Within a week or 10 days," Ford said today, "the first of the three part strut sections of the landing gears will be completed. While these parts are being inspected by the army air corps, we'll be organizing a department in the tire plant to produce landing gears for five bombers a day."

The entire production unit can be

MUST SETTLE BY MONDAY OR ARMY TO SEIZE PLANT

Early Reveals Documents For Drastic Action Already Prepared

F. D. R. PLANS PRESSURE TO END ANOTHER WALKOUT

Moves For Resumption Of Work In San Francisco Shipyards

By Richard L. Turner (Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt issued an ultimatum today to the North American Aviation Corporation strikers—go back to work on Monday or the government will seize the plant and the army will operate it.

Stephen T. Early, a presidential secretary, grimly and firmly made this announcement to newspapermen and told them that the documents necessary to this highly unusual action had already been drawn up. The president will sign them, he said, unless the strikers decide to resume work at a mass meeting scheduled for tomorrow night.

The paper would, in fact, have been signed late yesterday, he disclosed further, but at the last minute it was learned that the meeting was called and the president was advised there was a real chance that the workers themselves would decide to end the strike.

At the same time, Early revealed that Mr. Roosevelt was taking action to end a second strike—that in the San Francisco shipyards. A telegram was dispatched today to Harvey W. Brown, head of the International Machinists Union (A. F. L.), asking him to appear at the White House Monday for a conference with the president. The shipyard machinists are on strike.

Briefly, the presidential secretary mentioned another strike situation—in the Pacific Northwest's lumber industry. Mr. Roosevelt was not countenancing or condoning this stoppage, he said, but there was no shortage of lumber because the industry in other areas was capable of meeting

Frankenstein Charges Strike Communist-Inspired, Unauthorized

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 7.—(P)—Ranks of the C. I. O. in the North American Aircraft corporation strike split wide open tonight as Richard T. Frankenstein, national head of the United Automobile Workers' aircraft division, charged that the walkout was without authorization or approval.

Bitterly censuring the local membership in a nationwide broadcast, Frankenstein said:

His rebuff, delivered first at a conference with the local's strike committee, a few hours after President Roosevelt had ordered the plant reopened voluntarily Monday with the alternative of army action, brought the following comment from Elmer Freitag of the committee:

"It is the unanimous opinion of the committee that the workers stay out until the 75-cent (per hour) minimum wage and the 10 cents an hour general raise are obtained."

FEARS CHAOS IF ACT INVALIDATED

Attorney General Says Reorganization Law 'Voice Of People'

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—(P)—State attorneys charged today that success for the suit involving constitutionality of the reorganization act would mean "the administration of government in Louisiana will become chaotic and impossible."

The assertion was contained in a supplemental brief filed in connection with the suit in the Louisiana supreme court by state attorneys headed by Attorney General Eugene Stanley.

At the same time, in a separate statement, Martin Close, state director of finance, said that if the reorganization act is held unconstitutional by the high tribunal it would cost the state at least $500,000 a year in printing alone.

"The people's right to amend their fundamental law," the brief filed by Stanley and others declared, "stands as an eternal beacon in the democratic process."

"It is a right not to be treated lightly by the judiciary, the executive or the legislature. Never in the history of this court has a constitutional amendment approved by vote of the people been held unconstitutional."

"When the voice of the people speaks with the unity and clarity of purpose expressed in the reorganization amendment, as we have so clearly shown, an attack such as that here attempted cannot prevail. The respondents cannot set themselves up against the overwhelming demands of the people themselves."

"If this suit can be maintained by persons who are neither residents, citizens nor taxpayers of Louisiana . . . it means that the administration of government in Louisiana will become chaotic and impossible and that the supreme court and not the gov-

Three Killed As Storm Hits Near DeQuincy

LAKE CHARLES, La., June 7.—(P)—Three persons were killed and two others seriously injured when a cyclone sweeping down from the northwest struck a pine shack about three miles northwest of DeQuincy, demolishing the house.

The cyclone hit at about 9:45 a.m. and no further damage, either to the city of DeQuincy or elsewhere, was reported.

The dead are Mrs. David Mahaffey, her three-year-old son, and Alonzo Smith, 17-year-old brother of Willie Smith, proprietor of the home.

The injured were Willie Smith and a six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Mahaffey. The extent of their injuries were not ascertained early this afternoon, but it is known that the six-year-old injured boy was

JONES ASKS FREE VOICE OF PRESS

Tells Editors To Comment In Unrestricted Way On Politics

HOUMA, La., June 7.—(P)—Louisiana newspapers were told today by Governor Sam Jones that self-imposed censorship in commenting on state politics need no longer be because now papers could feel free to take sides as they saw fit.

"I know that many editors of small papers try to stay out of politics because of the pressure of economics," Jones said, speaking before the annual convention of the Louisiana Press association.

"It is often considered poor business policy to take sides in any political campaign, even when the issues are serious and the outcome a matter of grave import to the whole community, the whole state."

"That is a kind of censorship, self-imposed. I hope we will have even less of that kind of censorship. I hope the political health of this state will be improved by the fine civic consciences, articulate and temperate, of you people here (editors). . . ."

"There have been administrations in Louisiana which have attempted to gag and muzzle the press in order to subvert you to base political ends. No longer, my friends. You are free now to hop on Sam Jones and his policies whenever you feel that you must. You will never see an attempt made to pass any law aimed at your freedom—as was done once. . . ."

"You remember the day when the state administration held the power of life or death over you. All printing contracts were the result of favoritism."

"Now all editors will have a chance to bid, in the open market, for printing contracts let by the state. Under

MUST SETTLE BY MONDAY OR ARMY TO SEIZE PLANT

Early Reveals Documents For Drastic Action Already Prepared

F. D. R. PLANS PRESSURE TO END ANOTHER WALKOUT

Moves For Resumption Of Work In San Francisco Shipyards

By Richard L. Turner
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(P)—President Roosevelt issued an ultimatum today to the North American Aviation Corporation strikers—go back to work on Monday or the government will seize the plant and the army will operate it.

Stephen T. Early, a presidential secretary, grimly and firmly made this announcement to newspapermen and told them that the documents necessary to this highly unusual action had already been drawn up. The president will sign them, he said, unless the strikers decide to resume work at a mass meeting scheduled for tomorrow night.

The paper would, in fact, have been signed last yesterday, he disclosed further, but at the last minute it was learned the meeting had been called and the president was advised there was a real chance that the workers themselves would decide to end the strike.

At the same time, Early revealed that Mr. Roosevelt was taking action to end a second strike—that in the San Francisco shipyards. A telegram was dispatched today to Harvey W. Brown, head of the International Machinists' Union (A. F. L.) asking him to appear at the White House on Monday for a conference with the president. The shipyard machinists are on strike.

Briefly, the presidential secretary mentioned another strike situation—in the Pacific Northwest lumber industry. Mr. Roosevelt was not countenancing or condoning this stoppage, he said, but there was no shortage of lumber because the industry in other areas was capable of meeting

Actual production at the bomber plant probably will not be undertaken until after next January 1, although considerable progress is being made in the construction work.

Cost of the new bomber parts plant, originally set at $11,000,000 has been increased to $13,000,000 with the development of plans for larger output volume and the probability that instead of merely manufacturing sub-assemblies there, the Ford company will assemble complete planes on a "ready to fly" basis.

With this end in view, provision has been made for the addition of a mile-long assembly line to the plans.

He said that testimony before the committee had been to the effect that only 10 per cent of those selected for army service were more than 27 years old, adding that "90 per cent of the trouble" over operation of the draft law came from the older brackets. Appeals from decisions of draft boards, the committee was told, came principally from older men.

Reynolds said, however, that he believed the president ought to have a free hand in fixing the age limits, guided by recommendations of military experts.

According to Holbrook, the bodies of the dead were thrown between 100 and 150 yards from the site of the shack, and that even a heavy cooking stove was blown a good distance away from the building.

Governor Jones told the editors that they were deserving of much credit for encouraging balanced agriculture in Louisiana, for promoting defense efforts and for pushing beneficial enterprises. He particularly praised the effective work of the state's weekly newspapers.

Saying as a schoolboy he wanted to become a newspaperman, Jones declared:

east at 6:45 p.m. Pacific standard time, but could not be arranged on a western hookup until 9:15 p.m.

The cleavage threw the strike situation into a mass meeting called for 3 p.m. tomorrow, when Frankenstein and Freilag, and supporters of each, will speak.

The factory, which has a backlog of nearly $200,000,000 in military aircraft orders, employs 8,000 in its production division. The C. I. O. claims 7,000 of them as members.

J. H. Kindelberger, North American president, issued an order, meanwhile, for all employees to report for their regular shifts Monday.

Frankenstein, who flew here from Detroit, said in part, in an address broadcast by CBS:

"The strike was called by local leaders of the local union completely without authorization of the United Automobile Workers union or the C. I. O."

"The strike was called by local leaders while negotiations were still in progress before the national defense mediation board. It was called in direct violation of the agreement made by local leaders to keep the plant in operation until the board had completed its findings, and despite the fact that the company had agreed to make all wage adjustments retroactive on May 1."

"The irresponsible, inexperienced and impulsive action of local leaders in violating their own agreement to find no support from myself or our organization. We have vigorously condemned such action before. I condemn it now."

Frankenstein said he had been working for two days "that local leaders may rectify this serious mistake" and the plant could resume operations until the mediation board completed its findings.

He said the overwhelming majority of North American workers regarded the strike as "a serious agitation, the vicious underhanded maneuvering of the Communist party," and added:

"I take this opportunity of serving notice on the Communists that they must keep their hands off the policies and the affairs of the aircraft division of the C. I. O. here on the west coast. I am speaking with the full knowledge and accord of Philip Murray of the C. I. O. and President R. J. Thomas of the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.) when I say that the C. I. O. does not intend to allow the interests of a majority of the North American workers or the interests of five million members of the C. I. O. to be endangered by the irresponsible action of a minority."

Frankenstein said he had informed the defense mediation board of the official position of the C. I. O.—that the record of the board in situations involving the C. I. O. was outstandingly fair, and that the board's actions had been speedy, just and decisive.

Striking aircraft workers at Inglewood, Calif., will meet this afternoon to decide whether they want to return to their jobs or see the army take over the employer's plant.

They were given their choice yesterday when the White House announced that President Roosevelt had at his elbow papers to order army aviation plant, and would sign them.

The union strikers agreed to go back to their jobs on Monday.

White House Secretary Stephen Early said the president hoped the workers would settle the dispute in orderly fashion, but at the same time it was made plain the government desired and intended to have production resumed immediately on $196,000,000 worth of warplane orders for the United States and Great Britain.

The strike started on Thursday after the defense mediation board had sought to bring the company and the C. I. O.'s United Automobile Workers, aircraft division, into accord, the union demanded a general wage increase of 50 to 75 cents an hour, an increase from 50 to 75 cents an hour in the minimum wage rate and a union shop. About 11,500 workers are idle as a result of the strike.

Evidence that Mr. Roosevelt also was giving personal attention to another west coast strike came in the further White House announcement that the president had asked Harvey W. Brown, head of the A. F. of L.'s machinist union, to come in for a talk about a strike in shipyards in the San Francisco bay area.

In that situation, the strikers rejected the terms of a conciliation mediation agreement, approved by national officers of the A. F. of L. metal trades, which provided raises to $11.25 cents an hour. They demanded increases to $11.50 and double time for overtime instead of time and a half as provided by the master agreement. The original rate averaged about $1 an hour.

At Plainville, Conn., about 1,100 employees of the Marlin Rockwell corporation's ball bearing plant will consider today a proposal of the defense mediation board that they go back to work pending the outcome of negotiations in Washington. That strike started on May 27. Union representatives said they asked a 10-cent increase in hourly wages of all workers. The average wage for men is 45 cents and for women 40 cents.

The status of labor relations in the great Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company was a matter of dispute. Ray Bausch, plant superintendent, said there had been a "slowdown" by workers, but William B. Taylor, assistant director of the Ford Organizing Committee of the U. A. W.-C. I. O., insisted that "the union has received no word of a slowdown." He said union officials "don't want any incident to interfere with negotiations" for a contract.

In Washington there were renewed urgings that defense production stoppages be ended by legislation or voluntary action.

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, said in a statement he would press "vigorously" for quick action on his bill to authorize the government to take over operation of any plant engaged in defense production where production is "hampered, delayed or impeded or stopped by the existence of a strike or other labor disturbance or other cause."

the next day, an authorized Nazi spokesman declared: "Be assured of no political earthquake in that region."

Furthermore, there came reports from Vichy, France, last week that Hitler had met secretly with Joseph Stalin and agreed upon a program of collaboration by which Russia would undertake to deliver bread to a Hitler-dominated Europe.

A hint that something might be stirring in southeastern Europe was seen in a Bucharest announcement of a drastic curtailment of passenger train service, effective this Sunday, to clear the tracks for heavy freight traffic.

The need for heavy movement of freight was given as the reason for the curtailment, but observers speculated on the possibility of important military movements—either against Russia or through the Black sea against the British in the middle east—which might require the utmost use of rail facilities.

A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Ankara reported today that German troops were moving from Bulgaria into Moldavia in eastern Rumania, and occupying positions on the Russian frontier.

Possibility of another axis declaration this week came from Rome with the summoning of the Italian chamber of fates and guilds, which has replaced the chamber of deputies in the Fascist regime, to meet in special session June 10, the first anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war.

Amidst all this behind-the-front activity, French-mandated Syria has become a precarious ship on both British and German shoulders, each belligerent waiting and preparing for the moment the other will knock it off.

A dominant factor in Britain's preparations, it was said in London last night, was the speed with which American-made war equipment and materials reach the middle east zone of battle.

American-made tanks already have been reported in battle near Tobruk, where besieged British forces have the flank of a threatened axis drive on Suez from the west.

W. Averell Harriman, in London to expedite the American aid-to-Britain program, was reliably reported preparing to leave soon for an extended survey of Britain's middle east fronts and requirements.

It is the eastern or Syrian flank of Suez that most concerns Britain now. One week has passed since she wound up her war-within-a-war in Iraq, and since Germany, with last-stage Italian help, mopped up Crete, with the axis thus gaining a tremendous advantage for the eastern Mediterranean conflict and Britain regaining the strategic position that had been heretofore in Iraq.

That week has been replete with claims and counter-claims, reports and denials, dark hints and open avowals as to what part French-mandated Syria will play in the developing Battle of Suez.

The France of Marshal Petain, denying that Germany was attempting to use Syria as a springboard for a staunch defense of her mandate with her own forces, threatened to collide with Britain, who held that Syria already had or was likely to become a great Axis base for a drive toward the Suez canal.

Broad were British hints that Britain, before the Axis could well establish itself in Syria, would make occupying the mandate in decisive self-protection.

Last night nothing had come of these hints and avowals except more talk and a fresh crop of reports on Germany's hand in Syria, to wit: 1. General Henri Dentz, high commissioner and military commander in Syria, asked Vichy to send more troops "and, if necessary, German troops" to take the place of those wavering to the de Gaulle Free French cause. This came off the British radio, credited to the Free French news agency.

This report added that Dentz already had handed over to Germans arriving as "tourists" the control of anti-aircraft stations in Syria. 2. Luftwaffe engineers have begun construction of a base at Latakia, Syrian port, from which German aircraft could strike easily at the British naval base of Cyprus. This report was current in Ankara, Turkey, where earlier in the week reliable informants said German motorized troops had been landed at Latakia.

3. Eight German pocket submarines, short-range craft suited to the narrow waters of the Mediterranean, have been seen during the past week at Beirut, Lebanon. This report, likewise originating in jittery Ankara, was relayed by Reuters, British news agency.

Such U-boats might be handy in easing a pathway through British sea-lanes for troopships en route to Syria from Greece.

4. Several hundred tons of gasoline have been unloaded at Latakia by a Hungarian tanker—also an Ankara report.

5. Aleppo, Palmyra and Damascus airbases were being converted swiftly into full-fledged Luftwaffe bases—this was common talk in British circles throughout the Middle East.

Certain Britons, customarily well-informed but now as confused as anyone else, had looked for a prompt display of British initiative. Decisive action had been anticipated for some time. But nothing happened. British sources were left to conclude that reports of German movements had been exaggerated and possibly encouraged by the Germans trying to provoke a premature British move. Britain perhaps was playing a wary all necessities for that product. The plain intimation was that for the present action in the lumber strike was not considered necessary.

The North American Aviation Corporation, located at Inglewood, Calif., has been producing medium bombing planes and training planes at a rate of eight to 10 daily. It employs 11,500 workers and holds contracts for $196,000,000 worth of planes.

After two postponements requested by the defense mediation board, the strike was called on Thursday morning by the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.). The union demands a union shop, a general wage increase of 50 to 75 cents an hour and that the minimum wage rate be increased from 50 to 75 cents an hour.

Early said the shortage of planes for American defense and for aid to Britain was so pressing that the stoppage could not be permitted to continue. The president decided yesterday, he said, that the strike must end by Monday.

Under army operation, he said, all workers would be given an opportunity to return to their jobs and, further, union picket lines would not be permitted to interfere.

Beyond that there was no intimation of what might be done for a resumption of operations or put pressure on the men to return to their jobs, should they refuse to do so. However, it was suggested unofficially that the government would have several lines of action at its command—though some might require legislation. Draft deferments for the temporary of the office of district attorney in Lake Charles pending a special election to name a successor to the late C. V. Pattison, district attorney, who died suddenly this week.

Stanley indicated the appointment would be made after Monday when he will confer in Baton Rouge with the two existing assistant district attorneys in the 14th judicial district to determine the condition of the docket there, and ascertain from them, as a condition of their reinstatement, if either was a candidate for the district attorneyship.

Stanley explained that under the law Governor Sam Jones must call a special election to fill the post, probably within 60 days. Stanley said he would assign one of his assistants temporarily to the office because he did not want in any way to influence the election through appointing someone interested in the candidacy.

Actual production at the bomber plant probably will not be undertaken until after next January 1, although considerable progress is being made in the construction work.

Cost of the new bomber parts plant, originally set at $11,000,000 has been increased to $18,000,000 with the development of plans for larger output volume and the probability that instead of merely manufacturing sub-assemblies there, the Ford company will assemble complete planes on a "ready to fly" basis.

With this end in view, provision has been made for the addition of a million assembly line to the plant.

He said that testimony before the committee had been to the effect that only 10 per cent of those selected for army service were more than 21 years old, adding that "90 per cent of the draft law came from the older brackets. Appeals from decisions of draft boards, the committee was told, came principally from older men."

Reynolds said, however, that he believed the president ought to have a free hand in fixing the age limits, guided by recommendations of military experts.

Three Killed As Storm Hits Near DeQuincy

taken to a DeQuincy hospital by W. E. Holbrook, president of the Calcasieu parish police jury who lives in DeQuincy. Holbrook reported the accident.

According to Holbrook, the bodies of the dead were thrown between 100 and 150 yards from the site of the shack, and that even a heavy cooking stove was blown a good distance away from the building.

Willie Smith and David Mahaffey are said to be laborers who have been working for relief agencies.

Alonso Smith, one of the victims of the "twister," was a member of the 1941 graduating class of the DeQuincy High school.

"Yes, support the right. Then it doesn't matter who you support. If you support decency and efficiency and democracy in government you will be helping your nation and it will then be up to me to be on the same side. I think, my friends, you will always find me there."

Governor Jones told the editors that they were deserving of much credit for encouraging balanced agriculture in Louisiana, for promoting defense efforts and for pushing beneficial enterprises. He particularly praised the effective work of the state's weekly newspapers.

Saying as a schoolboy he wanted to become a newspaperman, Jones declared:

"Malignant fate frustrated my ambition. I became instead first a lawyer and then a governor. You can see that I am slowly working my way up. I may become a newspaperman yet."

The governor came to Houma by airplane with his secretary, Roland Coreham, his publicity director, James B. Aswell, and State Minerals Director Joseph McCue.

"In fact," he said, "we are breaking our heads to devise means of convincing the Western Hemisphere that our sole purpose is peaceful collaboration."

The high command today reported "especially successful" German air raids on British sea commerce yesterday, sinking a 3,000-ton freighter in a convoy off West Africa and two vessels totalling 27,500 tons off western Scotland.

In addition, two merchantmen were damaged in the Thames estuary, the Germans said.

east at 6:45 p.m. Pacific standard time, but could not be arranged on a western hookup until 9:15 p.m.

The cleavage threw the strike situation into a mass meeting called for 3 p.m. tomorrow, when Frankenstein and Freitag, and supporters of each, will speak.

The factory, which has a backlog of nearly $200,000,000 in military aircraft orders, employs 9,000 in its production division. The C. I. O. claims 7,000 of them as members.

J. H. Kindelberger, North American president, issued an order, meanwhile, for all employees to report for their regular shifts Monday.

Frankenstein, who flew here from Detroit, said in part, in an address broadcast by CBS:

"The strike . . . was called by the leaders of the local union completely without authorization of the United Automobile Workers union or the C. I. O."

The strike was called by local leaders while negotiations were still in progress before the national defense mediation board. It was called in direct violation of the agreement made by local leaders to keep the plant in operation until the board had completed its findings, and despite the fact that the company had agreed to make all wage adjustments retroactive on May 1.

"The irresponsible, inexperienced and impulsive action of local leaders in violating their own agreement will find no support from myself or our organization. We have vigorously condemned such action before. I condemn it now."

Frankenstein said he had been working for two days "that local leaders may rectify this serious mistake" and the plant could resume operations until the mediation board completed its findings.

He said the overwhelming majority of North American workers regarded the strike as "infamous agitation, the vicious underhanded maneuvering of the Communist party," and added:

"I take this opportunity of serving notice on the Communists that they must keep their hands off the policies and the affairs of the aircraft division of the C. I. O. here on the west coast."

"I am speaking with the full knowledge and accord of Philip Murray of the C. I. O. and President R. J. Thomas of the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.) when I say that the C. I. O. does not intend to allow the interests of a majority of the North American workers or the interests of five million members of the C. I. O. to be endangered by the irresponsible action of a minority."

Frankenstein said he had informed the defense mediation board of the official position of the C. I. O.—that the record of the board in situations involving the C. I. O. was outstandingly fair, and that the board's actions had been speedy, just and decisive.

all necessities for that product. The plain intimation was that for the present action in the lumber strike was not considered necessary.

The North American Aviation Corporation, located at Inglewood, Calif., has been producing medium bombing planes and training planes at a rate of eight to 10 daily. It employs 11,500 workers and holds contracts for $196,000,000 worth of planes.

After two postponements requested by the defense mediation board, the strike was called on Thursday morning by the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.). The union demands a union shop, a general wage increase of 10 cents an hour and that the minimum wage rate be increased from 50 to 75 cents an hour.

Early said the shortage of planes for American defense and for aid to Britain was so pressing that the stoppage could not be permitted to continue. The president decided yesterday, he said, that the strike must end by Monday.

Under army operation, he said, all workers would be given an opportunity to return to their jobs and, further, union picket lines would not be permitted to interfere.

Beyond that there was no intimation of what might be done to force a resumption of operations or put pressure on the men to return to their jobs, should they refuse to do so.

However, it was suggested unofficially that the government would have several lines of action at its command—though some might require legislation. Draft deferments for the men could be cancelled. All federal benefit payments—unemployment insurance and other social security bounties and relief through WPA—might be refused. The men might be blacklisted and denied future jobs in plants handling government contracts. And, in addition, there was the ever-present force of neighborhood opinion.

STANLEY AIDE WILL REPLACE PATTISON

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—(AP)—Attorney General Eugene Stanley today said he would appoint an assistant from his office to take charge temporarily of the office of district attorney in Lake Charles pending a special election to name a successor to the late C. V. Pattison, district attorney, who died suddenly this week.

Stanley indicated the appointment would be made after Monday when he will confer in Baton Rouge with the two existing assistant district attorneys in the 14th judicial district to determine the condition of the docket there, and ascertain from them, as a condition of their retention, if either was a candidate for the district attorneyship.

Stanley explained that under the law Governor Sam Jones must call a special election to fill the post, probably within 60 days. Stanley said he would assign one of his assistants temporarily to the office because he did not want in any way to influence the election through appointing someone interested in the candidacy.

REPORT HITLER WILL BROADCAST

the next day, an authorized Nazi spokesman declared: "Be assured of no political earthquake in that region."

Furthermore, there came reports from Vichy, France, last week that instead of getting ready to fight Russia, Hitler had met secretly with Joseph Stalin and agreed upon a program of collaboration by which Russia would undertake to deliver bread to a Hitler-dominated Europe.

A hint that something might be stirring in southeastern Europe was seen in a Bucharest announcement of a drastic curtailment of passenger train service, effective this Sunday, to clear the tracks for heavy freight traffic.

The need for heavy movement of freight was given as the reason for the curtailment, but observers speculated on the possibility of important military movements—either against Russia or through the Black sea against the British in the middle east—which might require the utmost use of rail facilities.

A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Ankara reported today that German troops were moving from Bulgaria into Moldavia in eastern Rumania, and occupying positions on the Russian frontier.

Possibility of another axis declaration this week came from Rome with the summoning of the Italian chamber of fates and guilds, which has replaced the fascist chamber of deputies in the fascist regime, to meet in special session June 10, the first anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war.

Amidst all this behind-the-front activity, French-mandated Syria has become a precarious chip on both British and German shoulders, each belligerent waiting and preparing for the moment the other will knock it off.

A dominant factor in Britain's preparations, it was said in London last night, was the speed with which American-made war equipment and materials reach the middle east zone of battle.

American-made tanks already have been reported in battle near Tobruk, where besieged British forces harass the flank of a threatened axis drive on Suez from the west.

W. Averell Harriman, in London to expedite the American aid-to-Britain program, was reliably reported preparing to leave soon for an extended survey of Britain's middle east fronts and requirements.

It is the eastern or Syrian flank of Suez that most concerns Britain now. One week has passed since she wound up her war-within-a-war in Iraq, and since Germany, with last-stage Italian help, mopped up Crete, with the axis thus gaining a tremendous advantage for the eastern Mediterranean conflict and Britain regaining the strategic position that had been hers in Iraq.

That week has been replete with claims and counter-claims, reports and denials, dark hints and open avowals as to what part French-mandated Syria will play in the developing Battle of Suez.

The France of Marshal Petain, denying that Germany was attempting to use Syria and vowing a staunch defense of her mandate with her own forces, threatened to collide with Britain, who held that Syria already had or was likely to become a great Axis base for a drive toward the Suez canal.

Broad British hints that Britain, before the Axis would establish itself in Syria, would strike, occupying the mandate in decisive self-protection.

Last night nothing had come of these hints and avowals except more talk and a fresh crop of reports on Germany's hand in Syria, to wit:

1. General Henri Dentz, high commissioner and military commander in Syria, asked Vichy to send more troops "and, if necessary, German troops" to take the place of those wavering to the de Gaulle Free French cause. This came off the British radio, credited to the Free French news agency.

This report added that Dentz already had handed over to Germans arriving as "tourists" the control of anti-aircraft stations in Syria.

2. Luftwaffe engineers have begun construction of a base at Latakia, Syrian port, from which German aircraft could strike easily at the British island naval base of Cyprus. This report was current in Ankara, Turkey, where earlier in the week reliable informants said German motorized troops had been landed at Latakia.

3. Eight German pocket submarines, short-range craft suited to the narrow waters of the Mediterranean, have been seen during the past week at Beirut, Lebanon. This report, likewise originating in jittery Ankara, was relayed by Reuters, British news agency.

Such U-boats might be handy in easing a pathway through British sea-power for troopships en route to Syria from Greece.

4. Several hundred tons of gasoline have been unloaded at Latakia by a Hungarian tanker—also an Ankara report.

5. Aleppo, Palmyra and Damascus airdromes were being converted swiftly into full-fledged Luftwaffe bases—this was common talk in British circles throughout the Middle East.

Certain Britons, customarily well-informed but now as confused as anyone else, had looked for a prompt display of British initiative. Decisive action had been authoritatively forecast. But nothing happened. British sources were left to conclude that reports of German movements had been exaggerated and possibly encouraged by the Germans trying to provoke a premature British move. Britain perhaps was playing a wary game. The British insist that Vichy's policy of collaborating with Germany never will gain the support of the French people or colonial troops until Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Darlan can convince them that an aggressive Britain is trying to seize French territory for keeps.

He might be able to do that if the British, without great provocation, moved into Syria from neighboring Palestine, Iraq and Trans-Jordan.

If the British do take the first crack at the Syrian chip they undoubtedly will do so with the Free Frenchmen of General Charles de Gaulle as comrades-in-arms. Underlining this Allied strategy was a report by Exchange Telegraph, a British news agency, from Zurich purporting to tell of French fears in such an eventuality.

Exchange Telegraph quoted a French diplomatic source as saying that Generalissimo Maxime Weygand, commander of Vichy's forces in Africa and the Middle East, had told Darlan that he could not guarantee the attitude of his men in North Africa if they were called on to fight the de Gaulles.

Moreover, it was said, Weygand at his own insistence was relieved of responsibility for conduct of French troops in Syria. This report hadn't a fraction of confirmation from Vichy, which reported simply that Weygand had flown back to his Algeria headquarters after consultation with the men of Vichy.

The only possible difficulty reported in Vichy to have risen in the empire defense talks was whether immediate armed action should be taken against the de Gaulle-held colonies and, it was said, conditions were considered unfavorable for such action now.

As though waiting for the Middle Eastern lid to pop the war virtually marked time in other sectors, although the British reported capture of 2,000 more prisoners in the Ethiopian mop-up, and both sides claimed damaging aerial blows to shipping.

The government said the payments were made by a Chicago attorney representing the insurance companies. Since has died.

The case involved the distribution of funds impounded after a rate had been disallowed. Under terms of the settlement, the policy holders were awarded 20 per cent, the company 80. Since then the court, learning the alleged payments to Pendergast and O'Malley, rescinded approval of the settlement and ordered all funds returned to the policy holders.

Broad British hints that Britain, before the Axis would establish itself in Syria, would strike, occupying the mandate in decisive self-protection.

Last night nothing had come of these hints and avowals except more talk and a fresh crop of reports on Germany's hand in Syria, to wit:

1. General Henri Dentz, high commissioner and military commander in Syria, asked Vichy to send more troops "and, if necessary, German troops" to take the place of those wavering to the de Gaulle Free French cause. This came off the British radio, credited to the Free French news agency.

This report added that Dentz already had handed over to Germans arriving as "tourists" the control of anti-aircraft stations in Syria.

2. Luftwaffe engineers have begun construction of a base at Latakia, Syrian port, from which German aircraft could strike easily at the British island naval base of Cyprus. This report was current in Ankara, Turkey, where earlier in the week reliable informants said German motorized troops had been landed at Latakia.

3. Eight German pocket submarines, short-range craft suited to the narrow waters of the Mediterranean, have been seen during the past week at Beirut, Lebanon. This report, likewise originating in jittery Ankara, was relayed by Reuters, British news agency.

Such U-boats might be handy in easing a pathway through British sea-power for troopships en route to Syria from Greece.

4. Several hundred tons of gasoline have been unloaded at Latakia by a Hungarian tanker—also an Ankara report.

5. Aleppo, Palmyra and Damascus airdromes were being converted swiftly into full-fledged Luftwaffe bases—this was common talk in British circles throughout the Middle East.

Certain Britons, customarily well-informed but now as confused as anyone else, had looked for a prompt display of British initiative. Decisive action had been authoritatively forecast. But nothing happened. British sources were left to conclude that reports of German movements had been exaggerated and possibly encouraged by the Germans trying to provoke a premature British move. Britain perhaps was playing a wary all necessities for that product. The plain intimation was that for the present action in the lumber strike was not considered necessary.

The North American Aviation Corporation, located at Inglewood, Calif., has been producing medium bombing planes and training planes at a rate of eight to 10 daily. It employs 11,500 workers and holds contracts for $196,000,000 worth of planes.

After two postponements requested by the defense mediation board, the strike was called on Thursday morning by the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.). The union demands a union shop, a general wage increase of 10 cents an hour and that the minimum wage rate be increased from 50 to 75 cents an hour.

Early said the shortage of planes for American defense and for aid to Britain was so pressing that the stoppage could not be permitted to continue. The president decided yesterday, he said, that the strike must end by Monday.

Under army operation, he said, all workers would be given an opportunity to return to their jobs and, further, union picket lines would not be permitted to interfere.

Beyond that there was no intimation of what might be done to force a resumption of operations or put pressure on the men to return to their jobs, should they refuse to do so.

However, it was suggested unofficially that the government would have several lines of action at its command—though some might require legislation. Draft deferments for the men could be cancelled. All federal benefit payments—unemployment insurance and other social security bounties and relief through WPA—might be refused. The men might be blacklisted and denied future jobs in plants handling government contracts. And, in addition, there was the ever-present force of neighborhood opinion.

STANLEY AIDE WILL REPLACE PATTISON

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—(AP)—Attorney General Eugene Stanley today said he would appoint an assistant from his office to take charge temporarily of the office of district attorney in Lake Charles pending a special election to name a successor to the late C. V. Pattison, district attorney, who died suddenly this week.

Stanley indicated the appointment would be made after Monday when he will confer in Baton Rouge with the two existing assistant district attorneys in the 14th judicial district to determine the condition of the docket there, and ascertain from them, as a condition of their retention, if either was a candidate for the district attorneyship.

Stanley explained that under the law Governor Sam Jones must call a special election to fill the post, probably within 60 days. Stanley said he would assign one of his assistants temporarily to the office because he did not want in any way to influence the election through appointing someone interested in the candidacy.

the next day, an authorized Nazi spokesman declared: "Be assured of no political earthquake in that region."

Furthermore, there came reports from Vichy, France, last week that instead of getting ready to fight Russia, Hitler had met secretly with Joseph Stalin and agreed upon a program of collaboration by which Russia would undertake to deliver bread to a Hitler-dominated Europe.

A hint that something might be stirring in southeastern Europe was seen in a Bucharest announcement of a drastic curtailment of passenger train service, effective this Sunday, to clear the tracks for heavy freight traffic.

The need for heavy movement of freight was given as the reason for the curtailment, but observers speculated on the possibility of important military movements—either against Russia or through the Black sea against the British in the middle east—which might require the utmost use of rail facilities.

A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Ankara reported today that German troops were moving from Bulgaria into Moldavia in eastern Rumania, and occupying positions on the Russian frontier.

Possibility of another axis declaration this week came from Rome with the summoning of the Italian chamber of fates and guilds, which has replaced the fascist chamber of deputies in the fascist regime, to meet in special session June 10, the first anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war.

Amidst all this behind-the-front activity, French-mandated Syria has become a precarious chip on both British and German shoulders, each belligerent waiting and preparing for the moment the other will knock it off.

A dominant factor in Britain's preparations, it was said in London last night, was the speed with which American-made war equipment and materials reach the middle east zone of battle.

American-made tanks already have been reported in battle near Tobruk, where besieged British forces harass the flank of a threatened axis drive on Suez from the west.

W. Averell Harriman, in London to expedite the American aid-to-Britain program, was reliably reported preparing to leave soon for an extended survey of Britain's middle east fronts and requirements.

It is the eastern or Syrian flank of Suez that most concerns Britain now. One week has passed since she wound up her war-within-a-war in Iraq, and since Germany, with last-stage Italian help, mopped up Crete, with the axis thus gaining a tremendous advantage for the eastern Mediterranean conflict and Britain regaining the strategic position that had been hers in Iraq.

That week has been replete with claims and counter-claims, reports and denials, dark hints and open avowals as to what part French-mandated Syria will play in the developing Battle of Suez.

The France of Marshal Petain, denying that Germany was attempting to use Syria and vowing a staunch defense of her mandate with her own forces, threatened to collide with Britain, who held that Syria already had or was likely to become a great Axis base for a drive toward the Suez canal.

Broad British hints that Britain, before the Axis would establish itself in Syria, would strike, occupying the mandate in decisive self-protection.

Last night nothing had come of these hints and avowals except more talk and a fresh crop of reports on Germany's hand in Syria, to wit:

United We Serve

A meeting of most importance to every citizen of our area will be held at the city hall Monday night at which time final plans for perfecting our sectional U. S. O. organization will be made.

Perhaps few persons know what U. S. O. is. Its full name is United Service Organizations for National Defense, Inc. Remember back in the days of World War I when individual agencies such as the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Jewish Welfare board and others did so much to build up the morale of our soldiers? Well, the U. S. O. is an organization combining all these agencies, and others, for the same purpose in 1941. It includes the Y. M. C. A., the National Catholic Community service, the Salvation Army, the Y. W. C. A., the Jewish Welfare board and the National Travelers Aid association in one big group to get the job done even more efficiently than was accomplished by individual agencies in 1917-18.

The U. S. O. will shortly conduct a drive for funds with which to finance its program. Monroe is the headquarters of the northeast Louisiana area which includes nine parishes. The quota is not large, and it is the duty of every citizen to give his share so that the program can be instituted successfully. For those of us who are not otherwise participating in the national defense program, it is an opportunity and a privilege to do our part.

Within camps adjacent to Monroe every effort is made to develop morale, not only by military discipline but by programs of recreation, education and religious service. The objective is to create spirited defenders. Where there are no adequate community facilities for new defense industries, the problem is equally important. There is also a national problem arising from the widespread migration occasioned by defense industries and military construction. Hundreds of thousands of young men and young women whose welfare and morale is vital to the country are being affected. In this defense crisis, both military and civil, the government is turning to citizens for aid.

The activities of the U. S. O. will include individual service on personal problems, religious service, social events and diversified group recreation. Monroe is near enough to various army camps and defense industries to require just such a program as the U. S. O. provides. Only last week, some 1,200 soldiers and officers visited here, and even larger groups will be entertained in northeast Louisiana during the coming months. These soldiers must be provided clean, attractive recreational facilities.

Thomas E. Dewey summed up a most logical reply to the question of why this money is sought through the subscriptions of individuals and corporations rather than by congress out of public funds. He said:

"The private life and religious guidance of our boys are not a government function in a free country. True they are the business of government in Nazi Germany, Communist Russia and Fascist Italy. But that is the very thing to which we stand opposed. This function is part of the sober business of preserving the essentials of freedom in this, our homeland—almost the last free country in the world."

The well-being of our defense forces, both military and industrial, is a personal obligation upon the citizens of this country. It is an obligation that all of us should be proud to assume.

BOMBERS AND BORDERS

The "new order" of adjusting border disputes is being amply demonstrated in Europe. There is another demonstration going on, however, of how to adjust borders without either bombs or bombast.

It is in the Western Hemisphere. Peru has at last accepted, with some qualifications, true, but with evidence of sincerity, the offer of the United States, Argentina, and Brazil, to help settle her 110-year dispute with Ecuador over certain rich lands in the Amazon headwaters. This acrid dispute has teetered on the edge of war many times, and if it can be thus amicably settled with brains instead of bombs, one more good example will have been set. The United States-Canadian border, once a subject of dispute that led to the edge of war, has not yet finally been settled. Certain surveys are even today being made along the Minnesota-Canada border to determine the allegiance of more than 100 small islands.

Thus quietly the western world way makes progress—brains instead of bombs.

SCIENCE SCORES A WHALE OF A SENSATION

Science, proclaims a breathless newspaper article, has at last affirmed that a whale really could have swallowed Jonah.

It seems that a Dr. Eugene Maximilian Karl Geiling, professor of pharmacology, having little to do one dull day, crawled through the gullet of a (dead) whale. He found it slimy, but definitely roomy.

If this unpalatable feat had been performed by Joe Doakes, fisherman, it would have proved just as much about the Jonah-capacity of whales. But it wouldn't have justified that delectable headline, "Science says—"

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—When I opened fire on Hollywood's British actors who are too obviously expecting Americans to carry most of their war relief load, I knew I would make new enemies. Just as I expected, those who are most flagrantly doing little for England are shouting loudest: "Off with Fidler's head!"

My criticism hasn't been directed at all English subjects here in Hollywood. Some of them are pitching in with heart and soul. Also, several served in the last war. Perhaps they should not be expected to do so much again (not my opinion).

But among the white sheep are several blacks whose selfish example is disgusting not only to Americans but their own countrymen as well. Those slacks should be kicked out by the Britons themselves.

One "boil" on England's complexion is a director who lives in a mansion and spends $1,500 a week on his upkeep. A confirmed gourmet, he pays $8 a day for his steaks! When his wife wanted fresh peaches out of season, he ordered a crate from Hawaii by clipper plane at a cost of $1 a pound plus 40 cents per ounce postage. One day this Great Man saw a cripple in an electric wheelchair and decided he must have one with which to play. He bought it, for $300, played with it a few days, and now it's rusting in a storeroom.

Idol Chatter: There are 11 reasons why the average playboy doesn't marry her real love—one is money, the other 10 are things only money can buy. . . . In a word description of Boris Karloff: Horrorcultist. . . . Tab Lione (confined to a wheelchair) . . . Barrmore as the one star who's preserved his standing sitting idly down. . . . Discovery of the week: Barbara Jo (Vera Vague) Allen is one of Hollywood's best housewives. . . . Never try to tell Claire Trevor there's nothing in Chinese rice cake fortunes. . . . Smile alike: Margaret Sullivan and Ingrid Bergman. . . . Can you imagine anyone speaking more gamely than the Carole Landis in a bathing suit?

Fidler: While watching that zany, H. Ritz. My composure is shattered to bits. I can never decide. If he's acting in stride—Or suffering a seizure of fits!

Intimate Notes: A Dallas Texan asks if all great stars are inclined to be incoherent? Not all. There's Mae West, who is forever "hipped" up about something! . . . From Columbus, O.: "Who rates as Hollywood's most often married man?" Offhand, I'll pick Cameramen George Barnes, almost six times (once to Joan Blondell). But I may be doing injustice to John Barrymore, whose memory is notoriously vague about such trivial details of his own past. . . . A Topekanian wants to know why Hollywood doesn't make more movies based on Biblical stories. Such films are rarely commercially successful. Besides, they're too hard to cast. We have many actors qualified to play sinners but few to play saints.

One Minute Interview with Jeanette MacDonald: "I'm often asked to explain my success. To be honest, I must credit the cotton underwear I wore when I reported for my first chorus job. The other girls laughed at me, and I vowed with tears in my eyes that I'd become successful enough to afford fine silks. The determination born out of those girls' ridicule has helped me over many a tough hurdle."

What's News: The Andrea Leeds-Samuel Goldwyn 18-month contract breach (she hasn't worked since 1939) has reached the if-you'll-agree-to-do-this-I'll-do-that stage. . . . Wolzitz about Pat McCarty being very foolish because of frustrated love for Glen Ford? . . . Adel Mara, dancing Venus with Xavier Cugat's band, has been term-debauched by Columbus. . . . How embarrassing the other night, when Robert Cummings introduced Deanna Durbin's new husband (Vaughn Paul) as Mr. Durbin! . . . Substitution of Dorothy Lewis as star over Belita in the "ice-cream" (ice show) is causing bickering among the cast.

How can Paramount explain postcards mailed by Madeleine Carroll on the very day the studio reported her "missing at sea"? . . . The Virginia Field-Owen Davis, Jr., romance, iced two years ago by Virginia when she met Richard Dix (now in the British army), is warming up again in the east. . . . Radio's Merry Maes have been made "honorary citizens" of Dallas. . . . Happy days ahead for Joyce Matthews (in N. Y.) and boyfriend Milton Berle (in Hollywood most of the time); she's about to get an MGM contract that will bring her here.

OUR CHILDREN

CHILDREN LIKE AFTERNOON SNACK

The neighbors' houses are always attractive for the children of any home. They are curious about the people who live in them, what they eat and say, and in particular, what they eat. Food has a fascination for growing children.

Mothers are strict about diet, so that many things the children like are forbidden, or doled out stingily. "Just a little bit, mind. Not too much of that cheese. It isn't good for you. Too heavy with your meal. You have had plenty of protein."

Protein has no meaning, but cheese—sharp, tangy, mouth-filling cheese—has plenty of meaning. Sweet, too. "Go easy. One piece. No more. You can have another piece after dinner if you eat your vegetables."

And the delicious fried things that come out of a kettle of smoking fat. How good they taste to the child just released from a day at school. But mother says, "No, no. Hot things like that are indigestible. I never allow you to eat fried foods. Have a cookie."

These restrictions are necessary and wise, but the children are restless under them and if they have the opportunity, as visitors in the home of a neighbor, well, they'd be strange children if they did not take advantage of the opportunity. They often do. Many a stay-late child is taking advantage of just that kind of hospitality.

Joe, aged fifteen, was late getting home several times a week. "O. I stopped to talk to Freddy." "Who's Freddy?" "A boy in my class. Nice fellow." "Where does he live?"

"Down in the village." "Well, better not get into the habit of visiting him. We're waiting for you at home, and you have plenty of friends right here in your own neighborhood without going so far for them. You've been neglecting Horace. His mother seems to feel that way."

But Joe continued to visit Freddy. His mother continued to complain. If she had looked into the kitchen where Joe and Freddy sat happily eating hot doughnuts, fresh from the seething pot, and drinking cocoa to wash them down she would have understood better what was going on.

Joe liked Freddy's house better in the afternoon than he did his own. In Freddy's house you went straight to the kitchen, and began on the doughnuts or ice cream or cup cakes. They appeared on your plate as fast as you made them disappear and nobody as much as reminded you to take your elbows down.

At home the house was polished, still, and just so. There was no place to go for a jolly meal. The next meal would be served at 7 o'clock, according to the home ritual. One might have a cookie, by asking for it politely, and a glass of milk if there was any left after making dessert. One had to be very hungry to think of it, much less to go after it.

Isn't there a wholesome middle way?

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson For June 15
Text: Acts 13:44-52; Galatians 3:26-29
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor of Advance)

Our lesson, it should be remembered, is from the story of the first missionary journey of Paul. With Barnabas as his companion, and also with young John Mark, he had gone from Antioch in Syria to the coast, sailing thence to the island of Cyprus. From Cyprus the three had gone to the mainland of Asia Minor and they had come to another of the numerous cities named Antioch, namely, Antioch in Pisidia.

Here on the Sabbath day they had gone into the synagogue and Paul had preached the sermon, a part of which is recorded. It made such a great impression upon the gathering that there was a request that Paul should preach it again the next Sabbath. Apparently, the fame of Paul had spread throughout the city, and a great company gathered to hear him who were apparently not all Jews.

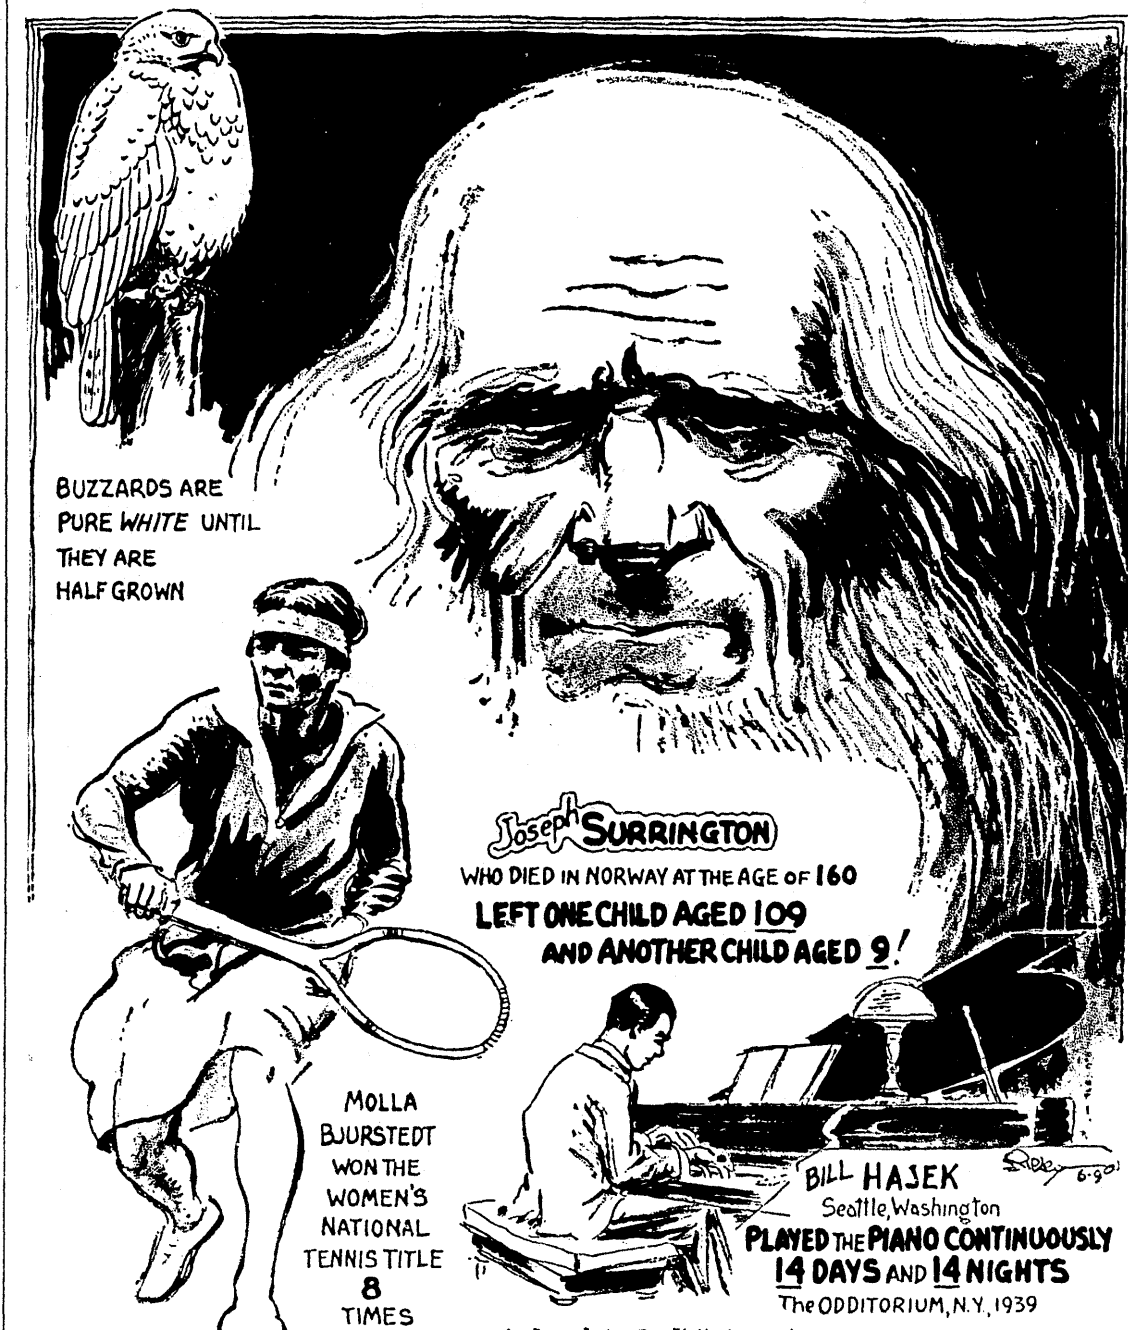

Trouble began to develop. It was the sort of trouble that usually develops where someone with a new gospel, or a new emphasis, comes preaching, gains a hearing and quickly arouses either the jealousy or the opposition of the constituted religious authorities. It was the sort of thing that John Wesley encountered again and again in his itinerant preaching in England.

In times when anti-Semitic prejudice is rife, even in America, we should beware of condemning the Jews who were reluctant to receive Christian teaching, or who regarded this new teaching as upsetting to the religious institutions and ideas in which they had long been trained. The sort of opposition that Paul and Barnabas encountered has not been confined to any one time, or to those of any one race or any one religion, and it must be remembered that Paul and Barnabas were themselves Jews.

However, the opposition of the Jews in Antioch had a very important result, for when Paul and Barnabas saw the interest aroused among the Gentiles in the city they turned from the Jews, who were unwilling to hear the new teaching, and they began to preach the new gospel to the Gentiles. They found very distinct warrant for this in the Jewish Scriptures in the command of the Lord: "I have set thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldst be for salvation unto the uttermost part of the earth."

The fury of religious prejudice is not easily assuaged. In the name of religion, men who profess to be acquainted with the scriptures, sometimes do the most distasteful things. What might have been a local church quarrel became a matter of the city itself, and the Jews who were hostile to Paul

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON
GREATEST RIDE IN ALL HISTORY—Sam Dale, pioneer frontiersman, scout and general of Alabama militia (1772-1841), in December, 1814, rode from Milledgeville, Ga., to Andrew Jackson's headquarters in New Orleans, La. a distance of 550 miles in seven and one-half days, using only one horse, his famous Paddy, bearing an important message from Washington. Then he returned immediately on another horse and rode to Fort Decatur on the Tallapoosa river, another 450 miles in another seven days, altogether 1,000 miles in fourteen and one-half days, using only two horses. Dale was a legislator of the first assemblies of both Alabama and Mississippi.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson

(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)
WASHINGTON—It's too bad that statistics on some of the most important things in life like population, tax delinquency, and the per capita consumption of prunes take so long to collect, classify, colligate and conclude from. In the perfect state, we should know not later than January 2 whether the prune seeds of the year before, if laid end to end, would reach from Pasadena to Providence, or just to Palo Alto.

This being a democracy, however, we take our statistics as we get them and apropos of this, it might be mentioned that the bureau of labor statistics, BLS in the department of labor, has but recently been able to release its study of strikes in 1940. Just what is to be gained by this compilation is something that will have to be left to you. It does show us where we have been and it may show us where we're going.

There were slightly more than 2,500 strikes in 1940 in which about 577,000 workers were involved and 6,700,000 man-days of labor were lost. Comparing that with the average of the previous five years it's not so bad, for the 1940 figures are 12 per cent under in number of strikes; they involved only 51 per cent as many workers and there was only 40 per cent as much time lost. The average 1940 strike though tied up 230 men for eleven and a half days, or 2,645 man-days of labor lost. Or, taking the length of strike without reference to the number of workers, the average for 1940 was three weeks.

The interesting thing to do is to go on from there and see what the strikes were for and what they accomplished. As to the causes of strikes, one surprising sidelight is that of the 2,500 strikes in 1940, 1,541 were A. F. of L. and 689 were C. I. O. Seventy-seven strikes were of the now generally condemned jurisdictional variety.

Recognition The Issue

The difficulty of classifying strikes according to cause is primarily the problem of strikes involving two or more issues, but tabulating as carefully as it could, BLS comes forth with the conclusion that half of the 1940 strikes were primarily over issues of union recognition. You can attribute that to the Wagner act or not, as you choose. Wage and hour issues accounted for 30 per cent of the strikes and the remaining 20 per cent were over miscellaneous grievances.

With that very general picture of strike causes, take a look at what the strikes accomplished—what they got the workers involved. To get at this, the bureau classifies according to apparent results at the end of the work stoppage. That isn't always the final outcome of a strike, for if a strike won forces an employer out of business or forces him to move to another community, that is a loss. On the other hand, a lost strike which makes an employer realize he must improve working conditions is really a victory for labor.

As at the end of the strikes, however, BLS finds that only 27 per cent of all the workers involved in strikes ending in 1940 won substantially all of their demands. Compromises or partial gains were obtained by 56 per cent while 9 per cent gained little or nothing. Of the rest, some 6 per cent were jurisdictional strikes which settled nothing, and 2 per cent were unreported.

In general, a larger proportion of short strikes were more successful from the workers' point of view than the long strikes. More than 46 per cent of strikes lasting less than two weeks resulted in gains for the workers, whereas less than a fourth of the strikes lasting longer than two months resulted in substantial gains. There were, by the way, 526 strikes lasting more than a month.

Trend Isn't Promising

Government officials or government boards had to sit in on settlement of nearly 43 per cent of the strikes—1,006 strikes out of the total of 2,500—and that number was practically equal to the strikes that were settled by direct negotiation between workers and employers. This is important because it indicates the growing work of department of labor's conciliation service under Dr. John Steelman.

What usually happened was that labor and management tried their hand at settlement by direct negotiation. When these direct methods bogged down, conciliation service was called in. It is this which accounts for the fact that the strikes settled by government mediation were the larger and longer strikes which involved almost 60 per cent of workers in all strikes.

All these figures are of course just more prune seed statistics unless they can be used in a study of the present strike picture and to see what help they give to a solution of defense industry disturbances. The difficulty in fitting general strike statistics over the defense industry picture is apparent, for in 1940 the defense industries were just getting under way. BLS has made a separate study, trying to segregate the defense strikes in 11 principal industries employing 2,300,000 workers. One out of every 17 of these workers was on strike at some time during the year in a total of 252 strikes.

That is a none too promising trend.

and Barnabas, stirring up the Gentiles as well, aroused such persecution against Paul and Barnabas that they were forced to leave the city.

CINCINNATI, O.—Grounded here until I can get space on an out-going plane, a simple incident precipitates me into an interesting adventure.

Time is passing slowly, as it does with the impatient.

I look at my pocket watch again, and am impressed with the fact that it looks somehow crippled. While driving at night, a week ago, I pulled the watch out of my pocket to let my companion read the time. The road couldn't afford to take time out to look at the dial.

So, twisting the watch around to give my friend a look, I tore off the ring at the top, to which the chain attaches.

Since then, I've learned that that half ring is called a bow. The bow was lost somewhere in the car, and I never found it.

Now, in my idleness, a bright thought occurs.

I recall that this watch, which I bought 27 years ago in Minneapolis, was made in this town of Cincinnati. I'll have some fun.

A taxi takes me out to Time Hill. I demand to see the president.

"And," I add, by way of making an impression, "the vice-president, too, if you please."

To my surprise, I am very soon sitting in the office of President Benjamin Kitz, a pleasant-looking gentleman of middle age, who, I learn, was a watch salesman as a young man, and worked his way up.

Seriously expectant, sitting beside the president, is Vice-President Teviah Sachs, formerly of New York.

"I want to complain about this watch," I say, producing my thin, yellow gold timepiece. "You see that Off a practically new watch, I lose a ring or clasp or whatever you call it? What should I do?"

The president, who, doubtless, has many weighty matters on his mind, examines the timepiece carefully.

"We have not made this model in twenty years," he says, slowly. "Perhaps it is not so new as you think. But we will gladly put a new bow on it for you, and have it cleaned and time-tested. You don't keep your watch cleaned very well, do you?"

When I confessed that I had used this rule to get acquainted with a watch factory and see how the wheels go round, we were all friends.

I spent a pleasant afternoon, Mr. Sachs personally guided me around the quiet, spotlessly clean factory.

I learned that a watch factory must be quiet and clean. The original Gruen family, back in 1874, had located the works away out here on a hill, not far from the city.

To make sure that there would be no contamination from railroad tracks or whatever traffic device might develop in the future, the enormous machines that do such delicate work as the stamping out of a little piece of a watch case must work with such precision as even a good machinist rarely considers possible.

Every drawing is brought down to scale, and each blue-print must fit with other hundreds of prints for the same watch, even when dimensions go away below the thousandth of an inch scale.

On the other floor of the same vault I saw the raw gold piled like sand. I imagined I was in the federal vaults at Frankfurt, Ky.

These vaults have microphones in their ceilings. If anyone touches the steel doors at night, after the doors are locked, the noise is heard at two police stations.

The floors of the factory are scrubbed each evening, and all the scrub-water is saved and processed for recovery of gold.

Every sample is true of the water in which employees wash their hands.

When it was about time for my plane to go, I was shown my watch, being tested for accuracy. It was being whirled about on a weird-looking machine, and its ticking was making an indelible record on graph paper. The tester handed me the watch with the cabalistic graph. "It'll lose two seconds in 24 hours," he said, apologetically. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

ANNUAL FIELD DAY IS OBSERVED BY OPERATORS

Working in shifts, eight operators of the Ouachita valley amateur radio network here are taking part in a nationwide annual field day in an exhaustive test of equipment and personnel under emergency conditions.

Operators here began the continuous operation yesterday at 3 p.m., and the drill will continue until 5 p.m. today under emergency conditions on the bank of the Ouachita river south of Monroe.

Camping out in the woods, members of the Ouachita valley net kept up communications last night with stations throughout the country. Wives of the operators and other members of the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club are in charge of the camp arrangements, and the eight operators are working in shifts, keeping the emergency equipment going on all amateur bands, with the exception of the 10-meter band.

The emergency network party is located in the woods on the bank of the Ouachita river, off the Old Columbia road about eight miles south of Monroe.

JIMMIE FIDLER
In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—When I opened fire on Hollywood's British actors who are too obviously expecting Americans to carry most of their war relief load, I knew I would make new enemies. Just as I expected, those who are most flagrantly doing little for England are shouting loudest: "Off with Fidler's head!"

My criticism hasn't been directed at all English subjects here in Hollywood. Some of them are pitching in with heart and soul. Also, several served in the last war. Perhaps they should not be expected to do so much again (not my opinion).

But among the white sheep are several blacks whose selfish example is disgusting not only to Americans but their own countrymen as well. Those slackers should be kicked out by the Britons themselves.

One "boil" on England's complexion is a director who lives in a mansion and spends $1,000 a week on its upkeep. A confirmed gourmet, he pays $8 a day for his meals. When his wife wanted fresh peaches out of season, he ordered a crate from Hawaii by clipper plane at a cost of $1 a pound plus 40 cents per ounce postage. One day this Great Man saw a cripple in an electric wheelchair and decided he must have one with which to play. He bought it, for $300, played with it a few days, and now it's rusting in a storeroom.

Wouldn't that wheelchair better have served a maimed British soldier? Wouldn't England's Red Cross have welcomed the money those silly peaches cost? Couldn't the director have less lavishly, in order that starving babies in his country might live at all? And finally, hasn't he a hell of a crust asking us to carry his load, when most of us who are helping only get peaches when they are in season.

Idol Chatter: There are 11 reasons why the average playgirl doesn't marry her real love—one is money, the other 10 are things only money can buy. . . . The determination born out of those girls' ridicule has helped me over many a tough hurdle."

What's News: The Andrea Leeds-Samuel Goldwyn 18-month contract breach (she hasn't worked since 1939) has reached the if-you'll-agree-to-do-this-I'll-do-that stage. . . . OUR CHILDREN

CHILDREN LIKE AFTERNOON SNACKS

The neighbors' houses are always attractive for the children of any home. They are curious about the people who live in them, what they do and say and, in particular, what they eat. Food has a fascination for growing children.

Mothers are strict about diet, so that many things the children like are forbidden or dole out stingily. "Just a little bit, mind. Not too much of that cheese. It's not good for you. Too heavy with your meal. You have had plenty of protein."

Protein has no meaning, but cheese—sharp, tangy, mouth-filling cheese—has plenty of meaning. Sweet, too. "Go easy. One piece. No more. You can have another piece after dinner if you eat your vegetables."

And the delicious fried things that come out of a kettle of smoking fat. How good they taste to the child just released from a day at school. But mother says, "No, no. Hot things like that are indigestible. I never allow you to eat fried foods. Have a cookie."

These restrictions are necessary and wise, but the children are restless under them and if they have the opportunity, as visitors in the home of a neighbor, well, they'd be strange children if they did not take advantage of the opportunity. They often do. Many a stay-late child is taking advantage of just that kind of hospitality.

Joe, aged fifteen, was late getting home several times a week. "O. I stopped to talk to Freddy." "Who's Freddy?" "A boy in my class. Nice fellow." "Where does he live?"

"Down in the village." "Well, better not get into the habit of visiting him. We're waiting for you at home, and you have plenty of friends right here in your own neighborhood without going so far for them. You've been neglecting Horace. His mother seems to feel that way."

But Joe continued to visit Freddy. His mother continued to complain. If she had looked into the kitchen where Joe and Freddy sat happily eating hot doughnuts, fresh from the seething pot, and drinking cocoa to wash them down she would have understood better what was going on.

Joe liked Freddy's house better in the afternoon than he did his own. In Freddy's house you went straight to the kitchen, and began on the doughnuts or fritters or cup cakes. They appeared on your plate as fast as you made them disappear and nobody as much as reminded you to take your elbows down.

At home the house was polished, still, and just so. There was no place to go for a jolly meal. The next meal would be served at 7 o'clock, according to the home ritual. One might have a cookie, by asking for it politely, and a glass of milk if there was any left after making dessert. One had to be very hungry to think of it, much less to go after it.

Isn't there a wholesome middle way?

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson For June 15
Text: Acts 13:44-52; Galatians 3:26-29
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor of Advance)

Our lesson, it should be remembered, is from the story of the first missionary journey of Paul. With Barnabas as his companion, and also from Antioch in Syria to the coast, sailing thence to the Island of Cyprus. From Cyprus the three had gone to the mainland of Asia Minor and they had come to another of the numerous cities named Antioch, namely, Antioch in Pisidia.

Here on the Sabbath day they had gone into the synagogue and Paul had preached the sermon, a part of which is recorded. It made such a great impression upon the gathering that there was a request that Paul should preach it again the next Sabbath. Apparently, the fame of Paul had spread throughout the city, and a great company gathered to hear him who were apparently not all Jews.

Trouble began to develop. It was the sort of trouble that usually develops where someone with a new gospel, or a new emphasis, comes preaching, gains a hearing and quickly arouses either the jealousy or the opposition of the constituted religious authorities. It was the sort of thing that John Wesley encountered again and again in his itinerant preaching in England.

In times when anti-Semitic prejudice is rife, even in America, we should beware of condemning the Jews who were reluctant to receive Christian teaching, or who regarded this new teaching as upsetting to the religious institutions and ideas in which they had long been trained. The sort of opposition that Paul and Barnabas encountered has not been confined to any one time, or to those of any one race or any one religion, and it must be remembered that Paul and Barnabas were themselves Jews.

However, the opposition of the Jews in Antioch had a very important result, for when Paul and Barnabas saw the interest aroused among the Gentiles in the city they turned from the Jews, who were unwilling to hear them, to preach the new gospel to the Gentiles. They found very distinct warrant for this in the Jewish Scriptures in the command of the Lord: "I have set thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldst be for salvation unto the uttermost part of the earth."

The fury of religious prejudice is not easily assuaged. In the name of religion, men who profess to be acting conscientiously, can sometimes do the most dastardly things. What might have been a local church quarrel became a matter of the city itself, and the Jews who were hostile to Paul and Barnabas, stirring up the Gentiles as well, aroused such persecution against Paul and Barnabas that they were forced to leave the city.

But now, from a few verses in the Epistle to the Galatians, we come to the most important part of our lesson, namely, its statement that the Christian experience is not limited to either Jew or Gentile, but that in Christ

There must be no jarring, no strong drafts to disarrange tiny parts, and no dust to set delicate mechanisms awry.

A thousandth of an inch is a wide canon in this business. A delicate part of a watch, a coiled spring, could rattle around in that canon, and be as badly lost as I have been in the Times Square subway station.

Yet I saw the designers, drawing plans for next year's watches, and a mere do-jigger to which a strap is to be attached was drawn about a foot and a half long.

Fry drawing is brought down to scale, and each blue-print must fit with other hundreds of prints for the same watch, even when dimensions go away below the thousandth of an inch scale.

The same is true of the water in which employees wash their hands.

When it was about time for my plane to go, I was shown my watch, being tested for accuracy. It was being whirled about on a weird-looking machine, and its ticking was making an inked record on graph paper. The tester handed me the watch with the ecstatic graph. "It'll lose two seconds in 24 hours," he said, apologetically. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

ANNUAL FIELD DAY IS OBSERVED BY OPERATORS

Working in shifts, eight operators of the Ouachita valley amateur radio network were taking part in a nation-wide annual field day in an exhaustive test of equipment and personnel under emergency conditions. Operators here began the continuous operation yesterday at 3 p.m., and the drill will continue until 5 p.m. today under emergency conditions on the bank of the Ouachita river south of Monroe.

Scamping out in the woods, members of the Ouachita valley net kept up communications last night with stations throughout the country. Wives of the operators and other members of the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club are in charge of the camp arrangements, and the eight operators are working in shifts, keeping the emergency equipment going on all amateur bands, with the exception of the 10-meter band.

The emergency network party is located in the woods on the bank of the Ouachita valley, off the Old Columbia road about eight miles south of Monroe.

Bible Thought

For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you.—Matthew 6:14.

To love is human, it is also human to forgive.—Plautus.

United We Serve

A meeting of most importance to every citizen of our area will be held at the city hall Monday night at which time final plans for perfecting our sectional U. S. O. organization will be made.

Perhaps few persons know what U. S. O. is. Its full name is United Service Organizations for National Defense, Inc. Remember back in the days of World War I when individual agencies such as the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Jewish Welfare board and others did so much to build up the morale of our soldiers? Well, the U. S. O. is an organization combining all these agencies, and others, for the same purpose in 1941. It includes the Y. M. C. A., the National Catholic Community service, the Salvation Army, the Y. W. C. A., the Jewish Welfare board and the National Travelers Aid association in one big group to get the job done even more efficiently than was accomplished by individual agencies in 1917-18.

The U. S. O. will shortly conduct a drive for funds with which to finance its program. Monroe is the headquarters of the northeast Louisiana area which includes nine parishes. The quota is not large, and it is the duty of every citizen to give his share so that the program can be instituted successfully. For those of us who are not otherwise participating in the national defense program, it is an opportunity and a privilege to do our part.

Within camps adjacent to Monroe every effort is made to develop morale, not only by military discipline but by programs of recreation, education and religious service. The objective is to create spirited defenders. Where there are no adequate community facilities for new defense industries, the problem is equally important. There is also a national problem arising from the widespread migration occasioned by defense industries and military construction. Hundreds of thousands of young men and young women whose welfare and morale is vital to the country are being affected. In this defense crisis, both military and civil, the government is turning to citizens for aid.

The activities of the U. S. O. will include individual service on personal problems, religious service, social events and diversified group recreation. Monroe is near enough to various army camps and defense industries to require just such a program as the U. S. O. provides. Only last week, some 1,200 soldiers and officers visited here, and even larger groups will be entertained in northeast Louisiana during the coming months. These soldiers must be provided clean, attractive recreational facilities.

Thomas E. Dewey summed up a most logical reply to the question of why this money is sought through the subscriptions of individuals and corporations rather than by congress out of public funds. He said:

"The private life and religious guidance of our boys are not a government function in a free country. True they are the business of government in Nazi Germany, Communist Russia and Fascist Italy. But that is the very thing to which we stand opposed. This function is part of the sober business of preserving the essentials of freedom in this, our homeland—almost the last free country in the world."

The well-being of our defense forces, both military and industrial, is a personal obligation upon the citizens of this country. It is an obligation that all of us should be proud to assume.

BOMBERS AND BORDERS

The "new order" of adjusting border disputes is being amply demonstrated in Europe. There is another demonstration going on, however, of how to adjust borders without either bombs or bombast.

It is in the Western Hemisphere. Peru has at last accepted, with some qualifications, true, but with evidence of sincerity, the offer of the United States, Argentina, and Brazil, to help settle her 110-year dispute with Ecuador over certain rich lands in the Amazon headwaters. This acrid dispute has teetered on the edge of war many times, and if it can be thus amicably settled with brains instead of bombs, one more good example will have been set. The United States-Canadian border, once a subject of dispute that led to the edge of war, has not yet finally been settled. Certain surveys are even today being made along the Minnesota-Canada border to determine the allegiance of more than 100 small islands.

Thus quietly the western world way makes progress—brains instead of bombs.

SCIENCE SCORES A WHALE OF A SENSATION

Science, proclaims a breathless newspaper article, has at last affirmed that a whale really could have swallowed Jonah.

It seems that a Dr. Eugene Maximilian Karl Gelling, professor of pharmacology, having little to do one dull day, crawled through the gullet of a (dead) whale. He found it slimy, but definitely roomy.

If this unpalatable feat had been performed by Joe Doakes, fisherman, it would have proved just as much about the Jonah-capacity of whales. But it wouldn't have justified that delectable headline, "Science says—"

BASTROP OFFICIALS DECLARED ELECTED

BASTROP, La., June 7.—(Special)—Independent candidates having qualified for Bastrop municipal offices, the board of supervisors of elections for Morehouse parish has declared it unnecessary to hold the general election, slated Tuesday, automatically electing Mayor A. B. Andrews and five aldermen named in the Democratic primary, April 8.

Mayor Andrews was renominated for the office after G. W. The two led a field of six candidates for the mayor's post in the municipal voting April 8 which saw five aldermen chosen from a field of 22 candidates for the five-man board.

Aldermen chosen in the Democratic primary and declared elected by the board of supervisors of elections for the parish were: Dr. J. N. Jones, J. H. Nunnally, John C. McDonald, W. E. Turpin, and D. N. Smith.

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

CHAPTER VII

Deborah found herself worried and ill at ease throughout dinner; but Bridge bled happily over the service—and as Bridge served, she talked.

Bridge, Deborah realized, felt that the current Lovett hostess was letting her down; and she was rallying all her own conversational arts to uphold the hospitable traditions of the Lovetts.

Stephan listened so appreciatively, and complimented her so charmingly upon her cooking that he had her giggling like a flustered colleen.

"I can't have you bedazzling my poor old Bridge this way, Stephan," Deborah protested when Bridge went to bring the coffee.

It was with the coffee that Bridge's really notable contribution to the conversation came—like a thunderbolt.

"They do be sayin'," she announced, unctuously setting before Deborah the silver service which had come over from England in 1703, "that the crew of a schooner than run in out of the fog are tellin' how they sighted wan of them furrin fightin' ships skulkin' off the coast."

"A fightin' ship? What do you mean, Bridge?" Deborah demanded.

"Wan of them diabolic under-water craft, it was, Miss Deborah—an' a German at that. Mither of Havin' Wad them hythen be shartin' that up all over agin—an' in our own waters? Bad cess to them murtherin' Huns, say I!"

"I think," Deborah said hastily, after a glance at Stephan's expressionless face, "that we'll have the coffee before the living room fire. . . Don't bother Bridge; we'll carry the tray in."

When Stephan set the tray on the table before the fireplace, she said, trying to give it just the right ring of deprecatory amusement, "This isn't a conspiracy, Stephan. Angie—well, Angie just likes to hear herself talk. . . And poor old Bridge certainly never dreamt you were 'wan of them murtherin' Huns.' Any one would think you were English from your speech."

And knew that she was saying all the wrong things. "You don't imagine," he said too carelessly, "that I haven't found out that Germans are not inordinately popular in this country just now?"

Crossing to a window, he raised the shade and stood, looking out. Deborah went to stand beside him.

Through the fog they could see the long luminous finger of light from the beacon on the Point, circling and pointing—circling and pointing. And just inside the curve of the Harbor, a nebulous white blur flared in staccato dashes and dots. Then further to the right—over by the Boston dock, that must be a second pale blur answered.

"Those signals must be from the coast guard cutters I saw come in this afternoon," Deborah said. "I wonder—"

She broke off, seeing that he was not listening.

In a moment he said, "Oh, yes! . . . I see now."

And yet she knew that all along his entire attention had been bent upon those signaling lights.

"I've always had a great interest in your coast guard. It would be interesting to see them work; but I imagine that would not be permitted to a stranger."

"Oh, we're a big-hearted, trustful lot over here. Perhaps if I introduced you—"

"But no!" he interrupted swiftly. "I couldn't think of that."

"You're not, by any chance, afraid of involving me in an international scandal?"

Again Deborah tried to speak lightly—as she might have done last summer.

Stephan changed the subject abruptly.

"But you did say something about a fire, didn't you?" he asked, and turned to stoop over the unburned logs on the hearth.

"So you really imagined this was the way to build a fire?" he grinned. "You had better take notes, for now you are about to watch a real artist at work."

He was the one who was making talk now, with a kind of dogged cheerfulness, as if to make the best of a bad business.

"Building a fire?"—he knelt on the hearth while she sat down miserably, the forgotten coffee on a table beside her chair—"is a business demanding finesse and the most exquisite tenderness and patience. Like this—" delicately, stick by stick, he began to rearrange the charred kindling.

"Now that I think of it," he went on without looking up, "building a fire is not at all unlike making love. To get satisfactory results in either case, you must be willing—and able—to put everything you have into the business."

He stopped to place a log very gently upon the top of the structure. "And if you cannot, it is much wiser to leave both alone. . . There, you see?" he broke off as the fire burst into a companionable crackling.

Deborah wanted to cry out, "Stephan, my dear, what is it you are finding so hard to explain? Surely you didn't drive all the way down here just to tell me how to build a fire!"

When he did not go on, she asked, "Why don't you use some of the driftwood, Stephan?" . . . In the basket at the left. It makes a much hotter fire."

"Oh, but I know all about driftwood, too! At home, our land ran down to the sea. When I was a boy, I used to imagine that each piece had its own strange—perhaps even tragic history. One might almost write a sonnet about a piece of driftwood. Now this, for instance," He selected a heavy piece of charred timber.

"Where do you suppose this could have come from? It's—but, why—it looks like—" he broke off to examine it with startled attention.

"A burnt ship? Yes, doesn't it. . . Burned at sea—and a long time ago. Of course, you know there were ships sunk and burned not so far from here during the last war?" . . . Deborah hardly knew why she was going on. Perhaps because she hoped that startling and shocking him might ease her own unhappiness. "A fragment of a ship's cabin, shouldn't you say?" . . . I wonder what became of the passengers. By the way, what are you going to call your sonnet, Stephan?"

When he continued just to kneel there, the glow of the fire gliding his bent head and flickering over his downcast face, she found herself remembering with a stab the blithe expectancy with which he had stood in her doorway only a few hours ago.

A half-burned stick broke, fell, and blazed again before he said, "You wouldn't know, perhaps; but my father commanded a raider during the last war. He died doing the thing he thought he had to do. I don't think he liked it very much. . . A great many men, even nowadays, are doing things they would much rather not do if circumstances did not make them necessary. . . I wish—"

Promptly, from the front stoop, the bell clanged once; then again, more insistently.

Outside, when Deborah opened the door, stood a stocky middle-aged man, his bundled-up figure blurred by the fog.

"I wish," he began in halting English—"I haf understood—" His eyes shot past Deborah and found Stephan, silhouetted beyond

PROPOSE LABELING LIQUOR AS POISON

CLEVELAND, June 7.—(AP)—Three

Boston physicians appealed today to the American Medical association to endorse a proposal to have all liquor labeled as poison.

They are not prohibitionists, but "regard prohibition as a failure," said Dr. Merrill Moore, Dr. Leo Alexander and Dr. Abraham Myerson.

They suggested that every bottle of liquor carry a label reading: "Use moderately and not on successive days. Eat well while drinking and, if necessary, supplement food by vitamin tablets while drinking. Warning: May be habit-forming, not for use by children. If used immoderately it may cause intoxication, neuralgia, paralysis, mental derangement and kidney and liver damage."

against the living room fire; and he saluted, his leathery face creasing with relief.

"Here Kapitan, you will please forgive me!" he finished in German and gave a guarded glance at Deborah. "I have news."

"But you should not have come here, Wilhelm."

West Monroe Man Has Key Post In Canal's Defense

General Jarman One Of Most Distinguished Graduates Of O. P. H. S.

"He was one of the most brilliant and completely deserving boys who ever graduated from Ouachita Parish High school." This was the tribute that Superintendent T. O. Brown paid to Major General Sanderford Jarman, who today has before him the task of building and perfecting new defenses for the Panama canal which are regarded by military experts as the basis for repulsion of any attacks that may be made by an enemy on the western hemisphere.

Jarman has come up step by step by his own persistent efforts and is today proudly claimed as a West Monroe boy who has made good in a striking manner. Ouachita Parish High school claims him among its most distinguished graduates.

Near the turn of the century, when T. O. Brown had but recently assumed his duties here as parish school superintendent, Jarman was graduated in the little class that went forth from the Monroe institution. He had had a rather hard struggle to complete his course, as his parents, operating a small boarding house on Trenton street in West Monroe, were having a hard time making ends meet. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jarman, both now dead.

Young Jarman stuck it out, and by dint of hard work was graduated with honors. At that time, the Ouachita parish police jury offered a scholarship at L. S. U., and Jarman took the examination which was given by T. O. Brown, E. L. Neville, and Rev. Father Enaut. He passed with flying colors and, continuing his earnest purpose in life, spent several years in the state university. Then opportunity knocked again. He received an appointment to the United States army academy at West Point and went there to complete his course. He has been commander of cadets at L. S. U. holds the Distinguished Service medal for service in France in World War No. 1, and is regarded today as one of the most competent generals in Uncle Sam's army.

The Panama canal is considered by military men as a major link in defense. As a part of the new defense zone, General Jarman is building 30 little jungle cities, each an anti-aircraft station manned by soldiers known as "Jarman's jungle artillerymen."

The jungles of the Canal Zone were barges, personnel, and ammunition were rushed to Panama.

The anti-aircraft units went far into the jungles to set up new and secret anti-aircraft batteries. Eight-ton guns were hauled through the jungles and placed in key positions, and units of soldiers were sent to live alongside their batteries.

This was the first time that United States army soldiers had been sent into jungles to live, and many said it could not be done. But with the careful guidance of Jarman, it was completed.

Inside the jungle, work was begun on more than 30 little cities, each with a complete anti-aircraft defense station. When completed, each will have its own electric power system, telephone, radio, and water supply.

Inside barracks, Jarman's jungle artillerymen will live and await the day when action will be required and when the defense of two continents may hang in the balance.

General Jarman's army record is as follows: First saw service with the coast artillery on Mobile bay, Ala., in May, 1908; then ordered to West Point; served successfully at Fort Andrews, Mass.; at Louisiana State university; Fort Monroe, Va.; Camp McClellan, Ala.; then sailed for France in May, 1918, with an advance party of the 29th division.

He received the Distinguished Service medal, and, following World War No. 1, served at various schools and commands until March, 1939, when he was ordered to the Panama Canal Zone. Last October, he was designated as coast and anti-aircraft commander for the zone.

General Jarman has not visited Louisiana for many years, but he is recalled by many of the older residents of the Twin Cities, and some of his cousins reside in the vicinity of West Monroe and are following his career with unusual interest and look for him to win still greater laurels.

He has been the subject of numerous sketches in publications of nationwide interest, among the number being that of Time magazine, which on occasions has carried extensive write-ups about him.

Will Give Prize For Best Letter On Home-Building

In an effort to judge more accurately the kind of homes which meet the desires of home owners and prospective home owners of northeast Louisiana, the advertisers on the News-Star—World home-building page and the home-building editor of the papers yesterday announced a contest, beginning today, to select the best letter written on "The Kind of Home I Would Like to Own."

A first prize of $5 will be awarded the writer of the best letter on the subject, and the next five best letters each will bring a dollar to their writers.

A committee selected by the advertisers on the Home Building page and the Home Building editor will judge the letters on the basis of practicality and constructive imagination. Individual desires in the arrangement of rooms and all other details of construction, as well as the type of materials most desired, are sought in the letters, the sponsors of the contest stated, so that they may more easily follow their policy of building and furnishing to suit the individual taste.

All letters entered in the contest must be postmarked not later than Friday, June 13. Address: all letters to Home Building Editor, News-Star—World, Monroe, La.

The cortege left the residence at 500 Warren drive in West Monroe and proceeded to the Ridge Avenue Baptist church, where services were held at 10 a. m. The pastor, Rev. A. T. Mitchell, officiated, being assisted by Rev. Tom Ratcliff of Olla.

Additional services were held at Chapel Hill church on the Calhoun-Farmerville road, and interment took place in a nearby cemetery. The funeral was directed by the Dixie Funeral home.

Active pallbearers were Otis Kirkham, V. E. Maulden, Troy Stark, Odie Atex, Henry G. Sholars, and William Bates. Honorary pallbearers were all employees of the Louisiana Power and Light company and friends of the family.

Mr. Pace is survived by his wife, Mrs. Beth Butler Pace; a daughter, Norma Jean Pace, and two brothers, Glenn Pace, in camp with the United States army at Augusta, Ga., and R. B. Pace, Rocky Branch.

BASTROP OFFICIALS DECLARED ELECTED

BASTROP, La., June 7.—(Special)—No independent candidates having qualified for Bastrop municipal offices, the board of supervisors of elections for Morehouse parish has declared it unnecessary to hold the general election, slated Tuesday, automatically electing Mayor A. B. Andrews and five aldermen named in the Democratic primary, April 8.

Mayor Andrews was renominated for the office after G. W. Hiatt, Bastrop realtor who had placed with the mayor in a run-off election for the Democratic nomination as a result of the April 8 balloting, died suddenly April 17. The two led a field of six candidates for the mayor's post in the municipal voting April 8 which saw five aldermen chosen from a field of 22 candidates for the five-man board.

Aldermen chosen in the Democratic primary and declared elected by the board of supervisors of elections for the parish were: Dr. J. N. Jones, J. H. Nunnally, John C. McDonald, W. E. Turpin, and D. W. Smith.

Members of the board of supervisors of elections are W. T. Smith, Robert H. Hope, and W. E. Aden, registrar of voters.

SERIAL STORY FOOTSTEPS IN THE FOG BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

CHAPTER VII

Deborah found herself worried and ill at ease throughout dinner; but Bridgie bustled happily over the service—and as Bridgie served, she talked. Bridgie, Deborah realized, felt that the current Lovett hostess was letting her down; and she was rallying all her own conversational arts to uphold the hospitable traditions of the Lovetts. Stephan listened so appreciatively, and complimented her so charmingly upon her cooking that he had her giggling like a flustered colleen.

"I can't have you bedazzling my poor old Bridgie this way, Stephan," Deborah protested when Bridgie went to bring the coffee.

It was with the coffee that Bridgie's really notable contribution to the conversation came—like a thunderbolt. "They do be sayin'," she announced, unctuously setting before Deborah the silver service which had come over from England in 1703, "that the crew of a schooner than run in out of the fog are tellin' how the sighted wing of them furrin fightin' ships skulkin' off the coast."

"A fighting ship? What do you mean, Bridgie?" Deborah demanded.

"Wan of them diabolic underwather craft, it was, Miss Deborah—an German at that. Mither of Havin'! Wad them haythen be shartin' that up all over agin—in our own waters?" Bad cess to them murthin' Huns, say I!"

"I think," Deborah said hastily, after a glance at Stephan's expressionless face, "that we'll have the coffee before the living room fire. . . . Don't bother Bridgie; we'll carry the tray in."

When Stephan set the tray on the table before the fireplace, she said, trying to give it just the right ring of deprecatory amusement. "This isn't a conspiracy, Stephan. Angie—well, Angie just likes to hear herself talk. . . . And poor old Bridgie certainly never dreamed you were 'wan of them murthin' Huns.' Any one would think you were English from your speech."

And knew that she was saying all the wrong things.

"You don't imagine," he said too carelessly, "that I haven't found out that Germans are not inordinately popular in this country just now?"

Crossing to a window, he raised the shade and stood, looking out. Deborah went to stand beside him.

Through the fog they could see the long luminous finger of light from the beacon—circling and pointing. And just inside the Curve of the Harbor, a nebulous white blur flared in staccato dashes and dots. Then further to the right—over by the Boston dock, that must be a second pale blur answered.

"Those signals must be from the coast guard cutters I saw come in this afternoon," Deborah said. "I wonder—"

She broke off, seeing that he was not listening.

In a moment he said, "Oh, yes! . . . I see now."

And yet she knew that all along his entire attention had been bent upon those signaling lights.

"I've always had a great interest in your coast guard. It would be interesting to see them work; but I imagine that would not be permitted to a stranger."

"Oh, we're a big-hearted, trustful lot over here. Perhaps if I introduced you—"

"But no!" he interrupted swiftly. "I couldn't think of that."

"You're not, by any chance, afraid of involving me in an international scandal?"

Again Deborah tried to speak lightly—as she might have done last summer.

VALEDICTORIAN

Miss La Van Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Barnes of Eros, was named valedictorian of this year's senior class of Eros High school. She was a four-year honor student with an "A" average through her high school career. She won honor medals each year and was awarded a scholarship at L. S. U.

PROPOSE LABELING LIQUOR AS POISON

CLEVELAND, June 7.—(P)—Three Boston physicians appealed today to the American Medical association to endorse a proposal to have all liquor labeled as poison.

They are not prohibitionists, but "regard prohibition as a failure," said Dr. Merrill Moore, Dr. Leo Alexander and Dr. Abraham Myerson.

They suggested that every bottle of liquor carry a label reading: "Use moderately and not on successive days. Eat well while drinking and, if necessary, supplement food by vitamin tablets while drinking. Warning: May be habit-forming, not for use by children. If used immediately it may cause intoxication, neuralgia, paralysis, mental derangement and kidney and liver damage."

against the living room fire; and he saluted, his leathery face creasing with relief.

"Herr Kapitan, you will please forgive me!" he finished in German after a guarded glance at Deborah. "I have news."

"But you should not have come here, Wilhelm."

General Jarman One Of Most Distinguished Graduates Of O. P. H. S.

"He was one of the most brilliant and completely deserving boys who ever graduated from Ouachita Parish High school." This was the tribute that Superintendent T. O. Brown paid to Major General Sanderford Jarman, who today has before him the task of building and perfecting new defenses for the Panama canal which are regarded by military experts as the basis for repulsion of any attacks that may be made by an enemy on the western hemisphere.

Jarman has come up step by step by his own persistent efforts and is today proudly claimed as a West Monroe boy who has made good in a striking manner. Ouachita Parish High school claims him among its most distinguished graduates.

Near the turn of the century, when T. O. Brown had but recently assumed his duties here as parish school superintendent, Jarman was graduated in the little class that went forth from the Monroe institution. He had had a rather hard struggle to complete his course, as his parents, operating a small boarding house on Trenton street in West Monroe, were having a hard time making ends meet. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jarman, both now dead.

Young Jarman stuck it out, and by dint of hard work was graduated with honors. At that time, the Ouachita parish police jury offered a scholarship at L. S. U., and Jarman took the examination which was given by T. O. Brown, E. L. Neville, and Rev. Father Enaut. He passed with flying colors and, continuing his earnest purpose in life, spent several years in the state university. Then opportunity knocked again. He received an appointment to the United States army academy at West Point and went there to complete his course. He has been commandant of cadets at L. S. U., holds the Distinguished Service medal for service in France in World War No. 1, and is regarded today as one of the most competent generals in Uncle Sam's army.

The Panama canal is considered by military men as a major link in defense. As a part of the new defense zone, General Jarman is building 30 little jungle cities, each an anti-aircraft station manned by soldiers known as "Jarman's jungle artillerymen."

The jungles of the Canal Zone were regarded by many as a place in which it was impossible to live. Jarman has proved that such is not the case. Directed by Jarman, the canal is being fortified along modern lines, with picked units of soldiers given special defense training. When the present war started, the United States turned its attention to the Canal Zone and General Jarman was picked for the job of preparing suitable defense. He was transferred from command of the world famous 64th coast artillery in Hawaii to the Canal Zone. Soon after Jarman arrived at his new field of operations, 800 men were hand-picked from the regular army and sent to him. These were men who had been trained thoroughly in anti-aircraft work, for air defense is regarded as of primary importance at Panama.

Within 90 days after the arrival of these soldiers, the general had whipped his forces into shape, put them through intensive training, and arranged for a real test. For a whole week, ground forces under General Jarman and the 19th wing of the air corps staged maneuvers that disclosed glaring weaknesses in canal defense.

General Jarman, not minding words, reported these deficiencies in material, armament, personnel, and other defense factors. Under his suggestion, all coast artillery regiments in Panama were formed into a new organization, which became the largest and most powerful armed artillery unit in the entire army. Guns, mechanized equipment, aircraft, boats, barges, personnel, and ammunition were rushed to Panama.

The anti-aircraft units went far into the jungles to set up new and secret anti-aircraft batteries. Eight-ton guns were hauled through the jungles and placed in key positions, and units of soldiers were sent to live alongside their batteries.

This was the first time that United States army soldiers had been sent into jungles to live, and many said it could not be done. But with the careful guidance of Jarman, it was completed.

Inside the jungle, work was begun on more than 30 little cities, each with a complete anti-aircraft defense station. When completed, each will have its own electric power system, telephone, radio, and water supply. Inside barracks, Jarman's jungle artillerymen will live and await the day when action will be required and when the defense of two continents may hang in the balance.

General Jarman's army record is as follows: First saw service with the coast artillery on Mobile bay, Ala., in May, 1908; then ordered to West Point; served successively at Fort Andrews, Mass.; at Louisiana State university; Fort Monroe, Va.; Camp McClellan, Ala.; then sailed for France in May, 1918, with an advance party of the 29th division.

He received the Distinguished Service medal, and, following World War No. 1, served at various schools and commands until March, 1939, when he was ordered to the Panama Canal Zone. Last October, he was designated as coast and anti-aircraft commander for the zone.

General Jarman has not visited Louisiana for many years, but he is recalled by many of the older residents of the Twin Cities, and some of his cousins reside in the vicinity of West Monroe and are following his career with unusual interest and look for him to win still greater laurels.

He has been the subject of numerous sketches in publications of nationwide interest, among the number being that of Time magazine, which on occasions has carried extensive write-ups about him.

WILL GIVE PRIZE FOR BEST LETTER ON HOME-BUILDING

In an effort to judge more accurately the kind of homes which meet the desires of home owners and prospective home owners of northeast Louisiana, the advertisers on the News-Star—World home-building page and the home-building editor of the papers yesterday announced a contest, beginning today, to select the best letter written on "The Kind of Home I Would Like to Own."

A first prize of $5 will be awarded the writer of the best letter on the subject, and the next five best letters each will bring a dollar to their writers.

A committee selected by the advertisers on the Home Building page and the Home Building editor will judge the letters on the basis of practicability and constructive imagination. Individual desires in the arrangement of rooms and all other details of construction, as well as the type of materials most desired, are sought in the letters, the sponsors of the contest stated, so that they may more easily follow their policy of building and furnishing to suit the individual taste.

All letters entered in the contest must be postmarked not later than Friday, June 13. Address all letters to Home Building Editor, News-Star—World, Monroe, La.

SUSPECTED TRIPLE SLAYER ARRESTED

SAN BERNARDINA, Calif., June 7. —(AP)—Arrest of an ex-convict accused of a triple slaying—in one case shooting a woman while he held her baby—was reported today by Harry R. Heap, criminal deputy sheriff.

He said officers in Spokane, Wash., had ended a month's search by arresting Alfred Wells, 30.

Wells was formally charged May 12 with the murders of his half-brother, Raymond Wells, 24, an employee of the Santa Fe shops here, the latter's wife, Jean, 20, and Rose Destree, 17, of Escondido, Calif., a visitor at the Wells home.

He was accused of luring Mrs. Wells and Miss Destree into long Cajon pass on the night of May 7, shooting them both while he held Mrs. Wells' year-old baby in his arms, then tossing the child onto his mother's bleeding breast.

Then, Sheriff Emmet L. Shay charged, Wells met his half-brother at the shops, drove to a spot less than a mile from where his slain wife lay, and shot and killed him. His body was found several days later.

Shay said Alfred Wells was angry because a half-sister, Violet Davis, had left as his housekeeper and blamed Raymond and Jean Wells for her departure.

FARMER'S MARE FOALS TWINS

Healthy Twin Mule Colts Here Are Equine Rarity

G. B. Studdard's Young Animals, Envy Of Farmers, Born A Month Ago

Farmers in Ouachita parish who have taken to raising colts for home needs are proud of their useful animals, but perhaps none is more proud than 38-year-old G. B. Studdard, Sterlington road.

Exactly a month ago one of his mares foaled healthy twin mule colts that are envied by all farmers throughout the parish. Equally proud is Farmer Studdard's son, F. G. Studdard, 24, who operates a farm a little more than a stone's throw across the highway from his father, because his more than a 1,000-pound "jack" is the colts' daddy.

Twin mule colts are a rarity. It has been estimated that only one out of 20,000 twins that are born live, and the sight of Farmer Studdard's brown-colored, sensitive, and shy colts prancing around the corral is enough to incite envy and provoke words of admiration from neighboring farmers who have seen the young mules.

Mr. Studdard who operates a large farm began raising colts eight years ago for use on his land, and he now has 28 head of mule colts. The six-year-old mare that foaled the twins had a colt two years ago and one three years ago.

David L. Bornman, Jr., county agent for the parish agricultural extension service, was almost as enthusiastic as Farmer Studdard over the healthy twins, and the county agent later remarked that 150 to 175 colts were raised in Ouachita parish last year. University agricultural departments are encouraging colt-raising for home needs, he said, so that farmers can use available cash for things they can't produce themselves.

Most twin colts die at birth or shortly afterwards, or either only one survives, but seldom do both live to maturity. However, Mr. Studdard's month-old mule colts are as healthy as any single mule that was ever born, and the owner is proud of his animals because he is confident that, having accidents, the colts will grow strong and healthy and will be useful to him in the field.

error will assume the executive functions.

"This, of course, the Louisiana supreme court will refuse to do."

Joining Stanley in filing the brief were First Assistant Attorney General W. D. Goff, Special Assistant Attorney General Cicero Sessions, G. T. Owen, executive counsel to the governor, and James J. Morrison, executive counsel of the crime commission.

They filed the brief in behalf of Governor Sam Jones and other state officials. Attached to it were charts showing the old setup of the state government and its simplification under the reorganization plan.

Another brief in support of the state's case was filed by James Smith, attorney, department of public works; George Wilson, general counsel, department of minerals and conservation; John B. Smullen, counsel, department of revenue; James I. Smith, counsel, department of finance; Arthur Hammond, counsel, department of highways; Samuel M. Robertson, attorney, department of occupational standards; William B. Clarke, legal representative, department of institutions; and William J. Blass, all acting as amici curiae.

"In previous years," Close's statement declared, "the printing board spent at the rate of $1,000,000 per year on printing. Appropriated for this purpose this year is $300,000, but perhaps a little more will have to be spent. It is safe to say, however, that not more than $500,000 on the outside will be spent on printing. The saving is being effected for the reason that printing is being bought in quantity, with elimination of waste and unnecessary printing orders."

The supreme court last Monday heard arguments and took under advisement the suit brought by Earl R. Graham and others in Baton Rouge. On this petition Judge James D. Womack had declared the act unconstitutional and issued an injunction against the transfer of state funds to agencies named in the reorganization act.

The supplemental brief filed by Stanley and the others further said that success of the suit against the act means that:

"Every check drawn and every sum disbursed from the public treasury or any other governmental source must run the gamut of injunction suits from every one of the 130,000 people in the United States."

"It means that any individual defeated in the legislature or at the polls can without showing any injury or damage, transfer his controversy to the courts."

THOMAS L. BAILEY AUTO IN COLLISION

MERIDIAN, Miss., June 7.—(AP)—The shiny new automobile which Mississippi friends recently gave Thomas L. Bailey, Meridian candidate for governor in 1939, sustained a caved-in front, four persons went to the hospital with minor injuries, and several others were bruised in a street corner collision here today.

The Bailey car, driven by 19-year-old Harold Bailey, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, all of whom were bruised, was in collision with a car from Bentonia.

Those in the hospital were Miss Mary Jane Stroble, Meridian, broken nose; Mrs. C. L. Sanders, Bentonia, bruises and abrasions; Miss Vivian Sanders, bruises and abrasions, and Mrs. B. D. Hennis, Bentonia, lacerations.

C. L. Sanders was driving the Bentonia car, occupied also by his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hennis and six children.

Both cars were practically new. The speedometers showed the Bailey machine had been driven 850 miles, the Sanders car, 310 miles.

Bailey, veteran Mississippi legislator, served as speaker of the House for 12 years. He is considered a possible gubernatorial candidate in 1943.

SUSPECTED TRIPLE SLAYER ARRESTED

SAN BERNARDINA, Calif., June 7. —(AP)—Arrest of an ex-convict accused of a triple slaying—in one case shooting a woman while he held her baby—was reported today by Harry R. Heap, criminal deputy sheriff.

He said officers in Spokane, Wash., had ended a month's search by arresting Alfred Wells, 30.

Wells was formally charged May 12 with the murders of his half-brother, Raymond Wells, 24, an employee of the Santa Fe shops here, the latter's wife, Jean, 20, and Rose Destree, 17, of Escudido, Calif., a visitor at the Wells home.

He was accused of luring Mrs. Wells and Miss Destree into lonely Cajon pass on the night of May 7, shooting them both while he held Mrs. Wells' year-old baby in his arms, then tossing the child into his mother's bleeding breast.

Then, Sheriff Emmet L. Shay charged, Wells met his half-brother at the shops, drove to a spot less than a mile from where his slain wife lay, and shot and killed him. His body was found several days later.

Shay said Alfred Wells was angry because a half-sister, Violet Davis, had left as his housekeeper and blamed Raymond and Jean Wells for her departure.

FARMER'S MARE FOALS TWINS

Healthy Twin Mule Colts Here Are Equine Rarity

G. B. Studdard's Young Animals, Envy Of Farmers, Born A Month Ago

Farmers in Ouachita parish who have taken to raising colts for home needs are proud of their useful animals, but perhaps none is more proud than 38-year-old G. B. Studdard, Sterlington road.

Exactly a month ago one of his mares foaled healthy twin mule colts that are envied by all farmers throughout the parish. Equally proud is Farmer Studdard's son, F. G. Studdard, 24, who operates a farm a little more than a stone's throw across the highway from his father, because his more than a 1,000-pound "jack" is the colts' daddy.

Twin mule colts are a rarity. It has been estimated that only one out of 20,000 twins that are born live, and the sight of Farmer Studdard's brown-colored, sensitive, and shy colts prancing around the corral is enough to incite envy and provoke words of admiration from neighboring farmers who have seen the young mules.

Mr. Studdard who operates a large farm began raising colts eight years ago for use on his land, and he now has 28 head of mule colts. The six-year-old mare that foaled the twins had a colt two years ago and one three years ago.

David L. Borman, Jr., county agent for the parish agricultural extension service, was almost as enthusiastic as Farmer Studdard over the healthy twins, and the county agent later remarked that 150 to 175 colts were raised in Ouachita parish last year.

University agricultural departments are encouraging colt-raising for home needs, he said, so that farmers can use available cash for things they can't produce themselves.

Most twin colts die at birth or shortly afterwards, or either only one survives, but seldom do both live to maturity. However, Mr. Studdard's month old mule colts are as healthy as any single mule that was ever born, and the owner is proud of his animals because he is confident that, having accidents, the colts will grow strong and healthy and will be useful to him in the field.

error will assume the executive functions.

"This, of course, the Louisiana supreme court will refuse to do."

Joining Stanley in filing the brief were First Assistant Attorney General W. D. Goff, Special Assistant Attorney General Cicero Sessions, G. T. Owen, executive counsel to the governor, and James J. Morrison, executive counsel of the crime commission.

They filed the brief in behalf of Governor Sam Jones and other state officials. Attached to it were charts showing the old setup of the state government and its simplification under the reorganization plan.

Another brief in support of the state's case was filed by James Smitherman, attorney, department of public works; George Wilson, general counsel, department of minerals and conservation; John B. Smullin, counsel, department of revenue; James I. Smith, counsel, department of finance; Arthur Hammond, counsel, department of highways; Samuel M. Robertson, attorney, department of occupational standards; William B. Clarke, legal representative, department of institutions; and William J. Blase, all acting as amici curiae.

"In previous years," Close's statement declared, "the printing board spent at the rate of $1,000,000 per year on printing. Appropriated for this purpose this year is $300,000, but perhaps a little more will have to be spent. It is safe to say, however, that not more than $500,000 on the outside will be spent on printing. The saving is being effected for the reason that printing is being bought in quantity, with elimination of waste and unnecessary printing orders."

The supreme court last Monday heard arguments and took under advisement the suit brought by Earl R. Graham and others in Baton Rouge. On this petition Judge James D. Womack had declared the act unconstitutional and issued an injunction against the transfer of state funds to agencies named in the reorganization act.

The supplemental brief filed by Stanley and the others further said that success of the suit against the act means that:

"Every check drawn and every sum disbursed from the public treasury or any other governmental source must run the gamut of injunction suits from every one of the 130,000,000 people in the United States.

"It means that any individual defeated in the legislature or at the polls can without showing any injury or damage, transfer his controversy to the courts."

THOMAS L. BAILEY AUTO IN COLLISION

MERIDIAN, Miss., June 7.—(AP)—The shiny new automobile which Mississippi friends recently gave Thomas L. Bailey, Meridian candidate for governor in 1939, sustained a cave-in front, four persons went to the hospital with minor injuries, and several others were bruised in a street corner collision here today.

The Bailey car, driven by 19-year-old Harold Bailey, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, all of whom were bruised, was in collision with a car from Bentonla.

Those in the hospital were Miss Mary Jane Stroble, Meridian, broken nose; Mrs. C. L. Sanders, Bentonla, bruises and abrasions; Miss Vivian Sanders, bruises and abrasions, and Mrs. B. D. Hennis, Bentonla, lacerations.

C. L. Sanders was driving the Bentonla car, occupied also by his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hennis, six children.

Both cars were practically new. The speedometers showed the Bailey machine had been driven 850 miles, the Sanders car, 510 miles.

Bailey, veteran Mississippi legislator, served as speaker of the House for 12 years. He is considered a possible gubernatorial candidate in 1943.

CRAIG WOOD WINS NATIONAL OPEN GOLF TITLE

VETERAN GRABS COVETED CROWN IN FINAL ROUND

Beats Denny Shute By Three Strokes After Wavering, Coming Back

By Bill Boni

FORT WORTH, June 7.—(AP)—Craig Wood was paid off in full today for long years of golfing hard luck.

Under a broiling sun and before galleries that totaled some 10,000 steaming Texans, the 39-year-old veteran from Mamaroneck, N. Y., stole the United States Open golf championship right out from under the noses of those Texans who had been sure this was going to be the Lone Star state's own golfing show.

Bracketed in a first-place tie at 36 holes with Denny Shute, 1940 Champion Lawson Little and Clayton Hearner, Wood broke that deadlock by matching par for the gruelling Colonial Club course with a 70 on his morning round.

This afternoon, playing last among those with a chance to take the title, he appeared to be wavering occasionally but each time got back to par. He closed out his round with a thrilling 30-foot putt on the home green that brought a ringing cheer from the banked ranks of spectators and gave him another 70 for 284.

With that 72-hole score, four over what was a very tough par all the way, the easy-going blond beat Denny Shute, who once nosed him out in a playoff for the British Open title, by three strokes and scored his second major triumph in two months after never having taken one before. Two months ago at Augusta, Ga., Craig captured the Masters title.

Thus the man who until this year had been known as the "great runner-up" captured the biggest prize of them all—worth $10,000 of the United States Golf Association's prize money, but worth far more than that in prestige.

A month ago Wood told this writer he was confident in his ability to win the Open, that his age would prove no handicap and that his game was better now than ever before. Two

'BASEBALL DAY' IS SLATED HERE

Mayor Benoit Issues Proclamation Urging Citizens To Attend Tuesday

Mayor Harvey H. Benoit yesterday proclaimed Tuesday as Baseball Day here and urged the attendance of all diamond fans at the series opener here on that date between the league leading Helena Seaporters and the Monroe White Sox.

Pointing out that inclement weather is putting a financial strain on a group of civic minded citizens who hold the club's purse strings only with hopes of breaking even on the season in order to keep baseball here, the mayor solicited the aid of all fans in giving their active support in perpetuating baseball here not only for this year but for seasons to come.

His proclamation: "Whereas baseball is unquestionably the oldest and most honorable of all our American sports, and "Whereas baseball in the city of Monroe is definitely a civic asset and deserves the support of all who are interested in the progress of the Twin Cities, and

"Whereas baseball is being sponsored in the city of Monroe by a group of unselfish and civic minded citizens without hope or expectation of profit, but only for the purpose of providing a major sport for the citizens of Monroe and vicinity, and "Whereas due to rains and bad weather, the Monroe White Sox have not been able to play all of their home games and as a result, interest in baseball has declined, and the sponsors of baseball have suffered financially, and

"Therefore, I, Harvey H. Benoit, by the authority vested in me as mayor of the city of Monroe do hereby proclaim Tuesday, June 10, 1941, as Baseball Day and urge the attendance of all our citizens to the baseball game that night between the Monroe White Sox and the Helena Seaporters, and the sponsors of baseball lending active support in perpetuating baseball in the city of Monroe not only for this year but in years to come.

"Given under my hand and seal this 6th day of June, 1941.

"Mayor City of Monroe."
The Seaporters will be here for only two games, Tuesday and Wednesday. Clarkdale will arrive Thursday for two regularly scheduled games, and one or two double headers may be worked into the Clarkdale series because both their games scheduled here for last May 5 and 6 were rained out. El Dorado will play a pair of games here next Saturday and Sunday, and then the Sox take to the road again for three games at Helena and three with Clarkdale before returning on June 22 for a four-game stand with Hot Springs.

COTTON BOLL

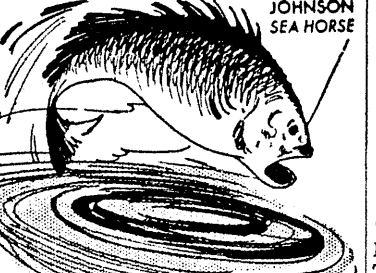

The Keystone Decorators, local entry in the Cotton Boli baseball league, will meet the Collinston Outlaws in a double header here this afternoon at Casino park. The first game is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

The Monroe Pirates also play at home today, meeting the Gilbert club on the Lida Benton diamond.

MEET ARMY NINE
CLARKS, La., June 7.—(Special)—The Clark Lumberjacks of the Cotton Boli league, scheduled to meet the Chatham club Sunday, will meet the Camp Claiborne army team instead. It was announced here yesterday.

PELS EDGE CHICKS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 7.—(AP)—Three pitchers, two pinchhitters, and a desperate eighth-inning rally all helped the Memphis Chicks' winning streak today as New Orleans won a 7-6 victory.

Hank Nowak blanked the Chicks for six innings, and went into the seventh with a 6-0 lead. Memphis took one run, gave it back in the Pels' next turn at bat, then blasted five runs across in the eighth, sending Nowak to the showers. But Dick Coffman stopped the Chicks' lead, allowing only one more hit the rest of the game.

Bob Feller Says He Won't Request Draft Deferment

Cleveland Ace Wants To Be 'Treated Just Like Anybody Else'

By Ray Blosser

CLEVELAND, June 7.—(AP)—Bob Feller picked his selective service questionnaires from the mail today and joined top club officials in declaring he would make no request for deferment—even if the Cleveland Indians are locked in a sizzling pennant race when he is called.

Returning from a round of golf, baseball's No. 1 pitcher opened the long white envelope, took a peek at the questions, and remarked: "It makes me laugh to think of this 'confidential' information they are asking for, when most of it is public property."

"I want to be treated just like anybody else. I don't intend to ask any deferment."

Feller—No. 287 of 3,830 registrants in Cleveland's district 20—may be called as early as August.

He is expected to fill in "45,000" as his annual salary—and President Alva Bradley of the Indians said he "wouldn't think" the Tribe would continue to pay Feller while he draws $21-a-month army pay.

"There is a military service clause in the contract, as in all baseball contracts now," said Bradley, adding: "I'm not going to ask for deferment for Feller. I'm not going to be put in that position and his wishes will be respected." C. C. Slapnicka, club vice-president, echoed "even if he is called when we are in a tie for the pennant late in September that still goes."

Their comments came after Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, who may lose two sons to the army this month, hopefully suggested "it wouldn't be too much out of line to ask for 30 days or so deferment if it's near the end of the season." Peck, however, pointed out the matter was up to Bradley and Slapnicka, and they turned thumbs down.

JAVELIN MARK SET

BY BONURA BROKEN

By Byrd High Youth

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—(AP)—Pat Croke today broke the 16-year-old javelin throw record in the 25th annual junior A. A. U. track and field meet which was won by Jesuit High of New Orleans.

Creegan threw the javelin 195 feet, 6 inches, smashing the mark set by Zeke Bonura in 1925 when he hurled the javelin 153 feet, 2 1/4 inches.

The Jesuit Blue Jays won team honors with 36 points while two other New Orleans high schools, Fortier and Easton, were second and third with 24 1/2 and 15 points, respectively. Other scorers were Bolton, 13; Mansura, 8 1/2; New Orleans Athletic club, 8; Baton Rouge, 7; Byrd, 5; Homer, 3, and Slaughter, 1.

Two other records also were broken. Butler Avery Fortier, won the low hurdles in 24.7 second, one-tenth of a second faster than the record set by Allen Schumacher of Ole Miss in 1932.

Jim Tharp, Jesuit's, set a new mark in the shot-put when he tossed the 12-pound weight 35 feet, 2 5/8 inches. The old standard of 52 feet, 6 1/4 inches was set last year by Herley Tripp, Shreveport.

QUACHITA VALLEY

The improved Brown Paper mill baseball club which has won four of its last five Quachita Valley league games, moves into Bastrop today for an encounter with the Bastrop Kraftsmen at 3:30 p. m.

The Browns lost six of their first seven games of the season, but Manager Jack Bagwell and company have been taking up the slack in the past couple of weeks and now are only two and a half games behind the leading Ruston Volunteers despite the fact that they are in sixth place in the standings.

The Ruston league race has Crossett half a game out of first place, Springhill and Camden, tied for third, are only half a game behind the leader also and are technically tied for second but slight differences in games played put them behind Crossett in

VETERAN GRABS COVETED CROWN IN FINAL ROUND

By Bill Boni

FORT WORTH, June 7.—(P)—Craig Wood was paid off in full today for long years of golfing hard luck. Under a broiling sun and before galleries that totaled some 10,000 steaming Texans, the 39-year-old veteran from Mamaroneck, N. Y., stole the United States Open golf championship right out from under the noses of those Texans who had been sure this was going to be the Lone Star state's own golfing show.

Bracketed in a first-place tie at 36 holes with Denny Shute, 1940 champion Lawson Little and Clayton Heister, Wood broke that deadlock by matching par for the gruelling Colonial Club course with a 70 on his morning round.

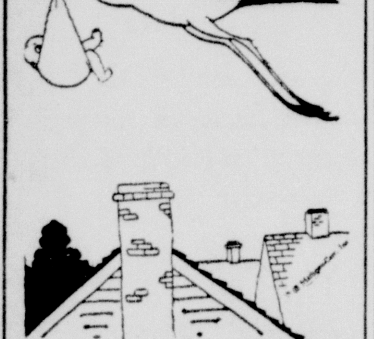

This afternoon, playing last among those with a chance to take the title, he appeared to be wavering occasionally but each time got back to par. He closed out his round with a thrilling 30-foot putt on the home green that brought a ringing cheer from the banked ranks of spectators and gave him another 70 for 284.

With that 72-hole score, four over what was a very tough par all the way, the big, easy-going blond beat Denny Shute, who once nosed him out in a playoff for the British Open title, by three strokes and scored his second major triumph in two months after never having taken one before.

Two months ago at Augusta, Ga., Craig captured the Masters title.

Thus the man who until this year had been known as the "great runner-up" captured the biggest prize of them all—worth $1,000 of the United States Golf Association's prize money, but worth far more than that in prestige.

A month ago Wood told this writer he was confident in his ability to win the Open, that his age would prove no handicap and that his game was better now than ever before. Two

'BASEBALL DAY' IS SLATED HERE

Mayor Benoit Issues Proclamation Urging Citizens To Attend Tuesday

Mayor Harvey H. Benoit yesterday proclaimed Tuesday as Baseball Day here and urged the attendance of all diamond fans at the series opener here on that date between the league leading Helena Seaporters and the Monroe White Sox.

Pointing out that inclement weather is putting a financial strain on a group of civic minded citizens who hold the club's purse strings only with hopes of breaking even on the season in order to keep baseball here, the mayor solicited the aid of all fans in giving their active support in perpetuating baseball here not only for this year but for seasons to come.

His proclamation: "Whereas baseball is unquestionably the oldest and most honorable of all our American sports, and

"Whereas baseball in the city of Monroe is definitely a civic asset and deserves the support of all who are interested in the progress of the Twin Cities, and

"Whereas baseball is being sponsored in the city of Monroe by a group of unselfish and civic minded citizens without hope or expectation of profit, but only for the purpose of providing a major sport for the citizens of Monroe and vicinity, and

"Whereas due to rains and bad weather, the Monroe White Sox have not been able to play all of their home games and as a result, interest in baseball has declined, and the sponsors of baseball have suffered financially, and

"Therefore, I, Harvey H. Benoit, by the authority vested in me as mayor of the city of Monroe do hereby proclaim Tuesday, June 10, 1941, as Baseball Day and urge the attendance of all our citizens to the baseball game that night between the Monroe and Helena, thereby lending active support in perpetuating baseball in the city of Monroe not only for this year but in years to come.

"Given under my hand and seal this 6th day of June, 1941.

"Mayor City of Monroe."

The Seaporters will be here for only two games, Tuesday and Wednesday, Clarkdale will arrive Thursday for two regularly scheduled games, and one or two double headers may be worked into the Clarkdale series because both their games scheduled here for last May 5 and 6 were rained out. El Dorado will play a pair of games here next Saturday and Sunday, and then the Sox take to the road again for three games at Helena and three with Clarkdale before returning on June 22 for a four-game stand with Hot Springs.

COTTON BOLL

The Keystone Decorators, local entry in the Cotton Bolls baseball league, will meet the Collinston Outlaws in a double header here this afternoon at Casino park. The first game is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

The Monroe Pirates also play at home today, meeting the Gilbert club on the Lida Benton diamond.

MEET ARMY NINE

CLARKS, La., June 7.—(Special)—The Clarks Lumberjacks of the Cotton Bolls league, scheduled to meet the Chatham club Sunday, will meet the Camp Claiborne army team instead. It was announced here yesterday.

The game is scheduled to start here at 3 o'clock. Either Nelson or Burnett will pitch for the Jacks.

CLEVELAND, June 7.—(P)—Bob Feller picked his selective service questionnaire from the mail today and joined top club officials in declaring he would make no request for deferment—even if the Cleveland Indians are locked in a sizzling pennant race when he is called.

Returning from a round of golf, baseball's No. 1 pitcher opened the long white envelope, took a peek at the questions, and remarked: "It makes me laugh to think of this 'confidential' information they are asking for, when most of it is public property."

"I want to be treated just like anybody else. I don't intend to ask any deferment."

Feller—No. 2,857 of 3,830 registrants in Cleveland's district 20—may be called as early as August.

He is expected to fill in "$45,000" as his annual salary—and President Alva Bradley of the Indians said he "wouldn't think" the Tribe would continue to pay Feller while he draws $21-a-month army pay.

"There is a military service clause in the contract, as in all baseball contracts now," said Bradley, adding: "I'm not going to ask for deferment for Feller. I'm not going to be put in that position and his wishes will be respected." C. C. Slapnicka, club vice-president, echoed "even if he is called when we are in a tie for the pennant late in September that still goes."

Their comments came after Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, who may lose two sons to the army this month, hopefully suggested "it would be too much out of line to ask for 30 days or so deferment if it's near the end of the season." "Peck," however, pointed out the matter was up to Bradley and Slapnicka, and they turned thumbs down.

JAVELIN MARK SET BY BONURA BROKEN

16-Year-Old Record Smashed By Byrd High Youth

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—(P)—Pat Creagan of Shreveport's Byrd High school today broke the 16-year-old javelin throw record in the 25th annual junior A. A. U. track and field meet which was won by Jemuit High of New Orleans.

Creagan threw the javelin 195 feet, 6 inches, smashing the mark set by Zeke Bonura in 1925 when he hurled the javelin 183 feet, 2 1/4 inches.

The Jesuit Blue Jays won team honors with 36 points while two other New Orleans high schools, Fortier and Easton, were second and third with 24 1/2 and 15 points, respectively. Other scorers were Bolton, 13; Mansura, 3 1/2; New Orleans Athletic club, 8; Baton Rouge, 7; Byrd, 5; Homer, 3, and Slaughter, 1.

Two other records also were broken. Butler Avery Fortier, won the low hurdles in 24.7 second, one-tenth of a second faster than the record set by Alben Schumacher of Ole Miss in 1932.

Jim Tharp, Jesuit's, set a new mark in the shot-put when he tossed the 12-pound weight 55 feet, 2 5/8 inches. The old standard of 52 feet, 6 1/4 inches was set last year by Herley Tripp, Shreveport.

OUACHITA VALLEY

The improved Brown Paper mill baseball club which has won four of its last five Ouachita Valley league games, moves into Bastrop today for an encounter with the Bastrop Kraftsmen at 3.30 p. m.

The Brownies lost six of their first seven games of the season, but Manager Jack Bagwell and company have been taking up the slack in the past couple of weeks and now are only two and a half games behind the leaders, Ruston Volunteers despite the fact that they are in sixth place in the standings.

The tightening league race has Crossett half a game out of first place, Springhill and Camden, tied for third, are only half a game behind the leader also and are technically tied for second but slight differences in games played put them behind Crossett in the standings.

WILL FORM NEW WELDING CLASS

Crofton Announces Group Will Be Organized Next Saturday

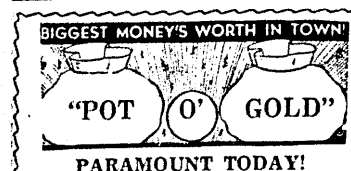

Operated in connection with the national defense program for Ouachita parish, under the direction of the Ouachita parish school board, the welding school in West Monroe is making good progress. Coordinator Walter M. Crofton said yesterday.

Mr. Crofton said that, starting next Saturday, June 14, a new class will be formed for welders and welders' helpers. He said he already had almost enough applications to form the class, but that a few more can be taken if they apply at once at his office at 701 St. John street or phone 3065.

The new class will meet Saturdays only, and will meet a well-defined need, Mr. Crofton assures. Other classes have been meeting daily, with the exception of Saturdays.

Mr. Crofton hopes to be able to announce the formation of classes in many other defense lines as soon as arrangements can be effected.

BOY SCOUT TRADING POST BUILT IN STORE

D. Masur & Sons has remodeled a full corner of the store, panelling is with knotty pine to blend in with the theme of the Trading Post sections. One can see, this Scout department is geared to modern merchandising. Edgar Masur, president of D. Masur & Sons, said: "It's not luck but merchandising strategy that does the trick. A complete stock presented in a genuine Scout atmosphere pleases Scouts and end, and they keep coming back for more." June 14 and 15 are important dates in every local Scout calendar for those are the dates of the annual Camporee (overnight competitive camp by troops) and the opening of the annual summer encampment at Ki-Ro-Li. Sterlington Boy Scouts To Conduct Summer Camp

Troop 67 Will Leave August 6 For 10-Day Stay On Pensacola Bay

STERLINGTON, June 7.—(Special)

The annual summer educational camp of Boy Scout troop No. 67 of Sterlington and Fairbanks will be conducted this year at Camp Big Heart near Pensacola, Fla., Tom D. Wafer, scoutmaster, announced today.

The camp is situated on a peninsula across Pensacola Bay and is seven miles from Pensacola. Troop 67 which has conducted such trips and camps for a number of years rented Camp Big Heart from the Boy Scouts of the Pensacola council.

In previous years the Sterlington and Fairbanks Scouts have visited Lake Charles, Hot Springs, and Biloxi, the latter for the past two summers.

The troop will leave here early on the morning of August 6 and will drive to Pensacola where the scouts will spend the night on the open beach. The following morning they will move into camp to spend ten days of educational camping and sight-seeing.

Camp Big Heart is equipped with screened cabins, cots with mattresses electric lights, kitchen and dining hall with ample cooking and serving utensils and bath showers. Ideal places for swimming surround the camp.

Scoutmaster Wafer will be camp director. B. B. Young, Monroe life-guard in charge of life saving and swimming, and Lamar Jefferson, negro, Monroe, camp cook with plenty of experience in cooking for Scout camps, large and small. James M. Hamilton, Jr., assistant scoutmaster, will probably make the trip and will be assistant camp director. He will also assist in the water activities. During the ten-day period educational tours and hikes will be made daily to different historical points of interest in and near Pensacola.

The Scouts will visit the United States Naval Air station, the largest air training school in the navy; Fort Barrancas and Fort Redoubt, built by the United States army in 1839 and 1844 respectively with trenches and connecting breastworks still visible; Fort Sam Carlos, originally constructed in 1896 by the Spanish; Fort Pickens, constructed in 1833 and only fort never captured by the Confederates; Tristram De Luna, first Spanish colony of 2,000 people in Florida in 1559, and also the first white settlement in the United States.

They will also see Fort George, built in 1763, last relic of British West Florida; home and museum of Dorothy Walton, widow of George Walton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Dorothy Walton entertained Governor and Mrs. Andrew Jackson in this home, built in 1805, which is still standing in a great state of preservation.

Other places the Scouts will visit are Plaza Square where General Andrew Jackson received West Florida from Spain and raised the flag of the United States, July 17, 1821; Christ church where a priest licensed from the Bishop of London was in charge from 1763 to 1763. The parish was organized in 1821 and was chartered by the Florida Territorial council in 1829. The church is now Pensacola's public library.

Pensacola is famous for its fishing, and the Scouts will be provided the opportunity to participate in various types of fishing. The Scouts will indulge in swimming and sailing on Pensacola Bay, the largest natural harbor in the South. It is said that the combined Navies of the world could anchor or move about in the harbor.

Mr. Wafer said today he hopes to make this trip the greatest educational camp ever conducted for his troop.

USE SLOT MACHINES FOR SCRAP METAL

BATON ROUGE, La., June 7.—(AP)—Nearly 200 slot machines seized by state police in St. Tammany parish are being broken up for delivery to the British purchasing commission for use as scrap metal.

Steve Alford, state police superintendent, estimated the machines had yielded approximately $1,000 in nickels and this sum would be turned over to the state police retirement fund.

The machines themselves are made of aluminum, he said, a metal sought after by the British for defense industries.

CAMP KI-RO-LI TO OPEN SUNDAY

Reservations Still Available For 20 More Boy Scouts For First Week

The first week of camping activities for Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley council opens next Sunday at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, according to Olan H. Black, council executive, who will have charge of the three summer sessions there.

There still is room for about 20 more boys during the opening week. Reservations already have been made for 12 scouts and a leader from Troop 1, Monroe; 15 and a leader from Troop 43, Rayville; 12 boys and a scoutmaster, Troop 28, Monroe; three and a leader from Troop 23, Jonesboro. More than 212 members have made reservations for the three periods, a record attendance.

Directing activities during the session will be Mac Davis, Ruston; assistant to Black and director of Scout craft; Tim Henninger, Monroe, in charge of nature study; Sam Hartman, Farmville, camp clerk and bugler; and White Crumpton, Minden, camp health officer. All are Eagle Scouts.

Billy Hart, Monroe, life-guard, will be instructor and supervisor of water activities. He will spend this week in Natchitoches at a special American Red Cross aquatics school.

Every camper at Ki-Ro-Li will be an official member of the National Rifle association and is eligible to compete on the camp rifle range for any or all of their official badges. Mr. Black announced. For a badge as a pro-marksman, a contestant must score 20 out of 50 in any position; for marksmanship, 20 out of 50, any; for marksmanship first class, 30 out of 50, any position; sharpshooter, 35 out of 50, any position; sharpshooter, Bar 1, 45 out of 50, prone; sharpshooter, Bar 2, 30 out of 50, sitting; Bar 3, 35 out of 50, sitting; Bar 4, 40 out of 50, sitting; Bar 5, 30 out of 50, kneeling.

Additional higher honors may be won for better scores, the director stated. Scouts may bring their own .22 rifles and ammunition, but they must be left in the camp office at all times when the owners do not have them out on the range under the leadership of the instructor, Mr. Black said.

Members of the three local civic clubs for which the camp was named, Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions, will visit the camp during the three periods.

Ki-Ro-Li was founded back in 1924 when 40 local businessmen bought the land and set it aside under trusteeship for Boy Scouts of this area for camping purposes. At first tents were used during the summer sessions; but now the camp has 11 screened cabins and a large mess hall and office building.

Playground Season Will Open In Monroe Monday

The 1941 season for the Monroe municipal playgrounds will be initiated here tomorrow, Miss Lucyle Godwin, director, said yesterday. The playground will be open daily with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a.m. to noon and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The Lida Benton school playground will be directed by LaVerne Larsen who will be assisted by the following: Lois Works, Carolyn Watts, Annette Masling, Adra Boies, Gene Courtney, Adelyn Caldwell, Maurine Dray, Wayne Christman, and Bob Semmes.

The Barkull Faulk playground will be directed by Mrs. Norris White, and she will be assisted by the following: Mary Lee George, Rema Jane Farr, Dollie Tichell, Marilyn Nelson, and Harry Greenwood.

Sherrouse playground activities will be directed by Louise White, and she will be assisted by John Luffey, Georgia Bigham, and Madeline Embanato. The Georgia Tucker playground will be directed by Joyce McKoin, who will have as assistants Dorothy Hays, Virginia Wigginton, and Mary J. Coldwell.

The playground office at 804 South Grand street will be under the charge of Mrs. Thelma Carson. Umpires for ball games will be Buck Youngblood and Albert Bass. C. D. Wallace will have charge of handicraft, and Mary Lee George, of softball.

Parents are urged to send their children to the playgrounds, where, under careful and trained direction, they will be taught clean sports and a regard for property of the other persons as well as that of their own. Games will be instructive, as well as affording a pastime, and principles will be instilled that will be of value in later life.

The present season is the eleventh that playgrounds have been operated in Monroe. The city and parish have lent much aid, and through the courtesy of the former it is possible to use city school grounds for playgrounds.

There will be specialties and city-wide activities. On June 14, there will be a parade and special features on the campus of St. Matthew's school. June 20 will be "Doll Day," and July will be observed by a water pageant and lantern parade.

July 18 will be "Hobby Day." July 26 will be Joseph Lee Day, celebrated throughout the country by municipal playground groups. August 1 will be "Achievement Day." August 8, there will be a water pageant, and on August 30, playgrounds will close with a circus.

All kinds of handicraft will be featured throughout the summer, and there will be tournaments and games in which various playgrounds will compete in friendly rivalry. Miss Godwin said.

WILL FORM NEW WELDING CLASS

Crofton Announces Group Will Be Organized Next Saturday

Operated in connection with the national defense program for Ouachita parish, under the direction of the Ouachita parish school board, the welding school in West Monroe is making good progress, Coordinator Walter M. Crofton said yesterday.

Mr. Crofton said that, starting next Saturday, June 14, a new class will be formed for welders and welders' helpers. He said he already had almost enough applications to form the class, but that a few more can be taken if they apply at once at his office at 701 St. John street or phone 3065.

The new class will meet Saturdays only, and will meet a well-defined need, Mr. Crofton assures. Other classes have been meeting daily, with the exception of Saturdays.

Mr. Crofton hopes to be able to announce the formation of classes in many other defense lines as soon as arrangements can be effected.

BOY SCOUT TRADING POST BUILT IN STORE

D. Masur & Sons has remodeled a full corner of the store, paneling is with knotty pine to blend in with the theme of the Trading Post sections. One can see, this Scout department is geared to modern merchandising. Edgar Masur, president of D. Masur & Sons, said: "It's not luck but merchandising strategy that does the trick. A complete stock presented in a genuine Scout atmosphere pleases Scouts and end, and they keep coming back for more." June 14 and 15 are important dates in every local Scout calendar for those are the dates of the annual Camporee (overnight competitive camp by troops) and the opening of the annual summer encampment at Ki-Ro-Li. Over 500 Scouts and Cubs live in and around the Twin Cities.

Sterlington Boy Scouts To Conduct Summer Camp

Troop 67 Will Leave August
6 For 10-Day Stay On Pensacola Bay

STERLINGTON, June 7.—(Special)

—The annual summer educational camp of Boy Scout troop No. 67 of Sterlington and Fairbanks will be conducted this year at Camp Big Heart near Pensacola, Fla., Tom D. Water, scoutmaster, announced today.

The camp is situated on a peninsula across Pensacola Bay and is seven miles from Pensacola. Troop 67 which has conducted such trips and camps for a number of years rented Camp Big Heart from the Boy Scouts of the Pensacola council.

In previous years the Sterlington and Fairbanks Scouts have visited Lake Charles, Hot Springs, and Biloxi, the latter for the past two summers.

The troop will leave here early on the morning of August 6 and will drive to Pensacola where the scouts will spend the night on the open beach. The following morning they will move into camp to spend ten days of educational camping and sight-seeing.

Camp Big Heart is equipped with screened cabins, cots with mattresses electric lights, kitchen and dining hall with ample cooking and serving utensils, and bath showers. Ideal places for swimming surround the camp.

Scoutmaster Wafer will be camp director, B. B. Young, Monroe life-guard in charge of life saving and swimming, and Lamar Jefferson, negro, Monroe, camp cook with plenty of experience in cooking for Scout camps, large and small. James M. Hamilton, Jr., assistant scoutmaster, will probably make the trip and will be assistant camp director. He will

During the ten-day period educational tours and hikes will be made daily to different historical points of interest in and near Pensacola.

The Scouts will visit the United States Naval Air station, the largest air training school in the navy; Fort Barrancas and Fort Redoubt, built by the United States army in 1839 and 1844 respectively with trenches and connecting breastworks still visible; Fort San Carlos, originally constructed in 1696 by the Spanish; Fort Pickens, constructed in 1835 and only fort never captured by the Confederates; Tristan De Luna, first Spanish colony of 2,000 people in Florida in 1559, and also the first white settlement in the United States.

They will also see Fort George, built in 1763, last relic of British West Florida; home and museum of Dorothy Walton, widow of George Walton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Dorothy Walton entertained Governor and Mrs. Andrew Jackson in this home, built in 1805, which is still standing in a great state of preservation.

Other places the Scouts will visit are Plaza Square where General Andrew Jackson received West Florida from Spain and raised the flag of the United States, July 17, 1821; Christ church where a priest licensed from the Bishop of London was in charge from 1763 to 1783. The parish was organized in 1827 and was chartered by the Florida Territorial council in 1829. The church is now Pensacola's public library.

Pensacola is famous for its fishing, and the Scouts will be provided the opportunity to participate in various types of fishing. The Scouts will indulge in swimming and sailing on Pensacola Bay, the largest natural harbor in the South. It is said that the combined Navies of the world could anchor or move about in the harbor.

Mr. Wafer said today he hopes to make this trip the greatest educational camp ever conducted for his troop.

USE SLOT MACHINES FOR SCRAP METAL

BATON ROUGE, La., June 7.—(AP)—

Nearly 200 slot machines seized by state police in St. Tammany parish are being broken up for delivery to the British purchasing commission for use as scrap metal.

Steve Alford, state police superintendent, estimated the machines had yielded approximately $1,000 in nickels and this sum would be turned over to the state police retirement fund.

The machines themselves are made of aluminum, he said, a metal sought after by the British for defense industries.

CAMP KI-RO-LI TO OPEN SUNDAY

Reservations Still Available
For 20 More Boy Scouts
For First Week

The first week of camping activities for Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley council opens next Sunday at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, according to Olan H. Black, council executive, who will have charge of the three summer sessions there.

There still is room for about 20 more boys during the opening week at Ki-Ro-Li, Mr. Black announced. Reservations already have been made for 12 scouts and a leader from Troop 1, Monroe; 15 and a leader from Troop 43, Rayville; 12 boys and a scout, Troop 29, Monroe; three and a leader from Troop 23, Jonesboro. More than 212 members have made reservations for the three periods, a record attendance.

Directing activities during the session will be Mac Davis, Ruston; assistant to Black and director of Scout craft; Tim Henninger, Monroe, in charge of nature study; Sam Hartman, Farmville, camp clerk and bugler; and White Crumpton, Minden, camp health officer. All are Eagle Scouts.

Billy Hart, Monroe, life-guard, will be instructor and supervisor of water activities. He will spend this week in Natchitoches at a special American Red Cross aquatics school.

Every camper at Ki-Ro-Li will be an official member of the National Rifle association and is eligible to compete on the camp rifle range for any or all of their official badges, Mr. Black announced. For a badge as a pro-marksman, a contestant must score 20 out of 50 in any position; for marksmanship, 20 out of 50, any, for marksmanship first class, 30 out of 50, any position; for sharpshooter, 35 out of 50, any position; sharpshooter, Bar 1, 45 out of 50, prone; sharpshooter, Bar 2, 30 out of 50, sitting; Bar 3, 35 out of 50, sitting; Bar 4, 40 out of 50, sitting; Bar 5, 30 out of 50, kneeling.

Additional higher honors may be won for better scores, the director stated. Scouts may bring their own 22 rifles and ammunition, but they must be left in the camp office at all times when the owners do not have them out on the range under the leadership of the instructor, Mr. Black said.

Members of the three local civic clubs for which the camp was named, Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions, will visit the camp during the three periods.

Ki-Ro-Li was founded back in 1924 when 40 local business men bought the land and set it aside under trusteeship for Boy Scouts of this area for camping purposes. At first tents were used during the summer sessions; but now the camp has 11 screened cabins and a large mess hall and office building.

England's first daylight saving bill was introduced in 1906, but did not come into force until May, 1916.

Camel's hair brushes are made from the tails of Russian squirrels.

Playground Season Will Open In Monroe Monday

The 1941 season for the Monroe municipal playgrounds will be initiated here tomorrow, Miss Lucyle Godwin, director, said yesterday. The playground will be open daily with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a.m. to noon and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The Lida Benton school playground will be directed by LaVerne Larsen who will be assisted by the following: Lois Works, Carolyn Watts, Annette Masling, Adra Boies, Gene Courtney, Adelyn Caldwell, Maurine Dray, Wayne Christman, and Bob Semmes.

The Barkdull Faulk playground will be directed by Mrs. Norris White, and she will be assisted by the following: Mary Lee George, Rema Jane Farr, Dollie Ticheli, Marilyn Nelson, and Harry Greenwood.

Sherrouse playground activities will be directed by Louise White, and she will be assisted by John Luffey, Georgia Bigham, and Madeline Emberton.

The Georgia Tucker playground will be directed by Joyce McKoin, who will have as assistants Dorothy Hays, Virginia Wiggington, and Mary J. Coldwell.

The playground office at 804 South Grand street will be under the charge of Mrs. Thelma Carson. Umpires for ball games will be Buck Youngblood and Albert Bass. C. D. Wallace will have charge of handicraft, and Mary Lee George, of softball.

Parents are urged to send their children to the playgrounds, where, under careful and trained direction, they will be taught clean sports and a regard for property of the other persons as well as that of their own. Games will be instructive, as well as affording a pastime, and principles will be instilled that will be of value in later life.

The present season is the eleventh that playgrounds have been operated in Monroe. The city and parish have lent much aid, and through the courtesy of the former it is possible to use city school grounds for playgrounds.

There will be specialties and city-wide activities. On June 14, there will be a parade and special features on the campus of St. Matthew's school. June 20 will be 'Doll Day,' and July will be observed by a water pageant and lantern parade.

July 18 will be 'Hobby Day.' July 26 will be Joseph Lee Day, celebrated throughout the country by municipal playground groups. August 1 will be 'Achievement Day.' August 8, there will be a water pageant, and on August 30, playgrounds will close with a circus.

All kinds of handicraft will be featured throughout the summer, and there will be tournaments and games in which various playgrounds will compete in friendly rivalry. Miss Godwin said.

Betty Engstrom's Garden Party Outstanding Event;
June Brides Share Social Spotlight

By Eva C. Bradford

PROFESSORS HAVE packed away the hickory stick and weary scholars who burned the midnight oil during cram-sessions, have given the month of June back to the brides. The high school seniors who had more than their share of lionizing this year are now willing to step out of the picture and rest on their laurels for the remainder of the summer. They are still talking, however, about the glamorous garden parties, the flower-banked banquet tables and the dances planned in their honor.

Betty Engstrom's garden party was something that will be talked about for the rest of the summer. All nature and even the gods conspired to make this affair, which brought all members of the senior class of the Neville High school together under a shining moon on a perfect night in May, a gala occasion.

A prelude to the summer symphony of fun will be heard this week when delegates to the Phi Kappa fraternity commence to pour into the city from the Southern and Mid-western states. With them will be their lovely sponsors who will be in the limelight throughout the convention. For one week the nights will be filled with music. A dance every night is the slogan of Phi Kappa members and also of Sigma Phi Omega fraternity members whose convention starts the day after the Phi Kappas fold their tents.

A novel feature of the S. P. O. convention is the "date" bureau. All three of Monroe's national sororities are cooperating with the local S. P. O. chapter in the matter of "dates" for the visiting Greek letter men. The names of every sorority member will appear on the register. A tea dance on the opening day of the convention will bring all sorority members together. Introductions will take place. In other words, boy meets girl.

At 10 o'clock the convention dance will take place and from then on joy will reign supreme.

All June brides are lovely but none we vow was any fairer than Mary Frances Moore who walked down a candlelit aisle to meet Fred Culppeper, who was so anxious to see his bride he kept his eyes glued to the door in the rear of the church through which she entered.

We have heard of "brides walking in radiance" and this one most certainly did. Flaming tapers shed a soft radiance along the white carpeted aisle down which she walked to the altar aflame with candlelight.

The Presbyterian Church resembled the house of a thousand candles. Candles gleamed high above the organ loft—they gleamed against the stained glass windows and formed a semi-circle of candlelight for the wedding party. They also gleamed in tall wrought iron, seven-branched candelabra to which were attached crystal vases overflowing with superb white gladioli and gardenias. The lighting of the tapers in the dimly-lighted church was a distinct feature of the ceremony.

After Leon Hammond played a medley of arias, Estelle Sanders' voice, poignantly sweet, was heard in one of the loveliest nuptial songs ever written, "Through the Years." We wondered why it isn't heard oftener at weddings. However, very few soloists could sing it as impressively and do full justice to it as did Mrs. Sanders.

It was nice to see Estelle Keller, who has been a semi-invalid for several years, sitting in the pew reserved for members of the family. We harked back in memory to the time when she was a conspicuous figure in musical circles in this city. She played the organ divinely—in fact she was one of the most brilliant organists Monroe has ever known.

Dorothy Stafford came up from Baton Rouge for the wedding. Tall and stately and growing lovelier with the passing years, she walked down the aisle in a white embroidered model with a long full skirt and high-necked waist buttoned down the back.

Satchie Breard Snellings, walking down the aisle in a beautiful dark brown flowered model with a light beige background and a small hat of light tan lacquered straw, was thinking, no doubt, of the day not far distant when she would walk down the aisle at her son's wedding. It will take place in New Orleans where Breard's affianced bride resides.

Mrs. Snellings is another woman who grows lovelier, with the passing of time. Her auburn hair, although touched with gray, is still the crowning glory that was the envy of every girl when she was one of Monroe's reigning belles.

There was another wedding in Monroe last week that was unparalleled yet not lacking in charm and beauty of detail. Elizabeth Kennedy and George Miller decided on Monday to be married the following day. If the wedding had been planned weeks in advance it couldn't have been more impressive or lovelier in detail. Several years ago when Walter and Suzanne Kellogg moved into their handsome home on Park avenue they told Elizabeth that they wanted her to be married in their home. Even on such short notice, they were prepared for such an auspicious occasion as their home has recently been remodeled and redecorated and in readiness for a wedding. All that was necessary was the arrangement of the flowers and the order to the caterer for the wedding cake.

The loveliest part of the wedding was the gardenias from Enola Rogers' garden. She gathered a basket of them from the solid hedge of bushes that encircle her garden. They are so beautiful motorists pause to catch a whiff of their heady perfume and to admire the regularity of planting. When Enola superintended the planting of these bushes she must have visualized them as they are today.

Elizabeth wanted no other attendant than her god-child, Walter Wood Kellogg, Jr. He is only twenty-two months old and whether or not he would obey orders was a matter of conjecture. They needn't have worried. He stood at the foot of the stairs waiting for Elizabeth and

Renaud Dance School In Spectacular Revue

Capacity Audience At Neville Auditorium Applauds
Outstanding Presentation Of Pupils

One of the most spectacular dance revues ever staged in this city took place last Tuesday night when the pupils of the Armandine Renaud school of dancing were presented before an audience that filled to capacity the generous proportions of the Neville High school.

The opening scene, "Candy Land," featured children ranging in age from two to six. They all wore costumes reminiscent of peppermint sticks, lollipops, kisses, and fruit drops. Tapping was their specialty.

The Easter chicks, featuring ten beautiful little girls, Sue Turner, Ginger Blanks, Gay Olcott, Anna Marie DeLarot, Sara Lou Hudson, Joy Sutton, Nancy Ledbetter, Armandine Anthony, Fay Lyn Guerrero and Mary Rita Smith, was one of the most enthusiastically applauded numbers on the evening's program. They all wore ballet costumes of yellow feathers and danced nimbly on their toes.

"In a Persian Garden" was a spectacular number featuring Ann Burgess, Martha Higgins, Delia Hiett, Christine Galloway, Jo Ann Guerrero, Jackie Voorhees, Anna Betty Tucker, Relda Farmer, Virginia Vaughan and Mary Lou Young.

"The Butterfly Ballet" was one of the loveliest numbers on the evening's program. Miss Renaud's skill as instructor of the ballet was clearly portrayed in the work done by her pupils. Appearing in this number were Sara May Heyl, Rosina Lisotta, Jo Ann Norman, Ruth Ann Gorton, Margaret Horuff, Marcia Ruth Eubank, Jo Ann Fuller, Jo Rhodes, Betty Jane Shipp, Mary Ann Griffith, Polly Riley, Barbara June Monroe, Terri Sue Tidwell, Annelle Davis, Janet Cash, Georgianna Blanchard, Pat Young, Marcie Renaud, Kate DeLarot, Joy Anthony, Jane Birdson, Mary Beverly Conway, Ann Shaffo, Patricia Guerrero, Barbara Peterson, Carol Emerson, Wilma Sandel, Marion Louise Guerrero, Marjorie Eubank, Betty Fay Stovall, Esther Ewing, Carol Layton, Julia Ellen Cash, Ramona O'Neal, Sharon Anderson, Janet Voorhees, and Elizabeth Siegle.

Still another spectacular number was "By A Waterfall." The effect of falling water was created by myriad strips of cellophane paper in all the rainbow colors. Cascading over in imaginary falls, this dance was beautifully executed by a group of young girls in gorgeous costumes.

At this time Irene Quinn Renaud appeared in a beautiful number entitled, Black and Silver. Her performance bordered on the professional and was executed with remarkable skill.

The revue climaxed on a high patriotic note with the stars and stripes unfurled in thrilling manner. "The army and the navy were represented by a group of dancers in jaunty uniforms. Stirring patriotic airs were played by Mrs. Grover Cornett, pianist.

Mr. Zach Daughtry assisted Miss Renaud in executing the stage settings which were more beautiful this year than ever before.

Luncheon Friday Honors Miss Martha Wainwright
On the side of things lovely was the luncheon honoring Miss Martha Wainwright on the roof of Hotel Virginia, with Mrs. Armand F. Rabun of Columbia, hostess, Friday at one o'clock.

The luncheon table, decor, reminiscent of June weddings, had for central ornamentation a bride and bridegroom figurines placed in the midst of gardenias and maiden hair fern. Plaques of gardenias were placed at the four corners.

honor was marked with a piece of handsome silver, a gift from the hostess. The favors were miniature garden baskets filled with pink and white confections with small nosegays tied to the handles. The guests, in addition to Miss Wainwright and her mother, Mrs. A. Wainwright, were: Miss Lucy Ne Wainwright, Mrs. W. E. Clark, Miss Sue Rabun, Miss Ellen Baughman, Miss Butterfly Wallace, Mrs. James Futch, Mrs. Robert R. James, Mrs. Mary Inez Norris, and Mrs. Robert Lee Albritton.

She played the organ divinely—in fact she was one of the most brilliant organists Monroe has ever known.

Dorothy Stafford came up from Baton Rouge for the wedding. Tall and stately and growing lovelier with the passing years, she walked down the aisle in a white embroidered model with a long full skirt and high-necked waist buttoned down the back.

Satchie Beard Snellings, walking down the aisle in a beautiful dark brown flowered model with a light beige background and a small hat of light tan lacquered straw, was thinking, no doubt, of the day not far distant when she would walk down the aisle at her son's wedding. It will take place in New Orleans where Beards' affianced bride resides.

Mrs. Snellings is another woman who grows lovelier with the passing of time. Her auburn hair, although touched with gray, is still the crowning glory that was the envy of every girl when she was one of Monroe's reigning belles.

There was another wedding in Monroe last week that was unheralded yet not lacking in charm and beauty of detail. Elizabeth Kennedy and George Miller decided on Monday to be married the following day. If the wedding had been planned weeks in advance it couldn't have been more impressive or lovelier in detail. Several years ago when Walter and Suzanne Kellogg moved into their handsome home on Park avenue they told Elizabeth that they wanted her to be married in their home. Even on such short notice, they were prepared for such an auspicious occasion as their home has recently been remodeled and redecorated and in readiness for a wedding. All that was necessary was the arrangement of the flowers and the order to the caterer for the wedding cake.

The loveliest part of the wedding was the gardenias from Enola Rogers' garden. She gathered a basket of them from the solid hedge of bushes that encircle her garden. They are so beautiful motorists pause to catch a whiff of their heady perfume and to admire the regularity of planting. When Enola superintended the planting of these bushes she must have visualized them as they are today.

Elizabeth wanted no other attendant than her god-child, Walter Wood Kellogg, Jr. He is only twenty-two months old and whether or not he would obey orders was a matter of conjecture. They needn't have worried. He stood at the foot of the stairs waiting for Elizabeth and

Capacity Audience At Neville Auditorium Applauds Outstanding Presentation Of Pupils

One of the most spectacular dance revues ever staged in this city took place last Tuesday night when the pupils of the Armandine Renaud school of dancing were presented before an audience that filled to capacity the generous proportions of the Neville High school.

The opening scene, "Candy Land," featured children ranging in age from two to six. They all wore costumes reminiscent of peppermint sticks, lollypops, kisses, and fruit drops. Tapping was their specialty.

The Easter chicks, featuring ten beautiful little girls, Sue Turner, Ginger Blanks, Gay Olcott, Anna Marie DeLarot, Sara Lou Hudson, Joy Sutton, Nancy Ledbetter, Armandine Anthony, Fay Lyn Guerriero and Mary Rita Smith, was one of the most enthusiastically applauded numbers on the evening's program. They all wore ballet costumes of yellow feathers and danced nimbly on their toes.

"In a Persian Garden" was a spectacular number featuring Ann Burgess, Martha Hopson, Belle Hair, Christine Galloway, Jo Ann Guerriero, Jackie Voorhees, Anna Betty Tucker, Relda Farmer, Virginia Vaughan and Mary Lou Young.

"The Butterfly Ballet" was one of the loveliest numbers on the evening's program. Miss Renaud's skill as instructor of the ballet was clearly portrayed in the work done by her pupils. Appearing in this number were Sara May Heyl, Rosina Lisotta, Jo Ann Norman, Ruth Ann Gorton, Margaret Horuff, Marcia Ruth Eubank, Jo Ann Fuller, Jo Rhodes, Betty Jane Shipp, Mary Ann Griffith, Polly Riley, Barbara June Monroe, Terri Sue Tidwell, Annielee Davis, Janet Cash, Georgianna Blanchard, Pat Young, Marcie Renaud, Kate DeLarot, Joy Anthony, Jane Birdson, Mary Beverly Conway, Ann Shafro, Patricia Guerriero, Barbara Peterson, Carol Emerson, Wilma Sandel, Marion Louise Guerriero, Marjorie Eubank, Betty Fay Stovall, Esther Ewing, Carol Layton, Julia Ellen Cash, Ramona O'Neal, Sharon Anderson, Janet Voorhees, and Elizabeth Siegle.

Still another spectacular number was "By A Waterfall." The effect of falling water was created by myriad strips of cellophane paper in all the rainbow colors. Cascading over in imaginary falls. This dance was beautifully executed by a group of young girls in gorgeous costumes.

At this time Irene Quinn Renaud appeared in a beautiful number entitled, "Black and Silver." Her performance bordered on the professional and was executed with remarkable skill.

The revue climaxed on a high patriotic note with the stars and stripes unfurled in thrilling manner. The army and the navy were represented by a group of dancers in jaunty uniforms. Stirring patriotic airs were played by Mrs. Grover Cornett, pianist.

Mr. Zach Daughtry assisted Miss Renaud in executing the stage settings which were more beautiful this year than ever before.

Luncheon Friday Honors Miss Martha Wainwright

On the side of things lovely was the luncheon honoring Miss Martha Wainwright on the roof of Hotel Virginia, with Mrs. Armand F. Rabun of Columbia, hostess, Friday at one o'clock.

The luncheon table, decor, reminiscent of June weddings, had for central ornamentation bride and bridegroom figurines placed in the midst of gardenias and maiden hair fern. Plaques of gardenias were placed at the four corners.

Elizabeth Kennedy And George Anthony Miller Married In Ceremony Here

Father Donahoe Performs Rites In Presence Of Intimate Friends And Members Of Family

A wedding in which the sincere and affectionate interest of many friends in this section of the state centered was that of Miss Elizabeth Stuart Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Kennedy, and George Anthony Miller, son of Mrs. Alice DuBuisson Miller and the late H. C. Miller of Alexandria, La., Tuesday, June 8, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Kellogg on Park avenue.

The ceremony, characterized by the lovely simplicity, was performed by Reverend Father Francis P. Donahoe of St. Matthews Catholic church in the presence of a few intimate friends and members of the family.

An improvised altar was reared in the reception suite, where tall, white, wrought-iron floor standards filled with white gladioli formed an enclosure for the wedding party. The mantel was a solid mass of gardenias, in the midst of which gleamed tall tapers, reflected in the long mirror.

To receive the benediction, the bride and bridegroom knelt on a white satin prie-dieu.

Mrs. B. D. Allbritton, presiding at the piano, rendered a pre-nuptial concert, and at the appointed hour played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The bride's only attendant was her god-child, Walter Wood Kellogg, Jr., 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Kellogg. He wore a white silk pique suit and carried the ring in the heart of a Madonna lily. Mr. Kellogg served in the capacity of best man.

The bride, descending the stairs with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a distinctive navy blue, tucked triple-sheer model with white accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Following the impressive ceremony, an informal reception was held. The wedding cake, a luscious two-tiered confection centered the polished mahogany table, adorned with garlands of gardenias leading from the cake to the edge of the table, where they were arranged in artistic clusters.

Following the cutting of the cake and the serving of coffee, the guests and members of the family spent an informal interlude on the screened porch overlooking the patio where toasts to the bride and bridegroom were drunk in champagne.

Mrs. Kennedy, the bride's mother, was wearing a navy blue and white flowered crepe model with a corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Alice Miller of Alexandria, wore a navy blue model with white accessories and corsage of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller motored to the Gulf Coast, where they will spend their honeymoon. Later, they will be at home in this city.

Mrs. Miller, popular member of the younger set, is a graduate of the Neville High school and Northwest Junior college. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma sorority.

Mr. Miller attended Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Mattie Clair Dailey And John Walters Wed
The wedding of Miss Mattie Clair Dailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Dailey of Extension, and John S. Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Walters of Ruston, was solemnized at four o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 1, in the home of the bride's parents.

The marriage vows were spoken before an improvised altar in the midst of Queen Ann lace and white lilies. The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John T. Walters, father of the bridegroom.

Miss Virginia Pettit and Rev. Ira Flowers rendered the nuptial music. Rev. Flowers sang "At Dawning." The bride's party entered to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. Miss Lois Dailey, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore blue net and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations and blue cornflowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in a bridal gown of white net over tulle. The fingertip length veil of lace was attached to a coronet of orange blossoms encircling her head. The bride's bouquet was fashioned of white carnations. For something old, the bride carried a rose-point lace handkerchief carried by her great aunt, Mrs. M. F. Corley, on her wedding day.

Mr. John Dailey, Jr., brother of the bride, served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held. The lace-draped bride's table was centered with a crystal bowl filled with white lilies and Queen Ann lace. At one end of the table was the triple-tiered wedding cake, embossed in roses and valley lilies. The top tier was surmounted with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. J. W. McLenore, Jr., cousin of the bride, presided at the crystal punch bowl. Misses Annette and Carrie Lee Dailey assisted in the courtesies of serving.

The bride's mother wore a becoming model of luggage tan, and Mrs. Walters, mother of the groom, wore a navy sheer.

Rev. E. D. Holloway Performs Ceremony Tuesday Night At First Presbyterian Church

A fashionable event and one that claimed the interest of a vast number of friends, was the marriage, Tuesday night, June 3, of Miss Mary Frances Moore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Milton Moore, and Fred Carroll Culpepper, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Culpepper, at the First Presbyterian church, with the pastor, Rev. Ernest Duncan Holloway, officiating with characteristic dignity.

Considerable beauty of detail was noted in the decorative theme featuring paper white gladioli and shell pink gladioli, placed with artistic extravagance in the background. The circular organ loft was surmounted with low, white porcelain receptacles overflowing with fever few, with short white tapers burning in a straight row the full length of the loft.

High above the altar, cathedral tapers burned in tall wrought-iron, seven-branched candelabra, to which were attached crystal vases overflowing with gladioli and peonies. Candles gleamed beneath the stained glass windows and in candelabra, forming a semi-circle for the wedding party. On either side were sheaves of peonies overflowing from urns attached to the candelabra with fly-away bows of silvery tulle.

Mr. Culpepper awaited at the altar with his best man, Lieutenant Thomas M. Keller of Baton Rouge.

While the guests were being seated by the ushers, John Bennett Fudickar, Richard Sackett, and Dan Moore, the bride's brother, the organist, Mr. Leon Hammond, rendered a medley of arias. He also accompanied Mrs. Clyde Sanders, who sang in beautiful lyric soprano voice, "Calm As The Night," by Bohm and "Through the Years," by Youman.

The bride's maid of honor, her cousin, Miss Catherine Suber of Anderson, N. C., wore a jade green marquisette model with long full skirt and tight fitting basque with short puffed sleeves. A halo hat of the same shade was worn, and she carried a garland of flowers in the form of a bow knot, fashioned of pale pink blossoms shading into deep rose.

The bridesmaids, Miss Frances Smith, Miss Peggy McCrary and Miss Virginia Husted, wore bouffant pale pink marquisette gowns similar to the one worn by Miss Suber. They also carried garlands of pale pink and rose colored blossoms and wore halo hats of the pale pink tulle.

The bride, walking down the candlelit aisle with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a diaphanous wedding gown of white net over white duchess satin. The bodice was tight fitting with sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves and a high-poled collar. Cascades of narrow ruffles trimmed the long full skirt ending in a sweeping train, over which fell the billowy veil of bridal illusion, caught to the head with coronet of pearls. She wore long white mitts and carried a wedding bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis. A necklace of pearls was the only ornament worn.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Moore received in a lovely evening gown of Madonna blue chiffon and lace. Mrs. Culpepper, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pale pink chiffon and lace evening model.

Pink gladioli and woodwardia fern banked the reception suite. The bride's table in the dining room was overlaid with handsome lace, with the three-tiered wedding cake the central decor. The cake was beautifully embossed in crystallized roses and valley lilies and was surmounted with a bride's bouquet. Crystal candelabra at the four corners, encircled with gardenias and stephanotis, supported tall white tapers. Assisting in serving confections were Mrs. C. P. Harris, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. Robert Hanna and Mrs. B. B. McClendon. A coterie of girls, friends of the bride, also assisted.

Following the cutting of the cake, the bride and bridegroom, left for a honeymoon on the Gulf Coast and in Florida. The bride traveled in a navy blue mesh model with a tailored white pique jacket and white accessories.

They will be at home after the honeymoon in Jackson, Miss., where Mr. Culpepper is associated with Ford, Bacon and Davis in the capacity of junior engineer.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High school and Agnes Scott college. For the past year she has been a member of the staff of the Ouachita parish department of public welfare.

Mr. Culpepper, member of one of Monroe's most substantial pioneer families, is a grandson of Judge Charles Schulze and a great grandson of the late T. N. Conner. He is a graduate of Neville High school and Virginia Military institute, and is a member of Phi Kappa fraternity and the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. Clarence Harris of Eoberton, Ga.; Miss Catherine Suber of Anderson, S. C.; Mrs. Martin Close, Miss Kathryn Close and Martin L. Close, Jr., of Alexandria; and Mrs. G. M. G. Stafford and Lieutenant and Mrs. Thomas Keller of Baton Rouge.

Regular Monthly Meeting Held By Y. W. C. A. Board

The Y.W.C.A. board held its regular monthly meeting at the "Y" last Thursday morning, with Mrs. J. R. White, president, presiding. Miss Lucyle Godwin gave an impressive and helpful devotional using as a basis for her remarks a meditation from Jeremiah and a prayer based on the Lord's prayer. Miss Bess Sharp gave her report as general secretary of all the activities during the month, and presented a few facts from an article, "Women Face Catastrophe," which tells of the great work the Y.W.C.A. is carrying on in war-torn and occupied countries. Mrs. E. A. Fog, as chairman of the committee for the Y.W.C.A. club, presented her report as to the plans which the club girls have made for their summer activities. Mrs. Rodriguez and Mrs. Harvey McDonald gave reports regarding the recent "open meeting."

Mrs. R. E. Gibson presented her report as residence chairman, indicating the improvements made during the month. Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, chairman of the Girl Reserve committee, presented the report of the Girl Reserve activities during the year and the plans for the conference at Gulf Park. Mrs. A. D. Tidale discussed the U.S.O. program and the part the Y.W.C.A. is to play in it.

Annie Lee (Lulu) Edmunds, niece of Dr. and Mrs. H. V. Collins arrived Friday evening from Alexandria. Friends will be delighted to learn that she is planning to be an extended visit with her relatives here and in Alto.

Garden Club Meets On Hotel Virginia Roof

Lynn Hawthorn Addresses Members Of Welcome Club On 'Garden Insects And Garden Diseases'

The members of the Welcome Garden Club and their guests enjoyed a lovely meeting last Monday afternoon, when they gathered for their monthly meeting on the roof of Hotel Virginia, with Mrs. L. J. Hulm, hostess.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. H. V. Collins. The following committees were appointed for the year: Scrap books, Mrs. James Prendergast, Mrs. Sam Humphries, and Mrs. E. E. Eaves; flower arrangements and specimens, Mrs. Vance J. Rhodes, Mrs. Frank Edney, and Mrs. W. C. Faulk.

Members of the streets and parks committee of the past year, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. J. R. Wooten, and Mrs. F. E. Black, who did such splendid work during the club's first year, were re-appointed, since some of their projects were not completed. The visiting committee for the month is Mrs. W. L. Mitchell and Mrs. R. O. Randle. It was also planned to form different study groups, members signing up for the subjects in which they are most interested. These groups will meet separately for study.

At the conclusion of business, the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Jack Bagwell, who introduced Lynn Hawthorn, horticulturist of Calhoun, who spoke on "Garden Insects and Garden Diseases." Mr. Hawthorn, in opening his talk, said he would make it very informal so that members would be free to interrupt and ask questions regarding their garden problems. Members delightfully availed themselves of this opportunity.

Some of the things discussed were: First, the annuals, like the old standbys of zinnias, and petunias, and the problems regarding these; then, lilies, roses, gladioli and other flowers and the difficulties encountered in growing these were discussed.

Mildew, a fungus disease, is prevalent on zinnias, as well as roses, dahlias, and verbenas. Use dusting sulphur for complete control of it. Other fungus diseases are black spot on rose bushes and damping off of seedlings. Fungus diseases are controlled by dusting and spraying. Apply in the beginning before disease gets started, for best results. In black spot, spores are readily carried and germinate rapidly in moisture. Destroy the spotted leaves and spray with sulphur.

Other information gleaned follows: If they are attacked by the fungus If snapdragon seedlings seem to die overnight they are attacked by the fungus disease called "damping off" which attacks plants at the ground. Therefore, never water seedlings at night, but early in the morning. Dust seed before planting with bichloride mercury or any good fungicide dust and later make a spray. Damping off ceases after the first week or 10 days.

Mosaic is a disease which comes from the inside of the plant. One does not notice "mosaic" as the leaf is a lighter color. To discern it, one must hold the leaf up to the light and then one sees the pattern between the veins of the leaf. This disease cannot be cured. The plant must be destroyed by burning. It is a very infectious disease. A gardener can carry it from plant to plant simply by pinching or feeling a diseased plant and then touching a good plant. This disease can also be carried over year by year by insects or from a neighbor's yard. It is carried by the leaf hopper. Easter lilies are subject to "mosaic" disease. The Easter lily industry in the south part of Louisiana had much trouble with this disease and it was definitely proven that the disease was carried by an insect. When the lily is infected, destroy the entire plant—stalk, bulb and all small bubbles—as every part of the plant is diseased. Another disease is called "wilt" which is a disease inside the plant.

Plants having it must be destroyed.

Some facts regarding gladioli were given. In storing the "glad" corns, use naphthalene flakes, the same material of which moth balls are made, using one ounce to 100 corns. Dig the "glads" before the leaves are completely dried and put in the shade. Later, wrap tops from "corns" and separate the "mother" from the new corns. Then store them in the naphthalene flakes. When purchasing new "glads," dip the corns in a fungicide. Thrips, a small insect 1-20 of an inch in length, deface "glads." Spray weekly with a solution made of one-half pound of tartar emetic, 1½ pounds brown sugar, and 12½ gallons of water.

A good fertilizer to use, which is similar to Vigoro and applied the same, is 4-12-4. For roses, fertilize in February, working it into the soil. Use again in June. Always be sure to use enough water afterwards to take care of the fertilizer, so as to balance the concentration. One can also use about two inches of grass cuttings as a mulch during the summer. Rose bushes are injured when dead flowers are left on the bush. Cut them back to leave three or four buds on the stem and the result will be more and prettier roses.

The July meeting will be held at White Columns, home of Mrs. M. C. McDonald.

Members present were: Mesdames Cecil Atkins, Joe C. Anders, Jack Bagwell, R. E. Bedwell, Bob Burns,

A. R. Butler, H. V. Collins, Henson Coon, H. B. Cruthirds, A. K. Crow, John D. Calhoun, L. C. DeMaster, D. F. Dennis, Frank Edney, E. E. Eaves, W. R. Faulk, V. S. Garnett, Bert Gambrell, Ralph H. B. Interest centers in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Caroline Margaret Magnani, and Mr. John Thomas Varino June 4, at St. Matthew's church at eight o'clock in the morning with Right Reverend N. F. Vandegard officiating in the double ring ceremony.

Tall cathedral tapers gleamed on the altar where low bowls of white blossoms were placed at vantage points. While the guests were assembling, the organist, Mrs. D. G. Nichols, rendered a pre-nuptial concert and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Louis Pecastaing, who sang Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The maid of honor, Miss Eda Magnani, and the bridesmaid, Miss Constance Sue Spatafora, wore cornflower blue crepe models with portrait hats of navy blue taffeta and corsages of pink sweetpeas and carnations. They carried ivory prayer books.

The best man was Mr. Marion J. Varino.

Three Dances Planned On Convention Program

Sororities And Other Fraternities Here To Assist In Entertaining Visitors At Sessions

Hectic days are ahead for members of the younger set who are marking time until the arrival of Greek letter men and their sponsors who will attend the national convention of Sigma Phi Omega fraternity in this city, June 12, 13, 14. The customary summer lassitude that settles down over the social world just as soon as school is out will be completely dispelled this coming week with a dance every night.

Members of Sigma, local chapter of the national secondary organization, will serve as hosts during the three-day social session and will welcome young fraternity men from the southern states and middle west. After nine months of planning on the part of local S.P.O.'s a program of social activities has been devised which promises to whirl the out-of-town visitors and Monroe's younger set through three hectic days of social gaiety.

The local convention committee, composed of Peixie Cook, chapter president, and Max Kulcke and Lloyd Lenard, announces that everything is now in readiness to receive the visitors and cooperation on the part of Monroe's sororities and fraternities has been everything to be desired. Registration will begin on Thursday, June 12, in the lobby of Hotel Frances and will last through the morning. The official call to order will come at 2:00 p. m. with P. Hubert Kuhn, national president, presiding. Mr. Kuhn has long been a prominent figure in national fraternal circles, having distinguished himself as chairman of the National Inter-Fraternity Congress of Secondary Fraternities several years. It was he who organized the congress in St. Louis and who has worked most diligently to extend its influence to its present nationwide extent.

Sigma chapter is striving to make hospitality the by-word of the convention. One of the first notes of cordiality will be struck on the afternoon of June 12 at the "boy meets girl" tea dance on the Frances terrace. This gala occasion will afford the S.P.O.'s an opportunity to meet the girls.

The "lead-out" dance will be held on Thursday evening and will feature local S.P.O.'s in a brilliant grand march that promises something new in the way of exhibitionism. Highlighting the affair will be the presentation of favors by each S.P.O. to his date and the recognition of the fraternity's three lovely sponsors, Miss Gail McDonald from Beta Delta, Miss Mary Belle Rogers from Delta Beta Sigma, and Miss LaJeanne Weatherly from Alpha Delta Kappa.

On Friday evening Delta Sigma fraternity will extend courtesies to the visitors with an outdoor picnic under the stately oaks of Bernstein park. The second grand ball will be held that evening on the hotel terrace.

Monroe's feminine pulchritude will gather in the Mirror room of Hotel Frances on Saturday when the three sororities, Beta Delta, Delta Beta Sigma, and Alpha Delta Kappa will hold open house to give the delegates a taste of real southern hospitality. The highlight of the annual affair will come on Saturday night at the banquet, when the following awards are to be made: efficiency trophy, attendance trophy, deportment trophy, scholastic trophy, people's trophy, honor keys, honor badges and the prizes for the oratory contest. The final dance on Saturday night will be the traditional dance for S.P.O.'s only.

Miss Bess Sharp, secretary of the Y.W.C.A., accompanied by Miss Eleonora Brinsmade, Miss Kathryn Miller, and a member of the Girl Reserves of the Y.W.C.A., will leave June 10 to attend the Y.W.C.A. Girl Reserve sectional conference at Gulf Park college, Gulfport, Miss. There will be Girl Reserves and leaders from five states who will join together for eight happy days of work and play and discussion of a girl's place in this changing world. The Y.W.C.A. Girl Reserves who will attend from Monroe are: Dorothy Corry, Sally Ann Ware, Betty Firnberg, Lucile Mosely, Kay Kugler, Miriam Oliver, Catherine Winters, Joyce Camp, Joan Gibbons, Sally Foster, Jean McCormick and Maratha Jean Mosely.

Miss Ammons Is Bride Of Christopher Andersen

A wedding of affectionate interest to many relatives and friends in Louisiana and Mississippi was solemnized Wednesday afternoon, at 5:30 o'clock when Miss Ophelia Sevier Ammons, daughter of Mrs. Robert Lee Ammons and the late Mr. Ammons, became the bride of Christopher Andersen, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Andersen of Natchez. The impressive double-ring ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Leonard Sevier of Tallulah, cousins of the bride with Rev. Father R. M. Maure of St. Agnes' Catholic church officiating.

An improvised altar was arranged with white candles in tall white candelabra against a vine-covered trellis. At the base a border of shasta daisies was grouped behind a miniature white fence, and at either side stood tall white floor baskets filled with Queen Anne's lace and white gladioli. Above the altar was a suspended white wedding veil with white tulle. Madonna lilies and white hydrangeas and fern were placed at vantage points throughout the spacious reception suite.

The nuptial music was played by Miss Annette Beers, pianist, and Will Harvey, violinist, who had played at the wedding of the bride's mother. Preceding the ceremony, "Because," "O Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly" were used, and during the signing of the register, "Ave Maria," was played.

The bride had as her only attendant her cousin, Miss Beta Sevier, who wore flesh-colored lace and net over a satin model with close-fitting bodice and long full skirt. She wore a puff of flesh-colored net with streamers as a head-dress and carried a basket of the same shade filled with garden flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Robert Lee Ammons of Shreveport, was radiantly beautiful in her wedding gown of white lace and net over satin. The bodice was fashioned with a basque effect, with long sleeves trimmed with tiny self-covered buttons and ending in lily points over the hands. The long full skirt with wide panels of lace fell in a long train and a coronet of orange blossoms held in place the veil of net which extended the entire length of the train. She wore a diamond necklace belonging to her mother and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

The bridegroom had George Lawrence of Tallulah as his best man. The bride's mother wore dusty pink with a corsage of white carnations and the bridegroom's mother wore blue chiffon with a corsage of pink roses. The hosts, Mrs. A. L. Sevier, wore white crepe with a red corsage.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony. The lace-draped refreshment table, centered with a handsomely-embossed wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was presided over by Miss Ruth Smith, who wore blue net, and Miss Marion Lawrence, in white chiffon.

Mr. and Mrs. Andersen left for a bridal trip to the Gulf Coast and New Orleans in an automobile which was a gift of the bridegroom's father. For traveling, the bride wore a navy blue model trimmed with delft blue and matching long cape, with which she wore blue accessories with fuchsia trimming and a corsage of pink roses. On their return, they will reside in Natchez in their new home, a wedding gift of the bridegroom's parents.

The bride, a favorite in the younger set, was graduated from the Tallulah High school in May. She was elected queen of the recent Mardi Gras celebration in Tallulah. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Natchez High school and is associated with his father in business.

Among the out-of-town guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McGovern and Mrs. Annie LeNoir Cassitty of Rosedale, Miss; Dr. and

Mrs. Preston Herring and daughter, Helen, of Vicksburg; Mr. and Mrs. Chris Andersen and family; Mrs. A. E. Kincke; Mrs. Charles Kincke; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zuccaro and family; and Max Voss of Natchez.

Bagwell-Inzina Rites Performed In Bastrop

The marriage of Miss Josephine Inzina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Inzina and Auldon (Boots) Bagwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ona Bagwell, was impressively solemnized June 3 at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Bastrop Catholic church, with Father Walfrad Boesch officiating in the presence of the family and intimate friends.

Mrs. J. B. Spier, organist, rendered a pre-nuptial concert and accompanied Miss Jeanne Page, who sang "Ave Maria."

Mrs. Connie Petrus, the maid of honor, wore a beige crepe model with corsage of pink gladioli. Connie Petrus served as best man, and the bride's brothers, Phillip and Andrew Inzina, served as altar boys.

The bride and bridegroom cut the beautifully-embossed six-tiered wedding cake centering on a lace-covered table in the dining room. Refreshing fruit frappe was served from a crystal bowl presided over by Mrs. Crystal Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Bagwell left for a short honeymoon. Mrs. Bagwell traveled in a dusty pink model with navy blue accessories.

Miss Frieberg Presents Piano Pupils In Recital

Friends and relatives attending the recital applauded heartily the various numbers rendered with considerable skill. Each pupil displayed a cultivated touch, from softest pianissimo to powerful forte.

Miss Frieberg proved in this, her first recital, real ability as an instructor of piano. Future recitals will be looked forward to.

Mrs. O. H. Robbins entertained her class of girls of the Brown Sunday school Tuesday afternoon with a lawn party at her home.

Games were enjoyed and prizes given for the highest score. Mrs. Robbins, assisted by Mrs. R. L. Henderson and Mrs. V. L. Pendarvis, served frosted drinks and sandwiches to the following:

Misses Daisy Burchell, Marie Hillburn, Helen Pendarvis, Mary Anne Monroe, Sue Marie Henderson, Winnie Smith, Mrs. V. L. Pendarvis, Mrs. R. L. Henderson, and Mrs. O. H. Robbins.

The nuptial music was played by Miss Annette Beers, pianist, and Will Harvey, violinist, who had played at the wedding of the bride's mother. Preceding the ceremony, "Because," "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly" were used, and during the signing of the register, "Ave Maria," was played.

The bride had as her only attendant her cousin, Miss Bess Sevier, who wore flesh-colored lace and net over a satin model with close-fitting bodice and long full skirt. She wore a puff of flesh colored net with streamers as a head-dress and carried a basket of the same shade filled with garden flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Robert Lee Ammons of Shreveport, was radiantly beautiful in her wedding gown of white lace and net over satin. The bodice was fashioned with a basque effect, with long sleeves trimmed with tiny self-covered buttons and ending in lily points over the hands. The long full skirt with wide panels of lace fell in a long train and a coronet of orange blossoms held in place the veil of net which extended the entire length of the train. She wore a diamond necklace belonging to her mother and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

The bridegroom had George Lawrence of Tallulah as his best man. The bride's mother wore dusty pink with a corsage of white carnations and the bridegroom's mother wore blue chiffon with a corsage of pink roses. The hostess, Mrs. A. L. Sevier, wore white crepe with a red corsage.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony. The lace-draped refreshment table, centered with a handsomely-embossed wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was presided over by Miss Ruth Smith, who wore blue net, and Miss Marion Lawrence, in white chiffon.

Mr. and Mrs. Andersen left for a bridal trip to the Gulf Coast and New Orleans in an automobile which was a gift of the bridegroom's father. For traveling, the bride wore a navy blue model trimmed with delft blue and matching long cape, with which she wore blue accessories with fuchsia trimming and a corsage of pink roses. On their return, they will reside in Natchez in their new home, a wedding gift of the bridegroom's parents.

The bride, a favorite in the younger set, was graduated from the Tallulah High school in May. She was elected queen of the recent Mardi Gras celebration in Tallulah. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Natchez High school and is associated with his father in business.

Among the out-of-town guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McGowan and Mrs. Annie LeNore Cassity of Rosedale, Miss; Dr. and

Mrs. Preston Herring and daughter, Helen, of Vicksburg; Mr. and Mrs. Chris Andersen and family; Mrs. A. E. Kincke, Mrs. Charles Kincke, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zuccaro and family; and Max Voss of Natchez.

Bagwell-Inzina Rites Performed In Bastrop

The marriage of Miss Josephine Inzina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Inzina and Auldon (Boots) Bagwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ona Bagwell, was impressively solemnized June 3 at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Bastrop Catholic church, with Father Walfrad Boesche officiating in the presence of the family and intimate friends.

Mrs. J. B. Spier, organist, rendered a pre-nuptial concert and accompanied Miss Jeanne Page, who sang "Ave Maria."

Mrs. Connie Petrus, the maid of honor, wore a beige crepe model with corsage of pink gladioli. Connie Petrus served as best man, and the bride's brothers, Phillip and Andrew Inzina, served as altar boys.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The reception suite was florally adorned with Madonna lilies and larkspur, overflowing from tall floor standards.

The bride and bridegroom cut the beautifully-embossed six-tiered wedding cake centering the lace-covered table in the dining room. Refreshing fruit frappe was served from a crystal bowl presided over by Mrs. Howard Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Bagwell left for a short honeymoon. Mrs. Bagwell traveled in a dusty pink model with navy blue accessories.

Miss Frieberg Presents Piano Pupils In Recital

Miss Clara Frieberg presented her piano pupils in first annual recital at the Georgia Tucker school auditorium, where the stage, banked with garden flowers, created a colorful setting for the youthful musicians.

Friends and relatives attending the recital applauded heartily the various numbers rendered with considerable skill. Each pupil displayed a cultivated touch, from softest pianissimo to powerful forte.

Miss Frieberg proved in this, her first recital, real ability as an instructor of piano. Future recitals will be looked forward to.

Mrs. O. H. Robbins entertained her class of girls of the Brown Sunday school Tuesday afternoon with a lawn party at her home.

Games were enjoyed and prizes given for the highest score. Mrs. Robbins, assisted by Mrs. R. L. Henderson and Mrs. V. L. Pendarvis, served frosted drinks and sandwiches to the following:

TREATMENT MAKES GREENER PASTURES

For greener pastures, Ouachita farmers are advised to use more conservation materials like phosphate and lime and to increase plantings of clovers and perennial grasses, D. L. Borman, Jr., parish agricultural agent, said yesterday in stating that now is the time to plan next year's pastures.

More and more farmers are taking advantage of the assistance provided under the department of agriculture's farm program to condition their soil with phosphate or lime and then are establishing pastures on this improved land which qualify for soil-building assistance payments under the program, according to Borman.

Lack of sufficient feed for farm animals has long been a problem in Louisiana agriculture and inadequacy of pasture has been one of the causes of the deficiency of meat and dairy products needed to provide many farm families of the state with better diets, the agent stated.

Soils lacking phosphate or lime do not produce enough pasture to assure proper growth or production of healthy cattle from which sufficient meat and dairy products of high nutritional value can be obtained, Mr. Borman said, inviting farmers to consult him about the clover and grass seed and soil-building material they need.

The longest chapter in the Bible is the 118th Psalm—176 verses.

The week beginning July 14 has been designated as the "Gay 90's Week," with the official costuming of all citizens changing accordingly.

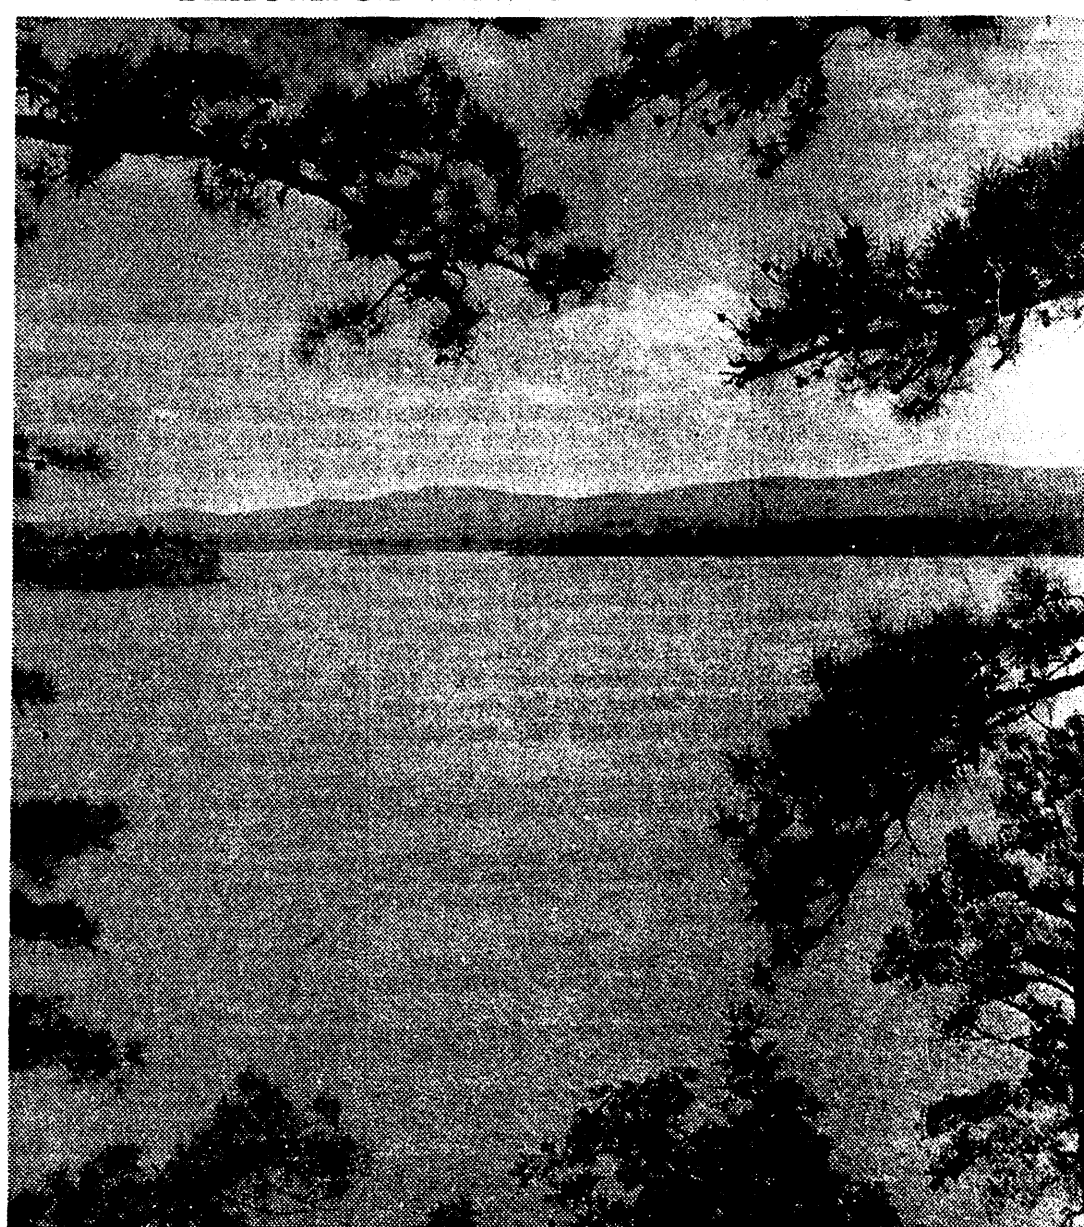

Over 1200 characters will participate in "Saga of Waters," nightly spectacle feature of the celebration, which portrays the highlights of Hot Springs' history over a 400-year period beginning with its discovery by Hernando DeSoto and his gold-seeking Spanish cavaliers.

Another feature of the celebration will be "Homecoming Day," when all former residents of the Spa will be honored with a special program.

Other special days and events will be announced.

BEAUTIFUL VIEW ON LAKE HAMILTON

BEAUTY HELPS ARE IMPORTANT

Experienced Travelers Give Care To Needed Items

A bright sun beating down, a wind off the ocean or river, dust in the air, mosquitoes and twigs that scratch are all part of a vacation that includes outdoors sports. They can mar an otherwise perfect vacation if no one thought to bring along a few well-chosen beauty aids.

The experienced traveler discovered long ago that a vacation must be the cosmetic kit because it holds beauty essentials and usually provides extra space for sun creams, tissues, compressed sponges, tooth brushes, insect-discouraging lotions, small soaps and powder mitt.

Every cosmetic house has its own particular version of the travel kit. One makes a hand-bag kit covered with alligator grain fabric and equipped with the necessary beauty aids. For keeping in the small travel case for overnight stops there is a little gold box filled with soap, refresher and makeup.

A second has a space-saving and handy tuckaway set with six beauty items, and a small charm chest containing cleaning items, cucumber cream and other beauty essentials.

Another has a kit designed to banish container breakage. Eight beauty aids are included. This house also offers a quick cleansing lotion which is appreciated after a dusty ride and its sunburn cream and lotions are summer vacation standards.

Still another offers the "Week-ender," a snap-fastened case in brown or burgundy, compact and containing makeup film, powder, rouge and lipstick and two creams and two lotions.

A fifth presents the Travelight kit, completely equipped with plastic containers for her popular Luxuria and other beauty aids. Travelers by air will like this one.

None of the kits mentioned is priced higher than $5 and some are less than $2. Assurance that skins and tempers will remain unruffled by the ravages of nature encountered on vacation.

SHORTAGE OF INTERNES

NEW YORK.—(P)—Dr. Willard Cole Rappley, city commissioner of hospitals, forecasts a shortage of internes in the United States because of the draft.

Ordinarily about 6,700 interneships open in the nation's hospitals each spring. Some 5,000 of these positions are filled by new medical school graduates, the rest by internes taking a second term in a larger hospital. This year many second-termers are being called into the army.

The George Washington bridge in New York City is the world's longest suspension bridge.

GAY DANCES IN MEXICO ARE BUT DAILY AFFAIRS

Each Local Or National Holiday Is Greeted By Music

Mexico dances every day of the year and tourists find that this love of music and dancing lends an air of incomparable gaiety to the already charming country.

Each local or national holiday, whether it is a civic or a religious origin, finds Mexico's music-loving citizens performing their many colorful and traditional dances.

Each part of Mexico is noted for its own particular type of ceremonial dance. In the Venado of Sonora, a typical dance of Northern Mexico, the dancers wear carved and painted masks with rattles banded about their fast-moving ankles. This aboriginal dance pattern depicts an Indian deer hunt.

An interesting dance of Southern Mexico is the Pluma, characteristic of Oaxaca. The performers are dressed as Spaniards and Indians, the latter wearing brightly colored feather headdresses. Tourists are fascinated by the dance, which climaxes in a mock struggle between the Spaniards and the Indians.

From the mountainous sections of Puebla and Veracruz comes the Volador, a spectacular flying dance. Around the waist of each dancer is a rope, the other end of which is firmly tied to a tall pole. Unlike our May-pole dances, where the participants skip around daintily, the Mexican dancers dive headlong into the air, widening the circles around the pole as the dance progresses. This ceremonial was originally dedicated to one of the gods of the fields.

Armadillo shell guitars are used to provide musical background for the Otomi dance, the Concheros, meaning "shell." This dance is always performed at Mexico's holiest shrines, Guadalupe, on Dec. 12, and Los Remedios, on Sept. 8. Pilgrims from all over Mexico come to worship at these two shrines and dancers gather from far and wide to perform the Concheros.

One of the most charming and well-known Mexican dances is the Jarabe. This is the dance in which the senorita steps rapidly around the rim of her partner's sombrero. Other dances are the Huapangos of Huasteca and the Jaranas of Yucatan, each accompanied by many variations and songs.

Tourists will find that everywhere in Mexico the Rumba and the Danzon are popular, whether they are danced in out-of-door halls, in native cabarets, or in fashionable night clubs. Music is always in the air in Mexico—and when there's music, there's dancing. The vitality of the Mexican people is well expressed in the numerous dances of the country.

HERBIE HOLMES AT BUENA VISTA HOTEL

An attractive summer program for vacationists and other visitors has been announced by F. M. Runnels, general manager of Hotel Buena Vista at Biloxi, Miss.

Besides the many attractions offered on the Gulf Coast, such as bathing, fishing, crabbing, sailing, etc., Mr. Runnels announced that Herbie Holmes and his nationally-known orchestra is playing nightly on the beautiful Buena Vista Deck, atop the hotel. The Holmes orchestra began its engagement on May 31.

Holmes, incidentally, is a southern boy, coming from Mississippi. He has had a phenomenal rise in musical circles and his orchestra is now listed among the "name bands" of the nation.

ISLAND NOT BAD

Many Beautiful Vacation Spots In Ouachita National Forest

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 7.—(Special)—Arkansas' scenic attractions and its recreational establishment, which inspired President Roosevelt several years ago to describe the state as the "Playground of the Midwest," have been augmented for the 1941 vacation season with opening of vast new areas in the Ouachita National forest in the west central section of the state, the State Publicity commission reported today.

The Ouachita country, separated from the Ozarks by the Arkansas valley, has been the scene of extensive recreational development by the federal government as well as the State Park commission and other correlated state agencies, the commission said.

The area, stretching from the center of the state near Little Rock, the capital, to the Oklahoma border, is commanded by the Ouachita mountains which boast the two highest ranges, between the Alleghenies and the Rockies. Its gateway from the East and South is Hot Springs National park. It now embraces two highly developed state parks, Petit Jean and Mt. Nebo, many beautiful scenic lakes designed for all water sports and stocked with fish from the world's largest hatchery nearby, numerous clear mountain streams, additional recreational areas, lakeside and mountain cottage colonies and a network of modern highways and skyways.

Rich mountain, in the western part of the area, has been called the "Adirondacks of the Midwest" and is now accessible over a newly opened Skyway constructed by the federal government. Mt. Magazine, highest elevation in the state, has recently opened a bathing and fishing lake halfway up its 2,800-foot peak.

The State Publicity commission anticipates 6,000,000 out-of-state visitors in Arkansas this year.

CAMP KI-RO-LI

The camp season opens with Scouts from Troop 1 Monroe; 43 Rayville; 33 Monroe; 23 Jonesboro and 29 Monroe registered to attend. There is still some room for more campers in this period. The second week (June 22-29) is overflowing with Troops 47 Ruston; 56 Tallulah; 3 Bastrop; 16 Farmerville and 13 West Monroe taking all available places. The third period is full with Troops 25 Lake Providence; 39 Oak Grove; 57 Delhi and 5 Mer Rouge taking over.

This is the largest registration we have had and indicates that Scouting is really moving along in our area. We regret that several of our Troops have shown no indication of doing any summer camping. Surely they will for it is very important that they do and certainly it should be done in the summer. If, for any reason, you and your troop do not attend Ki-Ro-Li then you should see to it that they do get at least one week of camping "on your own." We are always ready to help you work out your plans for such an activity. The important thing is that each Scout shall have an opportunity to go camping with his Troop and under conditions that are safe and sanitary.

"No nation can be great unless its sons and daughters have in them the quality to rise level to the needs of heroic days. Yet this heroic quality is but the apex of a pyramid of which the broad foundations must solidly rest on the performance of duties so ordinary that to impatient minds they seem commonplace."

GAY DANCES IN MEXICO ARE BUT DAILY AFFAIRS

Each Local Or National Holiday Is Greeted By Music

Mexico dances every day of the year and tourists find that this love of music and dancing lends an air of incomparable gaiety to the already charming country.

Each local or national holiday, whether it has a civic or a religious origin, finds Mexico's music-loving citizens performing their many colorful and traditional dances.

Each part of Mexico is noted for its own particular type of ceremonial dance. In the Venado of Sonora, the dancers wear carved and painted masks with rattles banded about their fast-moving ankles. This aboriginal dance pattern depicts an Indian deer hunt.

An interesting dance of Southern Mexico is the Pluma, characteristic of Oaxaca. The performers are dressed as Spaniards and Indians, the latter wearing brightly colored feather headpieces. Tourists are fascinated by the dance, which climaxes in a mock struggle between the Spaniards and the Indians.

From the mountainous sections of Puebla and Veracruz comes the Volador, a spectacular flying dance. Around the waist of each dancer is a rope, the other end of which is firmly tied to a tall pole. Unlike our May-pole dances, where the participants skip around daintily, the Mexican dancers dive headlong into the air, widening the circles around the pole as the dance progresses. This ceremonial was originally dedicated to one of the gods of the fields.

Armadillo shell guitars are used to provide musical background for the Otomi dance, the Concheros, meaning "shell." This dance is always performed at Mexico's holiest shrines, Guadalupe, on Dec. 12, and Los Remedios, on Sept. 8. Pilgrims from all over Mexico come to worship at these two shrines and dancers gather from far and wide to perform the Concheros.

One of the most charming and well-known Mexican dances is the Jarabe. This is the dance in which the senorita steps rapidly around the rim of her partner's sombrero. Other dances are the Huapangos of Huasteca and the Jaranas of Yucatan, each accompanied by many variations and songs.

Tourists will find that everywhere in Mexico the Rhumba and the Danzon are popular, whether they are danced in out-of-door halls, in native cabarets, or in fashionable night clubs. Music is always in the air in Mexico—and when there's music, there's dancing. The vitality of the Mexican people is well expressed in the numerous dances of the country.

ISLAND NOT BAD

Just Say, "Let's Go---Keep 'em Flying" A Tribute to the U. S. Army Recruiting Service 2nd ANNIVERSARY IN MONROE

Staff Sergeant McNemar Example Of Army Material

Staff Sergeant Harold B. McNemar, Monroe army recruiting officer, is an excellent example of a young man who has made good. It has not been through "pull" or the efforts of members of the family able to make his life easy for him. On the other hand it has been due solely to hard work, earnest determination to make good, and a goal that has been worth striving for that have made his success possible.

He was born in Louisiana, down in Bogalusa, and he is proud of the fact that he is a native of this state so rich in history and one that had so much to do toward the formation of the nation, the benefits of citizenship in which we today enjoy. He later moved to Memphis and there attended high school, making praiseworthy progress for he was always recognized as a very earnest boy and one who threw his whole heart and soul into the work that was his to perform.

From high school he got his first taste of army life when he enlisted May 1, 1930, in the army and was stationed at Fort Barrancas, Fla. He completed his enlistment period and realizing the need of higher education, he returned to school in Memphis in 1933. After two years he reenlisted on August 15, 1935, again in the United States army at Fort Barrancas. He made a creditable showing in the army and with the rank of corporal he was assigned June 5, 1939, to take charge of the Monroe United States army recruiting office.

From the start he made unusually excellent strides in this work, enlisting many young men who were encouraged to enter army life through the example of a young man who ever radiates the example of one who thoroughly enjoys his work, who is determined to put into it all that he possesses, and, with undying enthusiasm and patriotism, is determined to work for the good of his country, especially in times of stress and uncertainty like the present. He is an example of clean living, good habits and a forceful character that commands respect of everyone who contacts him.

March, 1941, he was given the rank of staff sergeant, and during the same month he married Miss Doris Virginia Smith, member of an old Monroe family.

HE RECRUITS YOUTH FOR UNCLE SAM

Since the permanent opening of the United States army recruiting office in Monroe, on Monday, June 5, 1939, it has been managed and directed by Staff Sergeant Harold B. McNemar (above), of the United States army recruiting service. He has just completed his second year with this service here. During the past two years, many hundreds of splendid young men from this sector have found their desired niche in the service of the regular army. Many of them are now making excellent progress in the national defense forces.

Shown herewith is Staff Sergeant H. B. McNemar standing beside the Camden poster which shows the new recruiting poster which is being widely displayed all over the United States by the war department to publicize the new household words which are being used to attract the attention of all qualified young men to the advantages offered in the flying cadet corps and regular army air corps today. Sergeant McNemar, in his official capacity, is urging the public in general to use the following slogans in greetings between friends: "Let's Go—Keep 'em Flying!"

FROM THE GROUND UP

Flying cadets in the United States air corps "get in on the ground floor" of aviation, literally. The class above is shown studying an airplane floor system. Hours in the air and hours on the ground will familiarize these cadets with both the construction and operation of the planes they fly to win their wings.

All Possible Pilots Are Needed For Air Corps

Sergeant McNemar, Recruiting Officer, Says
Material Is To Be Found Everywhere

"It's everyone's job!"
Thus Staff Sergeant Harold B. McNemar, army recruiter in Monroe, describes the gigantic task of building the power of the United States army air corps to match any in the world—a task being emphasized by the current army drive to secure pilots to man the planes of the rapidly expanding air force.

"The air corps needs all the pilots it can get, and before anyone is a pilot he's just a young man—a young man who lives in a town like Monroe. Why, there's probably a dozen future flying cadets walking around the streets here while I'm talking, or working in stores and offices and so forth," he said.

"These men will be flying cadets only after someone has told them that the air corps needs them, that they can get in on the ground floor of aviation right now, and get paid for it, too. They'll have to know about the need for flying cadets and they'll have to know what a flying cadet is, before they decide to try it. The only way they'll find out about these things, is through someone's telling them, either by word of mouth, or by writing them letters or giving them printed matter."

"That's why it's everyone's job." And this, Sergeant McNemar said, is also why the air corps is now advertising the slogan "Keep 'Em Flying!"

"He said it is up to everyone to see that young men who might be eligible to become flying cadets know what it is all about."

"Any young man who is healthy, unmarried and between the ages of 20 and 27 can apply. The army will determine if he is physically fit to fly, and the educational requirements are simply that he show proficiency in certain required subjects. He can either show that he has completed these subjects in college, or take an examination in the ones for which he does not have college credits."

Flying cadets are paid $15 a month while they are training. McNemar pointed out, and receive quarters, clothing, food and dental and medical care at the expense of the government. Upon completion of approximately seven and one half months of training, they receive from $205.50 to $245.50 a month on active duty as commissioned officers in the air corps reserve.

"When the air corps says 'Keep 'Em Flying' it doesn't just mean potential flying cadets. The air corps says it to everyone—to the families, the friends and the employers of young men who could be flying cadets and would want to be, if someone got the message to them."

Concluding, Sergeant McNemar smiled. "There's one other thing," he said. "The tag line on that 'Keep 'Em Flying' is—'Let's Go!'"

Air Corps Strikes Judge As Most Romantic Line

By Judge W. M. Harper
Being a member of selective service board No. 2 for Ouachita parish has given me a quickened interest in the preparations being made for our national defense.

Naturally all of us have our preferences, but to me the most romantic and interesting of all calls to service right now comes from the air corps.

So if I were called upon today to choose between the different branches of service, I would want to try for my "wings."

Unquestionably the airplane as a weapon of national defense is rapidly becoming the most important of the different phases of service. Air fighters have all but proven their mastery of naval fighters in the present war. Surely very slow improvement can be hoped for from naval fighting apparatus, but air fighting equipment seems but in its infancy and is destined to surpass the naval unit in future years. The air fighter of tomorrow, in my opinion, with the greatly improved additions that are bound to follow today's experiences, will blast any naval fighter out of the sea.

For the reasons shown, I firmly believe the air arm of our national defense will continue to hold the nation's closest attention. Hence this branch of the service has the most attractive inducements to young men entering the service and will afford to them their best opportunities for advancement.

Star Cast In Musical Film Here

Judy Canova Tops Outstanding Cast In Film Musical Comedy

WITH James Stewart and Paulette Goddard in the top stellar roles dishing out a million dollars worth of fun, laughter and romance, James Roosevelt's first Hollywood production, "Pot o' Gold," featuring the Horace Heidt band and its famous radio music, will have its local premiere at the Paramount theater today through United Artists release. George Marshall directed the picture and the cast supporting the stars features Charles Winninger, Mary Gordon and Jed Prouty.

Among the many sets built for "Pot o' Gold," the largest was the country club set, representing the veranda, lawns and arbors of a mythical Eastchester Country club. After two weeks of work by scores of carpenters, electricians, painters, sign painters and assorted technicians, this set occupied the area of a square city block.

The most spectacular scene photographed on this lavish set included 16 rhumba dancing couples, a 12-piece rhumba band, Horace Heidt's 30-piece band, and 100 dress extras seated at tables under the club's arbors sipping drinks and having a gay time. Among the special hit tunes sung and danced to in "Pot o' Gold," are "When Johnny Toots His Horn," "Knife, Fork and Spoon," "Peter, the Piper," "Broadway Caballero" and "Do You Believe in Fairy Tales?"

The musical scoring for the picture was done by Lou Forbes, the man who did the music for "Gone With the Wind" and "Rebecca," while Larry Ceballos, veteran of many a Broadway and Hollywood musical, directed the dance numbers. Jimmy Stewart had to learn to play the harmonica for this picture. Paulette Goddard had to learn the rhumba, and it is the first picture in which either has sung or played a musical instrument.

The story of "Pot o' Gold" concerns an eccentric millionaire whose food products are poorly advertised, his impecunious nephew and an equally impecunious band of musicians. The millionaire is played by Charles Winninger, while Stewart appears as the nephew. Miss Goddard meets Stewart when he gets mixed up with the band and its troubles. Their romance causes a merry mix-up for all concerned and provides a raft of fun and melody.

'Sis Hopkins' Here Today At Capitol

James Stewart, Paulette Goddard, Horace Heidt Feature Picture

JUDY CANOVA, sensational star of "Scatterbrain," rings the bell again with her latest musical comedy, "Sis Hopkins," which opens today at the Capitol theater to the plaudits of an enthusiastic audience which is expected to express intense satisfaction for this gay new offering.

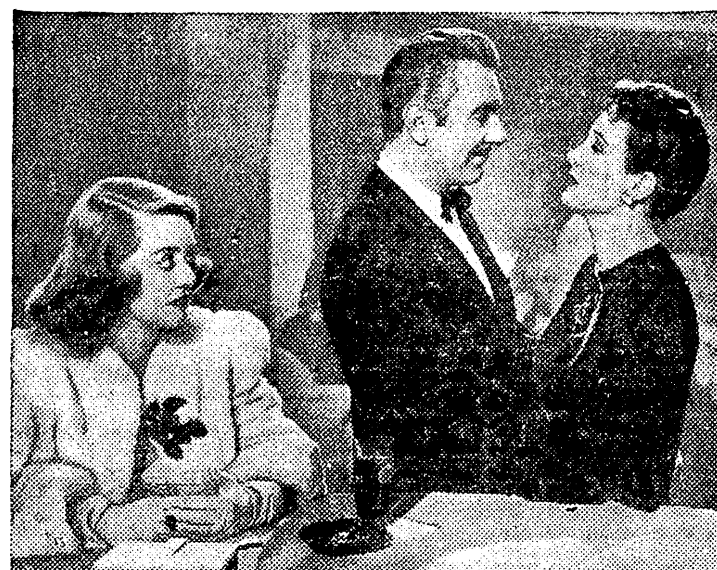

An even finer cast than characterizes most top-flight musicals is the just boast of "Sis Hopkins." The deadpan comic Charles Butterworth is seen as Uncle Horace, Sis Hopkins' henpecked uncle. Bob Crosby, bandleader and brother to Bing Crosby, portrays Jeff Farnsworth, charming Susan Hayward handles the role of Carol, Sis Hopkins' debutante cousin, with real finesse, and Jerry Colonna brings down the house with his inimitable portrayal of a goofy college professor. In the film Sis is seen as coming from her farm home to live with Uncle Horace and his family. Her sincerity and friendliness and lack of sophistication cause her to win the heart of Jeff Farnsworth, sweetheart of Sis' cousin, Carol. Carol retaliates by having Sis enroll in the local college in the hope that she will make an utter fool of herself. However, Sis takes the campus by storm and is chosen for a role in the college play for which Carol has set her cap. Carol's attempts to get Sis in dutch with the authorities and Sis' frantic effort to save herself bring the film to a fast and hilarious climax.

Credit for fine production values and brilliant casting are due Associate Producer Robert North. Jack Townley and Milt Gross wrote the screen-play from an original story by F. McGrew Willis and adaptation by Edward Eliscu. Joseph Santley directed.

A single ounce of gold can be beaten into such a thin layer that it will cover 146 square feet.

Sidney (Charley Chan) Toler heads a stellar cast in "Dead Men Tell," thriller playing Tuesday at the Capitol, and featuring Sheila Ryan, Robert Weldon, Sen Yung, Don Douglas and Katherine Aldridge. This is the story of a South Sea-bound treasure ship, the "Suva Star," and the hunt for a pirate's treasure.

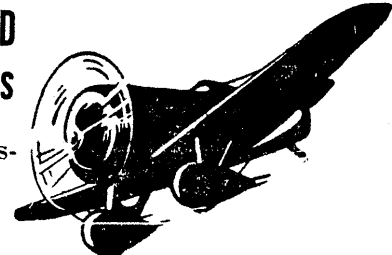

Bette Davis in "The Great Lie" plays Wednesday and Thursday at the Capitol with George Brent and Mary Astor as co-stars. Lucille Watson and Hattie McDaniel are in the supporting cast.

STEAMING THROUGH THE AMERICAN NEUTRALITY ZONE, THE UNSUSPECTING PASSENGER SHIP "QUEENSLAND" IS SUNK BY A BLACK COLUMN COMMERCIAL DESTROYER... HIDDEN ABOARD THE RAIDER, YANKEE DOODLE WATCHES AS THE LINER'S CAPTAIN AND HIS LIFEBOAT CREW ARE TAKEN PRISONER... FEARFUL THAT HER SEX WILL BE DISCOVERED, ONE OF THE PRISONERS, KATHERINE DARE, WHO IS DISGUISED AS A SAILOR, ATTEMPTS TO ESCAPE AND IS INTERCEPTED BY YANK...

SORRY I GRABBED YOU SO ROUGHLY, MISS... I THOUGHT YOU WERE ONE OF THE QUEENSLAND'S CREW!

WHEN WE WERE ORDERED ABOARD THE RAIDER, CAPTAIN MAC GILL SUGGESTED I PUT ON THESE DUNGAREES... HE THOUGHT I MIGHT BE SAFER DISGUISED AS A SAILOR!

I HAD TO ESCAPE BEFORE THEY LOCKED US UP! THERE MUST BE SOME THING I CAN DO TO STOP THESE DEVILS FROM SINKING ANY MORE WOMEN AND CHILDREN!

THAT'S WHAT I'M HERE FOR, TOO, MISS. LET'S WORK TOGETHER!

BY THE WAY... MY NAME IS KATHERINE DARE, BUT MY FRIENDS CALL ME "KAY"!

FINE! BUT LET'S GET GOING. WE MUST TRY TO FIND OUT WHAT NEW DIRTY WORK THESE RAIDERS ARE UP TO!

WE'LL SLIP UP TO THE BRIDGE. I'VE FOUND A SPOT WHERE WE CAN OVERHEAR WHAT'S SAID!

WE'RE HEADIN' FOR OUR BASE IN THE GALAPAGOS ISLANDS. THE COMMANDER'S GOING TO PUT THIS NEW BATCH OF PRISONERS ASHORE WITH THE OTHERS!

I'D HATE TO BE IN THEIR BOOTS... THAT PLACE IS WORSE THAN DEVILS ISLAND!

SO THAT'S THEIR PLAN! WE MUST GET IN TOUCH WITH CAPTAIN MAC GILL!

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO DO THAT, YANK?

I'M GOING TO GET RID OF THE GUARD. IT'S DARK DOWN BY THE BRIG AND I THINK THIS BLACK COLUMN UNIFORM OF MINE WILL DO THE TRICK!

I'LL WAIT HERE, YANK!... GOOD LUCK!

I HAVE ORDERS TO RELIEVE YOU. REPORT TO THE BOATSWAIN AT ONCE!

OKAY! TAKE MY RIFLE!

...AND I MUST TALK FAST, CAPTAIN MAC GILL... THEY WILL LAND YOU ON THE PRISON ISLAND... I WILL GET TO YOU SOMEHOW... HAVE YOUR MEN READY!

AYE, LAD!

TAIL BOOM

RETRACTABLE LANDING-GEAR

Introduced just prior to the death of its brilliant designer, the D-23 single-seater fighter is a monument to Tony Fokker's progressive genius. In this machine, he anticipated the lessons since learned in months of bitter aerial blitzkrieg. The D-23 seems to have everything the modern fighter requires. It features heavy armament, a completely armored cockpit, which also contains the main fuel tank, retractable, tri-cycle landing gear and twin, tandem engines, whose propellers revolve counter to each other to eliminate torque. Twin Browning FN auto-cannons are mounted in the tail-booms. They fire 13.2 mm. explosive shells at a rate of 1,000 per minute. The rifle caliber fuselage guns fire 1,300 rounds per minute.
